Two Crashes Bring Injuries To Three Persons in County

Two Women Are Hurt at Marbletown on Curve—Peebles Arrested

Three persons were hospitalized and four others were treated for injuries as a result of two similar head-on automobile collisions in this county on Thursday.

State police said both accidents occurred on curves, one on Route 209 at Marbletown, and the other on Route 44-45 three miles west of Highland. Arrests were made in both cases.

Injured in the Marbletown accident about 5:30 p. m., Thursday were Mrs. Lena Houck, 27, of Ellenville, and Mrs. Helen Daniels, 28, of Kerhonkson, state police said. Conditions of both were reported as "fair" at the Benedictine Hospital today.

Troopers reported Mrs. Houck received multiple cuts, a dislocated hip and possible skull fracture, and Mrs. Daniels received cuts about the lip and mouth.

Mrs. Daniels was driving the automobile in which Mrs. Houck was riding and which was struck head-on by another vehicle driven

Carpenters Back Newkirk and Kelly

Hudson Valley Council Is Behind Republicans in November Election

At a meeting of the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, A.F. of L., held Thursday evening that group adopted a resolution endorsing Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly for re-election. The endorsement, as was recently done by other construction groups, is based on their platform for favoring a public housing project.

The resolution adopted at the meeting is as follows:

"Whereas: Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk having appointed a Public Housing Authority during his first term in office, and

"Whereas: The proposals advanced by the Authority were defeated because of the solid opposition of the Democratic members of the Common Council, and

Housing Stand Praised

"Whereas: Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly campaigned for re-election on a platform renewing their support of a Public Housing project and were re-elected, and

"Be It Resolved, That:

"This District Council of Carpenters endorses Oscar V. Newkirk for re-election as Mayor and endorses Joseph Kelly for re-election as Alderman-at-Large of the City of Kingston.

Walkout Prevented

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) approval of a $39 to $50 monthly pay raise for ship radio operators apparently has prevented a threatened walkout. A spokesman for the CIO-American Radio Association said last night the operators "probably" would sign on ships delayed in sailing. However, he said, the WSB action was not entirely satisfactory because it did not grant the retroactivity sought by the union. The board voted 8 to 4 yesterday to make the pay raise effective Sept. 1 instead of last June as the union wanted. Industry members who dissented said they would issue an opinion today.

Diver Finds Deep Hole in River Bed

Malden-on-Hudson, Oct. 12 (AP)—A 26-foot-deep hole in the Hudson river bottom, undetected in the hundreds of years of constant navigation of the waterway, has been discovered accidentally near here.

The size of the uncharted deep is unknown but it is at least large enough to hide a 50-foot sunken tugboat.

A diver found the hole—and the tugboat which had been sought vainly for more than a month after it sank one half-mile from shore and about the same distance south of this town.

The hole is 76 feet below the river's surface and does not appear on any of the government river charts.

Cut in Metals Lies Ahead for Use in House Appliances

Slash to Be 11½ Per Cent Starting January 1 and Output Is to Be Lower

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Defense Production Administration said today the use of metal in making household appliances and other consumer hard goods will be cut about 11½ per cent starting Jan. 1.

The cutback was disclosed by DPA Administrator Manly Fleischmann, at a joint hearing of four congressional committees.

Civilian output will be "moderately lower" in the first quarter of next year, Fleischmann said, adding that some "less essential" products using critically scarce copper and aluminum will be "very drastically curtailed."

He did not specify the items, but they were understood to include goods like venetian blinds, and house wares of the type in which plastics or other substitutes could be used.

But there will be no "death sentence orders," or outright prohibitions on the use of basic materials in any such products, Fleischmann said, explaining:

"It is our belief that it is preferable to permit all manufacturers * * * to operate at low levels rather than to put some of them out of business entirely * * *

"In this way there is a greater opportunity for them to be ready to use materials when they come into greater supply."

Fleischmann outlined the plans for the metals curbs after Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson testified the first half of 1952 will be the toughest period for materials shortages in the rearmament drive.

"We will be moving through a wood of shade and sometimes darkness," in those months, he told the combined Senate-House Banking and Small Business Committees.

Wilson predicted easier days starting with the midyear, however, unless "we are confronted by new aggressions" or other worsened international conditions.

Will Pay on Autos

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House yesterday a bill under which the government will pay up to $1,600 on the price of automobiles for some disabled Korean war veterans. The measures also authorizes cars for some World War 2 disabled veterans who have not been eligible for them before.

Trial Date Set In $100,000 Case

New York, Oct. 12 (Special)—Trial of a suit to recover $100,000 from Neil and Madelon Brady of Bearsville, brought by a wealthy Greenwich, Conn., woman who charges she was defrauded by the Bearsville couple, has been set for October 25 in State Supreme Court here.

The trial date was set simultaneously with a move by attorneys for the plaintiff, Vive Shaw-Kennedy, to consolidate with the action a suit she originally brought in Ulster County Supreme Court to recover a quantity of "trunks, clothing, and manuscripts" allegedly held by the Bradys at their Bearsville home.

The Ulster action was ordered transferred to the Manhattan court by Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth in Kingston recently. Attorneys for the plaintiff pointed out that it will take some time before the action can be brought to trial unless it is combined with the $100,000 action. Justice Thomas A. Aurelio reserved decision.

The Greenwich woman charged in her complaint that she gave the Bradys $100,000 on their unfulfilled promise to use the assets to set up a firm, Vive-Lon Publishers, to publish children's book.

Fiscal Sources Predicting Dewey Budget Will Balance

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—State tax revenues are running $81,500,000 higher than a year ago.

Administration fiscal sources predicted today that Governor Dewey's record "billion-dollar" budget would be balanced comfortably.

They were chary, however, on speculation of a sizeable surplus. The 1951-52 budget provided for at least a $70,000,000 increase in spending.

The financial experts seem sure now there will be no state deficit as in 1950 and 1951, both about $9,000,000. In the past, Dewey's surpluses have ranged from $2,275,000 in 1949 to as high as $187,700,000 in 1946.

During the first half of the 1951-52 fiscal year (April 1-Sept. 30), the State Tax Department collected $561,123,367, compared to $479,601,545 a year ago.

The tax revenue is 17 per cent greater than it was last year and nine per cent above estimated income for 1951-52.

Governor Dewey estimated total revenue for 1951-52 at $959,775,000—eight per cent more than the actual revenue of $881,700,000 for 1950-51.

The $81,500,000 increase in tax revenues for the first half of the fiscal year does not mean the increase for the entire fiscal year will be double that.

The state usually collects the greatest share of its personal income and business taxes in the first quarter of the fiscal year (April 1-June 30).

Actually, Governor Dewey's 1951-52 budget is not a billion-dollars.

Although listed appropriations total $999,700,000, the "tax budget" is $952,000,000. The $47,000,000 difference represents deficiency appropriations for 1950-51, which were paid from 1950-51 revenue, and not from 1951-52 income.

The deficiency appropriations had to be carried in the 1951-52 budget as a "bookkeeping" requirement to get them on record because they were not included in the original 1950-51 budget.

Tax Boosts Favored by Two Groups

Alternate Offered

Higher Incomes Get Option of Paying 9 Per Cent More

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP) — A $5,750,000,000 tax increase which among other things would boost the levy on most individual incomes by about 11¾ per cent was approved yesterday by a Senate-House Conference Committee.

The measure is scheduled for House action next Tuesday. It then will go to the Senate. Approval by both is anticipated.

In addition to the income tax rise—effective Nov. 1—the bill calls for sharp increases in the excise taxes on whisky, beer, wine, cigarettes, gasoline, automobiles and a number of other articles.

Corporation taxes are jumped by upward of $2,300,000,000, retrocative to last April 1.

In many aspects, particularly in estimated revenue yield, the bill is closer to the $5,400,000,000 measure passed by the Senate than the $7,200,000,000 version voted by the House. Nevertheless a number of key House provisions were included in the compromise, worked out after sessions spreading over nine days.

The bill provides only a little more than half the $10,000,000,000 additional income which President Truman said represents the government's minimum needs.

Increase Since Korea

With enactment of this bill, the tax load will have been increased some $15,575,000,000 since the start of the Korean war.

The individual income tax increases are integrated into the regular bracket rates, as a result of rounding off the figures to produce even numbers in the rates, the increase for most taxpayers actually varies from 11½ per cent to about 12 per cent.

A single person earning $4,000 a year (after deductions for interest, taxes, contributions, etc., but before his personal exemption) will pay $790.40 a year in federal income taxes instead of his present $708 obligation. A married couple with two dependents and an income of $8,000 will owe $1,285.60 instead of $1,152.

An alternative tax increase is offered persons in the higher income brackets. They have an option of paying an additional 9 per cent on the amount of their income remaining after payment of taxes at existing rates. This alternative is advantageous to single persons with an income of $28,800 or more and married couples above $57,600.

Granted Half Benefits

For the first time, single persons who are heads of households are granted half the tax benefits available to married couples under the income splitting provisions of the tax laws.

Greylock Gets Snow

North Adams, Mass., Oct. 12 (AP)—Six inches of snow fell last night on Mount Greylock and roads to the mountain top were impassable today for automobiles without tire chains. A two-inch fall on the Mohawk Trail was gone this morning after state highway crews were called out for the first time this season. The temperature on the mountain dropped to 24 degrees, the coldest this fall.

Speedy Action Is Expected on Bill For Foreign Aid

Republicans Lose Efforts on Amendments as Final Vote Is Taken

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—The $8,299,255,096 foreign aid bill passed by the House yesterday appears set for speedy handling in the Senate.

With congressional leaders plumping for final adjournment not later than a week from tomorrow, the Senate Appropriations Committee started hearings on the measure even before the House voted.

Administration lieutenants predicted a clear track in the Senate.

Republican opposition to the big bill melted last night at the end of a nine-hour House session during which every proposal to chop the funds was defeated.

The money is intended to help non-Communist nations build up their military and economic muscles to resist Soviet aggression.

It includes $816,727,306 appropriated in previous years but not yet spent on the vast aid program. Of this carryover, approximately $566,000,000 is in European military aid funds.

All the money would be available for expenditure during the year ending next June 30, but not all of it is expected to be spent during that period.

Amendments Offered, Lost

Republicans offered six amendments to cut the funds further and were defeated on all of them.

The final vote that sent the bill to the Senate was 221 to 99, with 69 Republicans and one Independent joining 151 Democrats. Passage was opposed by 81 Republicans and 18 Democrats.

Republicans aimed their economy drive at funds earmarked for Europe.

As it left the House the bill contained these new appropriations, in addition to the carryover funds not earmarked specifically:

Europe: $5,072,476,271 military and $1,022,000,000 economic aid.

Near East and Africa: $396,250,000 military and $160,000,000 economic aid.

Asia and the Pacific: $535,250,000 military and $237,155,866 economic aid.

American republics: $38,150,000 military and $21,245,653 economic aid.

$103,751 Pledged For Fund, Workers Report at Dinner

Session at Auditorium Is Well Attended by Committees—Starts Campaign

Bad weather did not prevent a large number of workers from attending the "kick-off" meeting and dinner Thursday evening at the municipal auditorium when workers in the Benedictine Hospital Fund campaign were given final instructions prior to starting out to canvass for the $600,000 needed to complete the hospital addition now under construction.

Although cards had not been given and no solicitation had been made by the workers of prospective contributors, a total of $103,751.20 was reported pledged. Announcement of this brought applause from the workers who will now start out on their canvass.

Special Gifts Report

The Special Gifts Committee reported contributions of $69,451.20 to date.

Allen Baker, chairman of the Clubs and Organizations group, reported a total of $25,300. Of this the Benedictine Nurses Alumnae has pledged $10,000, Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital $12,000, Kingston Lions Club $2,100 and the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus $1,200.

Electrol Pledges $9,000

A report just received stated that there had been received a pledge from Electrol Inc., of $9,000. Bringing the total pledged up until Thursday evening $103,751.20.

More than 200 workers were seated when James A. Dwyer, chairman of the campaign, arose and welcomed the group and then turned the meeting over to Roger H. Loughran, who as chairman of the initial gift committee, presided as toastmaster.

Following the invocation by Msgr. Martin J. Drury, Loughran

GOP Amendment Seen as Economy for Everyone in State

An amendment to obtain a lower interest rate on state Thruway bonds by allowing the state of New York to back them was endorsed by officers and directors of Ulster County Chapter, New York Good Roads Association, Inc., at a luncheon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

The association's resolution urged a "yes" vote for Constitutional Amendment No. 4 which will appear on voting machines this Nov. 6.

Bi-partisan support was claimed by the association for the amendment which, if passed, will ultimately save $120,000,000 in interest payments and will release state funds, making them available for other highway construction.

For Further Use

It was pointed out by Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks, a guest at the meeting, that under the amendment all moneys heretofore advanced by the state for Thruway construction will be returned to the state for further road construction use.

Passage of the amendment, therefore, will not restrict other highway construction, but "means expanding the road construction program—and immediately," Senator Wicks said.

Assemblyman John F. Wadlin, also a guest, told the group he was "generally in favor of pledging the state credit to a bond issue where it is going to save money."

Circulars Are Mailed

Senator Wicks noted that leaflets prepared by the New York Good Roads Association urging a vote of "yes" on the amendment have been mailed by the Ulster County Republican Central Committee to all enrolled Republican voters of the county.

Kelly Case to Be First

Second Trial of Alleged Slayer Is Planned as Initial Case at November Court

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn intends to move for trial as the first criminal case on the calendar at the November term of County Court, the first degree murder indictment against Edward H. Kelly, charged with the shooting of Mrs. Eloise McHugh on May 22, 1950.

Kelly was once tried for the crime and a guilty verdict was returned by the jury. The conviction was reversed by the Court of Appeals and a new trial granted. Kelly who was in Sing Sing prison awaiting execution in the electric chair, was returned to the Ulster county jail where he is now confined pending re-trial of the murder charge.

Whitman Knapp of New York and Howard C. St. John of this city have been assigned as counsel for the defendant.

The November trial term opens on Monday, November 5, and it is expected the trial will be moved shortly thereafter.

An application to have the trial removed from Ulster county for trial was denied by Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth. That application was made by defense counsel.

Russia Stipulates Points On Italo Peace Revision

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP) — The State Department gave notice today that regardless of Russian objections the west intends to go ahead with plans to revise the Italian Peace Treaty.

The State Department made public a Soviet note attacking the revision plan announced by the big three western foreign ministers.

At the same time the department made it plain that Moscow's objections will not be permitted to delay western plans.

In publishing the Soviet protest, delivered yesterday in Moscow, the State Department said in a bluntly worded statement:

1. Russia failed to recognize acknowledge that the spirit of the treaty "no longer accords with Italy's present status as an active and equal member of the Democratic and freedom-loving family of nations."

2. It disregards all that Italy has accomplished since the war.

3. Moscow "attributes to that honorable and peace-loving nation intentions as unfounded as they are absurd."

Noting that Russia's price for going along with revision was Italian separation from the North Atlantic Alliance, the department said that "presumably. such presentation, the Soviet Union would contemplate for Italy a status of subjugation-comparable to that of its satellites in Eastern Europe."

Russia Makes Points

Moscow, Oct. 12 (AP) — Russia announced last night that Italy must quit the Atlantic Alliance and bar foreign military forces from her soil before the Soviets will agree to revision of the Italian Peace Treaty.

A Russian note to the Big Three western powers also set a second condition for Russian agreement to the treaty revision

Pair Leave AlliedCamp For Session

U. S. Air Force Begins Check to See How True Statement Is by Reds

Incident Brings Report by UN Spokesmen on Neutral Zone

Musan, Korea, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Reds summoned allied liaison officers to Kaesong tonight to investigate new neutrality violation charges.

The call came as the Reds and allies appeared near agreement on reopening truce talks at a new site, Panmunjon, six air miles southeast of Kaesong.

The Reds charged that a United Nations plane attacked the Kaesong neutral zone at 5:35 p. m. (3:35 a. m. E.S.T.).—Only an hour and a half after the truce meeting ended at Panmunjon.

They made the charge over the radio-telephone circuit linking the UN advance peace camp at Munsan with Kaesong, original site of truce talks which the Reds broke off Aug. 23 because of an asserted allied plane attack.

Air force Col. Don C. Darrow and army Lt. Col. Norman B. Edwards left the allied peace camp by jeep at 8 p. m. for Kaesong.

Simultaneously, a UN spokesman said, the U. S. Air Force began checking to see if any allied plane could have been in the area.

Charges of violations of the Kaesong neutral zone were the mean reason for moving the talks.

Major Stumbling Block

The size of the protected area to be maintained around Kaesong in the future appeared today to be a major stumbling block in the path of resuming armistice negotiations.

The new Red charge—which could disrupt preparations for renewing negotiations—was telephoned at 7 p. m. The Reds gave the time, place, extent of damage and nature of the asserted attack. The UN command did not announce whether it was supposed to have been bombing, machine-gunning or fire bombing.

A UN command spokesman said the Reds never had been informed officially that the five-mile neutral zone no longer existed. He added:

"This gives us an implied obligation to respect it."

To Obtain Story

He said all that could be hoped for Friday night was to obtain the Communists' story and "lay the ground work" for a full investigation if the asserted incident appeared to have some basis in fact.

The complaint was the 14th in a long list of Red charges.

The UN officers driving to Kaesong to make the investigation jeeped through the village of Panmunjom where other liaison officers met earlier in the day trying to clear the way for reopening truce negotiations.

A United Nations spokesman said the major remaining question was the size of security areas to be drawn around the United Nations advance peace camp at Munsan and the Red headquarters at Kaesong.

The liaison officers scheduled another meeting for 10 a. m. Saturday (8 p. m. Friday, EST) at Panmunjom.

A UN spokesman said they will try to straighten things out then.

A UN announcement said the Reds today proposed small circular neutral areas surrounding the new conference site in the Panmunjom area and the allied camp at Munsan. The five mile neutral area around Kaesong would be left unchanged.

Counterproposal Submitted

The announcement said the allies submitted a counterproposal which would give "both base camp areas equal security."

"If this point is not settled, we are a long way from opening the talks," said Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, spokesman for the UN command. "If the point is settled, I believe we certainly are on the verge of resuming the talks.

"However, that is such a big 'if' that it would be presumptuous to say that the talks are close to starting again."

Nuckols said liaison officers had agreed truce talks should be held in a large tent the Communists

Administration fiscal sources predicted today that Governor Dewey's record "billion-dollar" budget would be balanced comfortably.

They were chary, however, on speculation of a sizeable surplus. The 1951-52 budget provided for at least a $70,000,000 increase in spending.

The financial experts seem sure now there will be no state deficit as in 1950 and 1951, both about $9,000,000. In the past, Dewey's surpluses have ranged from $2,275,000 in 1949 to as high as $187,700,000 in 1946.

During the first half of the 1951-52 fiscal year (April 1-Sept. 30), the State Tax Department collected $561,123,367, compared to $479,601,545 a year ago.

The tax revenue is 17 per cent greater than it was last year and nine per cent above estimated income for 1951-52.

Governor Dewey estimated total revenue for 1951-52 at $959,775,000—eight per cent more than the actual revenue of $881,700,000 for 1950-51.

The $81,500,000 increase in tax revenues for the first half of the fiscal year does not mean the increase for the entire fiscal year will be double that.

The state usually collects the greatest share of its personal income and business taxes in the first quarter of the fiscal year (April 1-June 30).

Actually, Governor Dewey's 1951-52 budget is not a billion-dollars.

Although listed appropriations total $999,700,000, the "tax budget" is $952,000,000. The $47,000,000 difference represents deficiency appropriations for 1950-51, which were paid from 1950-51 revenue, and not from 1951-52 income.

The deficiency appropriations had to be carried in the 1951-52 budget as a "bookkeeping" requirement to get them on record because they were not included in the original 1950-51 budget.

Sharp Increase Called in Excise Taxes on Liquor, Tobacco and Gasoline

Alternate Offered

Higher Incomes Get Option of Paying 9 Per Cent More

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP) — A $5,750,000,000 tax increase which among other things would boost the levy on most individual incomes by about 11¾ per cent was approved yesterday by a Senate-House Conference Committee.

The measure is scheduled for House action next Tuesday. It then will go to the Senate. Approval by both is anticipated.

In addition to the income tax rise—effective Nov. 1—the bill calls for sharp increases in the excise taxes on whisky, beer, wine, cigarettes, gasoline, automobiles and a number of other articles.

Corporation taxes are jumped by upward of $2,300,000,000, retrocative to last April 1.

In many aspects, particularly in estimated revenue yield, the bill is closer to the $5,400,000,000 measure passed by the Senate than the $7,200,000,000 version voted by the House. Nevertheless a number of key House provisions were included in the compromise, worked out after sessions spreading over nine days.

The bill provides only a little more than half the $10,000,000,000 additional income which President Truman said represents the government's minimum needs.

Increase Since Korea

With enactment of this bill, the tax load will have been increased some $15,575,000,000 since the start of the Korean war.

The individual income tax increases are integrated into the regular bracket rates, as a result of rounding off the figures to produce even numbers in the rates, the increase for most taxpayers actually varies from 11½ per cent to about 12 per cent.

A single person earning $4,000 a year (after deductions for interest, taxes, contributions, etc., but before his personal exemption) will pay $790.40 a year in federal income taxes instead of his present $708 obligation. A married couple with two dependents and an income of $8,000 will owe $1,285.60 instead of $1,152.

An alternative tax increase is offered persons in the higher income brackets. They have an option of paying an additional 9 per cent on the amount of their income remaining after payment of taxes at existing rates. This alternative is advantageous to single persons with an income of $28,800 or more and married couples above $57,600.

Granted Half Benefits

For the first time, single persons who are heads of households are granted half the tax benefits available to married couples under the income splitting provisions of the tax laws.

Greylock Gets Snow

North Adams, Mass., Oct. 12 (AP)—Six inches of snow fell last night on Mount Greylock and roads to the mountain top were impassable today for automobiles without tire chains. A two-inch fall on the Mohawk Trail was gone this morning after state highway crews were called out for the first time this season. The temperature on the mountain dropped to 24 degrees, the coldest this fall.

Speedy Action Is Expected on Bill For Foreign Aid

Republicans Lose Efforts on Amendments as Final Vote Is Taken

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—The $8,299,255,096 foreign aid bill passed by the House yesterday appears set for speedy handling in the Senate.

With congressional leaders plumping for final adjournment not later than a week from tomorrow, the Senate Appropriations Committee started hearings on the measure even before the House voted.

Administration lieutenants predicted a clear track in the Senate.

Republican opposition to the big bill melted last night at the end of a nine-hour House session during which every proposal to chop the funds was defeated.

The money is intended to help non-Communist nations build up their military and economic muscles to resist Soviet aggression.

It includes $816,727,306 appropriated in previous years but not yet spent on the vast aid program. Of this carryover, approximately $566,000,000 is in European military aid funds.

All the money would be available for expenditure during the year ending next June 30, but not all of it is expected to be spent during that period.

Amendments Offered, Lost

Republicans offered six amendments to cut the funds further and were defeated on all of them.

The final vote that sent the bill to the Senate was 221 to 99, with 69 Republicans and one Independent joining 151 Democrats. Passage was opposed by 81 Republicans and 18 Democrats.

Republicans aimed their economy drive at funds earmarked for Europe.

As it left the House the bill contained these new appropriations, in addition to the carryover funds not earmarked specifically:

Europe: $5,072,476,271 military and $1,022,000,000 economic aid.

Near East and Africa: $396,250,000 military and $160,000,000 economic aid.

Asia and the Pacific: $535,250,000 military and $237,155,866 economic aid.

American republics: $38,150,000 military and $21,245,653 economic aid.

Session at Auditorium Is Well Attended by Committees—Starts Campaign

Bad weather did not prevent a large number of workers from attending the "kick-off" meeting and dinner Thursday evening at the municipal auditorium when workers in the Benedictine Hospital Fund campaign were given final instructions prior to starting out to canvass for the $600,000 needed to complete the hospital addition now under construction.

Although cards had not been given and no solicitation had been made by the workers of prospective contributors, a total of $103,751.20 was reported pledged. Announcement of this brought applause from the workers who will now start out on their canvass.

Special Gifts Report

The Special Gifts Committee reported contributions of $69,451.20 to date.

Allen Baker, chairman of the Clubs and Organizations group, reported a total of $25,300. Of this the Benedictine Nurses Alumnae has pledged $10,000, Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital $12,000, Kingston Lions Club $2,100 and the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus $1,200.

Electrol Pledges $9,000

A report just received stated that there had been received a pledge from Electrol Inc., of $9,000. Bringing the total pledged up until Thursday evening $103,751.20.

More than 200 workers were seated when James A. Dwyer, chairman of the campaign, arose and welcomed the group and then turned the meeting over to Roger H. Loughran, who as chairman of the initial gift committee, presided as toastmaster.

Following the invocation by Msgr. Martin J. Drury, Loughran

GOP Amendment Seen as Economy for Everyone in State

An amendment to obtain a lower interest rate on state Thruway bonds by allowing the state of New York to back them was endorsed by officers and directors of Ulster County Chapter, New York Good Roads Association, Inc., at a luncheon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

The association's resolution urged a "yes" vote for Constitutional Amendment No. 4 which will appear on voting machines this Nov. 6.

Bi-partisan support was claimed by the association for the amendment which, if passed, will ultimately save $120,000,000 in interest payments and will release state funds, making them available for other highway construction.

For Further Use

It was pointed out by Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks, a guest at the meeting, that under the amendment all moneys heretofore advanced by the state for Thruway construction will be returned to the state for further road construction use.

Passage of the amendment, therefore, will not restrict other highway construction, but "means expanding the road construction program—and immediately," Senator Wicks said.

Assemblyman John F. Wadlin, also a guest, told the group he was "generally in favor of pledging the state credit to a bond issue where it is going to save money."

Circulars Are Mailed

Senator Wicks noted that leaflets prepared by the New York Good Roads Association urging a vote of "yes" on the amendment have been mailed by the Ulster County Republican Central Committee to all enrolled Republican voters of the county.

Kelly Case to Be First

Second Trial of Alleged Slayer Is Planned as Initial Case at November Court

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn intends to move for trial as the first criminal case on the calendar at the November term of County Court, the first degree murder indictment against Edward H. Kelly, charged with the shooting of Mrs. Eloise McHugh on May 22, 1950.

Kelly was once tried for the crime and a guilty verdict was returned by the jury. The conviction was reversed by the Court of Appeals and a new trial granted. Kelly who was in Sing Sing prison awaiting execution in the electric chair, was returned to the Ulster county jail where he is now confined pending re-trial of the murder charge.

Whitman Knapp of New York and Howard C. St. John of this city have been assigned as counsel for the defendant.

The November trial term opens on Monday, November 5, and it is expected the trial will be moved shortly thereafter.

An application to have the trial removed from Ulster county for trial was denied by Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth. That application was made by defense counsel.

Russia Stipulates Points On Italo Peace Revision

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP) — The State Department gave notice today that regardless of Russian objections the west intends to go ahead with plans to revise the Italian Peace Treaty.

The State Department made public a Soviet note attacking the revision plan announced by the big three western foreign ministers.

At the same time the department made it plain that Moscow's objections will not be permitted to delay western plans.

In publishing the Soviet protest, delivered yesterday in Moscow, the State Department said in a bluntly worded statement:

1. Russia failed to recognize acknowledge that the spirit of the treaty "no longer accords with Italy's present status as an active and equal member of the Democratic and freedom-loving family of nations."

2. It disregards all that Italy has accomplished since the war.

3. Moscow "attributes to that honorable and peace-loving nation intentions as unfounded as they are absurd."

Noting that Russia's price for going along with revision was Italian separation from the North Atlantic Alliance, the department said that "presumably, such presentation, the Soviet Union would contemplate for Italy a status of subjugation-comparable to that of its satellites in Eastern Europe."

Russia Makes Points

Moscow, Oct. 12 (AP) — Russia announced last night that Italy must quit the Atlantic Alliance and bar foreign military forces from her soil before the Soviets will agree to revision of the Italian Peace Treaty.

A Russian note to the Big Three western powers also set a second condition for Russian agreement to the treaty revision

U. S. Air Force Begins Check to See How True Statement Is by Reds

Incident Brings Report by UN Spokesmen on Neutral Zone

Musan, Korea, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Reds summoned allied liaison officers to Kaesong tonight to investigate new neutrality violation charges.

The call came as the Reds and allies appeared near agreement on reopening truce talks at a new site, Panmunjon, six air miles southeast of Kaesong.

The Reds charged that a United Nations plane attacked the Kaesong neutral zone at 5:35 p. m. (3:35 a. m. E.S.T.).—Only an hour and a half after the truce meeting ended at Panmunjon.

They made the charge over the radio-telephone circuit linking the UN advance peace camp at Munsan with Kaesong, original site of truce talks which the Reds broke off Aug. 23 because of an asserted allied plane attack.

Air force Col. Don C. Darrow and army Lt. Col. Norman B. Edwards left the allied peace camp by jeep at 8 p. m. for Kaesong.

Simultaneously, a UN spokesman said, the U. S. Air Force began checking to see if any allied plane could have been in the area.

Major Stumbling Block

The size of the protected area to be maintained around Kaesong in the future appeared today to be a major stumbling block in the path of resuming armistice negotiations.

The new Red charge—which could disrupt preparations for renewing negotiations—was telephoned at 7 p. m. The Reds gave the time, place, extent of damage and nature of the asserted attack. The UN command did not announce whether it was supposed to have been bombing, machine-gunning or fire bombing.

A UN command spokesman said the Reds never had been informed officially that the five-mile neutral zone no longer existed. He added: "This gives us an implied obligation to respect it."

To Obtain Story

He said all that could be hoped for Friday night was to obtain the Communists' story and "lay the ground work" for a full investigation if the asserted incident appeared to have some basis in fact.

The complaint was the 14th in a long list of Red charges.

The UN officers driving to Kaesong to make the investigation jeeped through the village of Panmunjom where other liaison officers met earlier in the day trying to clear the way for reopening truce negotiations.

A United Nations spokesman said the major remaining question was the size of security areas to be drawn around the United Nations advance peace camp at Munsan and the Red headquarters at Kaesong.

The liaison officers scheduled another meeting for 10 a. m. Saturday (8 p. m. Friday, EST) at Panmunjom.

A UN spokesman said they will try to straighten things out then.

A UN announcement said the Reds today proposed small circular neutral areas surrounding the new conference site in the Panmunjom area and the allied camp at Munsan. The five mile neutral area around Kaesong would be left unchanged.

Counterproposal Submitted

The announcement said the allies submitted a counterproposal which would give "both base camp areas equal security."

"If this point is not settled, we are a long way from opening the talks," said Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, spokesman for the UN command. "If the point is settled, I believe we certainly are on the verge of resuming the talks.

"However, that is such a big 'if' that it would be presumptuous to say that the talks are close to starting again."

Nuckols said liaison officers had agreed truce talks should be held in a large tent the Communists

Bayonets Clear Reds From Ridge; Most Costly Fight

U. S. 8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Oct. 12 (AP) — Bloody bayonets of American and French infantrymen today cleared the Reds off the last peak of Heartbreak Ridge, climaxing the longest and most costly hill battle of the Korean war.

Fierce fighting continued on the northern slope below the crest. U. S. 8th Army officers referred to it as "mopping up."

The Allies captured two other nearby peaks in the eastern Korean mountains.

Along the western front Chinese Reds hurled three attacks at the United Nations line. Two were beaten back.

The third forced elements of the U. S. First Cavalry Division to withdraw. The pullback was in the Yonchon sector, roughly 25 miles northeast of Panmunjom where Red and U.N. liaison officers were reported near agreement on reopening truce talks.

Planes Out in Force

Allied war planes were out in force Friday. Land-based planes mounted 1,045 sorties Thursday, the highest number in four months. Four carriers sent their planes aloft, including 90 sorties off the Australian escort carrier Sydney. The navy said this was possibly a record for an escort carrier.

All battle action was overshadowed by the capture of the northern-most peak of Heartbreak Ridge.

A little band of haggard Frenchmen and American seized it in a night long attack. At 8 a. m. They stook looking across the crest at the climax of 31 days of incredible fighting for Heartbreak Ridge.

At their feet were the burned and twisted bodies of North Korean Communists whose fanatical defense was equaled only by the courage that won the bitter admiration of the men who killed them in hand-to-hand struggle.

The Reds' dogged defense made the month long battle for the four mile ridge probably the costliest allied regimental attack of the whole Korean war.

Some companies almost disappeared. Some battalions were cut down to little more than companies.

The Devil-May-Care French battalion, which fought for the ridge with the U. S. Second division, suffered terribly.

Strategically, the capture of Heartbreak rounds out gains of the big allied eastern offensive. That offensive began Aug. 18. During the collapse of truce talks it pushed the UN line 15 miles northward through rugged mountains.

Body of Girl Found

Hamburg, Oct. 12 (AP) — A schoolboy on a holiday stumbled across the battered nude body of a teen-aged girl today at the bottom of a 40-foot creek embankment. Town of Hamburg police said the girl, about 16 years old, apparently had been dead only a short time. They said she might have been tossed out of an automobile moving along a road at the top of the embankment during the night. The boy, Kent Schenfield, 14, discovered the body shortly before 10 a. m. about half a mile west of this suburban village just south of Buffalo. He was playing along the banks of 18-Mile creek. The body was covered with mud and partially concealed by high grass. The face was crushed but there was no sign of a struggle and no trace of the girl's clothing, police said.

Edward Esposito of 17 Crane street, a veteran of 31 months service in the South Pacific area during World War 2, is the new commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League.

Esposito, a local business man was elected last night to fill the top office held last year by Albert J. Melville of 87 Cedar street, who turned over the gavel after a tenure as commandant that stands out in the history of the detachment.

As senior member of the organization, his record goes back to the days of the Nicaraguan Campaign, after which he returned and led a group of other oldtime marines in founding the local unit in 1939.

"Veterans with marine affiliations were scare then" he recalls, "but our ranks swelled as Uncle Sam's best fighters came back after World War 2."

Melville called for full support of Commandant Esposito as he thanked the detachment for its interest in activities during his term, the outstanding project of which was the annual ball last year in the Elks club that made $500 to send to St. Albans Hospital, where maimed marine veterans are cared for.

Kingston Request on File

What would have been another great accomplishment for the local marine veterans during Melville's leadership still awaits completion—the appearance in Kingston of the United States Marine Band.

In a letter received from O. W. Trapp, tour manager, Washington, D. C., Melville was advised: "We are placing your request for the band in an active file, so that you may be contacted the moment a tour is planned to include your section of New York state."

Melville, the first to invite the Marine Band here, intended to promote its appearance through the cooperation of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion posts, and plans on doing so whenever the musical organization is available.

Esposito's plan is to carry on in the tradition and spirit upheld by his predecessors in the office as commandant.

Other Officers

Other officers elected to serve with him are:

Senior vice commandant, Joseph Naccarato; junior vice commandant, Thomas Finnerty; sergeant-at-arms, Richard Dillon; judge advocate, Harold Macholdt; chaplain, the Rev. Robert Shellenberger, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church; trustee for three years, Albert J. Melville.

Votes of thanks for their cooperation in the field of public relations were given to Joe Kelly of The Freeman, Dick McCarthy and Bob Browning of WKNY, who are honorary chiefs of staff.

Thanks From Marine Corps

Major T. C. Dutton of the Northeastern Recruiting Division wrote from Albany headquarters a letter commending Ulster Detachment for its "generous assistance you have rendered the Marine Corps recruiters within the area of Kingston and Poughkeepsie."

"Time and again," he stressed, "you have offered your services in many ways and as a result, the Marine Corps has been kept in a most favorable light within the public eye. . . . As you know, the Marine Corps depends to a great extent upon its civilian friends in acquiring eligible recruits for the Marine Corps. And it is only through such cooperation as you and your organization has unselfishly given us that we are able to successfully accomplish our mission."

Will Get 'Dog Tags'

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—"Dog tags" will be issued to New York city school children starting next week. Complete with steel neck chains, the tags will be given out first to some 200,000 second and third graders. Resembling those worn by members of the armed forces, the tags will contain children's names, addresses, birth dates, parents' names and a code number designating each child's school. The tag distribution, announced yesterday, is a precautionary identification measure in case of an atom bomb or other attack on the city.

Loses Court Fight

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 12 (AP)—Actress Barbara Bennett lost her latest court fight today with her ex-husband, singer Morton Downey, over their four children. Judge John T. Cullinan turned down her plea that she be allowed to share in their custody. He said, however, that she had done "an excellent and commendable job of personal rehabilitation" since she was adjudged an unfit mother back in 1941.

$103,751 Pledged

on behalf of himself and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, co-chairmen of the campaign, welcomed the workers and congratulated them on coming out despite the severe storm. Many were present from the distant county areas.

Jay LeFevre of New Paltz, former congressman from this district, was presented. Majors of the special committees, the captains and workers were then presented and as each was introduced he or she stood.

Among those who were presented as "being deeply interested in the Benedictine Hospital and its work" was Dr. William S. Bush.

Joseph E. Honig, chairman of the industrial committee was presented and reported the $9,000 pledge from Electrol Incorporated.

Gerald Martin, chairman of the commercial committee, was presented and members of his committee were also introduced.

Members Presented

Others who were called upon and presented their committee members were:

Joseph Epstein and Allen Baker, co-chairmen of the Clubs and Organizations committee. Percy Bush, co-chairman with Luther Dusinbere, of the Area Division. Ernest Steuding, chairman of the Public Employes committee, was unable to be present. Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly and Andrew Gilday, co-chairmen of the residential committee, who presented their ward captains and workers. Mrs. Connelly has the uptown section of the city and Mr. Gilday the downtown section.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk was presented and on behalf of the city welcomed the workers. He said that the mere presence of so many people from the city and county on a stormy night proved the interest which they had in the Benedictine Hospital and the community. Mayor Newkirk cautioned the workers to familiarize themselves with the work of the hospital, "sell themselves" on the need for additional hospital facilities and then "go out and sell this need to the people. He said if they carried on their duties as campaign workers with the same spirit as shown at the meeting the $600,000 needed to complete the hospital was assured now.

Expresses Appreciation

Monsignor Drury was presented and spoke in appreciation of the interest shown by the workers. He told of the need of the fund to complete the work. The Benedictine Hospital like all other hospitals operated as a deficit. Augmented income is needed and some of this is secured through social affairs and by donations. He said the added facilities at the hospital would create an additional deficit and he urged the workers to go out and meet the goal of $600,000 so that when opened the debt on the new addition to the hospital would be liquidated and there would be no construction deficit to be financed. On behalf of himself and the Sisters of the Benedictine Hospital he thanked the workers for their interest and assistance.

George F. Kaufman, one of the staunch workers in 1945 when a fund campaign was conducted, was the speaker of the evening. He referred to that campaign by stating that seated at one of the tables was Coroner Michael Galietta of Glasco, who was a worker in the 1945 campaign. "If every worker does as good a job now as Michael Galietta did then, we will have our "$600,000," said Kaufman.

Kaufman reported the campaign well under way. Banks have pledged $30,000. The doctors of the Benedictine Hospital have pledged $60,000 and he said he believed that the subscriptions from the "big" contributors would account for from $200,000 to $250,000 of the required fund. Other sources, including the average family, would become the source for the balance.

In the area are 22,500 families and if 4,000 of these families will pledge and average $100 the drive would be assured.

Plan is Explained

Kaufman explained the payment plan, which can be arranged to suit the convenience of the individual, and said payments would be arranged over a 36-month period which would include four taxable years. Thus the pledges could be distributed over four income tax periods and the donor benefit by the deductions over four tax periods. He pointed out that the contributions were deductable from income and summarized the plan by stating that a $100 contribution would actually cost the contributor "about $1.50 a month over the 36-months period."

He outlined the cost to larger income groups and corporations and cited the benefits of tax reductions which he said would actually cost the contributor far less than the actual contribution when the tax exemption feature was figured.

The average family uses the hospital most and he pointed out that the average family should carry its share of the present need. The job is a big one, he said, but "the cost of victory always costs hard work" and he urged the workers to go out and "do a real job."

C. W. House, who represents the agency conducting the campaign, complimented the workers on their enthusiasm and explained the manner in which prospect cards would be given out and gave instructions as to how to use the "work kits" provided workers.

The next meeting for reports will be held at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday next at the municipal auditorium. There will be four report meetings held during the campaign which will extend through October.

Russia Stipulates

and Italy's admission to the United Nations. The United States, Britain, and France—said the Soviets—must similarly agree to peace treaty revisions and UN membership for Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania and Finland.

Western diplomats here predicted today that, in view of the Soviet stand, the westerners now will press ahead with their plans to edit arms restrictions from the Italian Treaty without Russian agreement.

They forecast such western action would create resentment here and that the Russians probably would seek some form of retaliation.

The diplomats expressed these conclusions after studying a Russian note which Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky handed, without discussion or comment, to charges d'affairs for the three big western powers.

The Russian communication was in reply to a three-power western declaration of Sept. 26 proposing revision of the Italian Treaty and Italy's acceptance into the UN.

The reply set forth for the first time Russia's official position on the western plan to let Italy increase her arms and armed forces beyond the lightly-gunned 300,000-man limit imposed by the 1947 treaty.

The Russian note said Russia could join in cutting arms limiting clauses out of the Italian Treaty "only in case Italy leaves the aggressive North Atlantic bloc and does not permit military bases and armed forces of foreign nations on its territory."

(The Atlantic pact nations established southern European headquarters at Naples last June under U. S. Adm. Robert B. Carney, who also commands the big American Sixth Fleet operating in the Mediterranean and headquartered at Naples.

(Italy also granted the United States permission last summer to set up a major American supply base at Leghorn on the same site where the United States Fifth Army had a big supply dump during the war. The base already is operating, handling supplies bound for the U. S. occupation army in Austria.)

Would Become City

Hastings-on-Hudson, Oct. 12 (AP)—Whether this village should seek a "divorce" from the town of Greenburgh and blossom out on its own as a new city will be considered by a special committee. Mayor John E. Thilly appointed the committee yesterday and gave it 60 days in which to report to the village board on the advantages and disadvantages of freedom. Creation of a new city in Westchester county would have to be approved by the state Legislature, the town of Greenburgh and Hastings residents. A final decision probably will take several years.

DeAngelis Is Held For Theft of Wine And Pair of Shoes

John DeAngelis, 26, of 72 Ravine street, was arrested yesterday on charges of second degree assault and petit larceny after he had allegedly taken a bottle of wine from a Broadway store and a pair of shoes at the Montgomery Ward & Co., store.

Information on the assault charge said that DeAngelis allegedly struck Mrs. Eva Glasner, part owner of the liquor store at 460 Broadway, with the bottle of wine he is accused of having taken from the store.

Awaits Examination

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today put the case over until tomorrow pending an examination of the defendant by psychiatrists.

Police were notified at 1 p. m. yesterday that a woman at Fitz's Liquor Store on Broadway "claims she has been assaulted by a man who stole a bottle of wine."

Officers Thomas Tomshaw, Thomas McGrane, Frank Sammons and James Burns were notified and DeAngelis was arrested by the latter two on the assault charge.

Two Press Charges

One charge of petit larceny was lodged against the defendant by Mrs. Glasner for the alleged theft of the wine, and the other by Edwin Suominen, manager of the shoe department at the Montgomery Ward & Co., store on North Front street. Police received the call from the uptown store at 12:40 p. m.

Information on the liquor store incident said that a man had entered the store, took a bottle of sparkling Burgundy, and walked out with it. Mrs. Glasner followed, it said, and when she caught up with him near Broadway and East O'Reilly street, she grabbed him by a sleeve and said: "Give me that bottle."

Struck Her, She Says

Then, the information said, "He swung and hit me on the right shoulder blade," and continued on down Broadway. She returned to the store and called the police.

Police said DeAngelis was sentenced to 30 days in jail early in July on a disorderly conduct charge.

Judge Mino adjourned for a month the case of Franklin Henry Scott, 29, of 61 Chambers street, who was arrested by his wife, Elizabeth Scott on a third degree assault charge. Officers Meyer Levy and Kenneth Gaffney were dispatched to the Chambers street house following a call to police headquarters at 8:40 p. m. yesterday.

The crash occurred in a dense fog 34 miles south of Goteborg on the Swedish coast. An air-sea rescue unit, alerted by the 5253-ton Tharros, sped to the scene to search for the six missing from the Ranna's crew of eight. The Tharros was standing by.

To 'Occupy' Philippines

Manila, Oct. 12 (AP)—Two Filipino school teachers, released by Communist Huks after 14 days of captivity, today said they were told Chinese Reds "would soon occupy the Philippines." They told a Manila Times correspondent their captors lectured them daily on Communist doctrines. They were freed yesterday.

The present delegation plans to travel to Albany Thursday morning, October 18, and return the same evening by 6 o'clock, and return to Albany on the 19. This makes it possible for those interested to attend either one or both days.

Child, 7, Attempts To Cash Check

Detective Clarence Brophy has dealt with all kinds of mischief and misdeeds involving youngsters recently, but yesterday came a new one.

The detective was informed that a seven-year-old boy had attempted to cash a check for $7.28 at the Smith Ave. Bull Market. A clerk at the store reported the attempt and investigation revealed that the boy had taken the check from a letter at the local Coca Cola plant, endorsed it with his own name and tried to cash it, the detective said.

Police were notified today that an entrance had been made at Andy's Furniture Store, lower Broadway, through a rear window. The window had been jimmied and stock removed away from it to gain entrance, but nothing was reported missing, the report said. This is also believed to be the work of youngsters.

Looking for Babies

Angouleme, France, Oct. 12 (AP)—Farmer Giraud was fit to be tied when he found all 50 plants in his cabbage patch torn up. Why would anybody do a thing like that? Police discovered the culprits to be seven little girls, aged 8 to 12. Their explanation: "We were looking for babies." Giraud today cheerfully withdrew his charges, for in France—as is well known — babies are not brought by the stork, but are found in cabbage plants.

Bayonets Clear Reds From Ridge; Most Costly Fight

U. S. 8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Oct. 12 (AP) — Bloody bayonets of American and French infantrymen today cleared the Reds off the last peak of Heartbreak Ridge, climaxing the longest and most costly hill battle of the Korean war.

Fierce fighting continued on the northern slope below the crest. U. S. 8th Army officers referred to it as "mopping up."

The Allies captured two other nearby peaks in the eastern Korean mountains.

Along the western front Chinese Reds hurled three attacks at the United Nations line. Two were beaten back.

The third forced elements of the U. S. First Cavalry Division to withdraw. The pullback was in the Yonchon sector, roughly 25 miles northeast of Panmunjom where Red and U.N. liaison officers were reported near agreement on reopening truce talks.

Planes Out in Force

Allied war planes were out in force Friday. Land-based planes mounted 1,045 sorties Thursday, the highest number in four months. Four carriers sent their planes aloft, including 90 sorties off the Australian escort carrier Sydney. The navy said this was possibly a record for an escort carrier.

All battle action was overshadowed by the capture of the northern-most peak of Heartbreak Ridge.

A little band of haggard Frenchmen and American seized it in a night long attack. At 8 a. m. They stook looking across the crest at the climax of 31 days of incredible fighting for Heartbreak Ridge.

At their feet were the burned and twisted bodies of North Korean Communists whose fanatical defense was equaled only by the courage that won the bitter admiration of the men who killed them in hand-to-hand struggle.

The Reds' dogged defense made the month long battle for the four mile ridge probably the costliest allied regimental attack of the whole Korean war.

Some companies almost disappeared. Some battalions were cut down to little more than companies.

The Devil-May-Care French battalion, which fought for the ridge with the U. S. Second division, suffered terribly.

Strategically, the capture of Heartbreak rounds out gains of the big allied eastern offensive. That offensive began Aug. 18. During the collapse of truce talks it pushed the UN line 15 miles northward through rugged mountains.

Bennett, Jr., former New York state attorney general, was reported in critical condition today at the Brooklyn Veterans Hospital where he is under treatment for heart disease. Bennett, 57, chairman of the City Planning Commission, was taken to the hospital late yesterday. He had suffered a heart attack Wednesday night at his Brooklyn (8901 Shore Court) home. Bennett, former presiding justice of the Court of Special Sessions here, ran for governor unsuccessfully on the Democratic ticket in 1942.

Esposito Heads Marines; Band May Come Here

Edward Esposito of 17 Crane street, a veteran of 31 months service in the South Pacific area during World War 2, is the new commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League.

Esposito, a local business man was elected last night to fill the top office held last year by Albert J. Melville of 87 Cedar street, who turned over the gavel after a tenure as commandant that stands out in the history of the detachment.

As senior member of the organization, his record goes back to the days of the Nicaraguan Campaign, after which he returned and led a group of other oldtime marines in founding the local unit in 1939.

"Veterans with marine affiliations were scare then" he recalls, "but our ranks swelled as Uncle Sam's best fighters came back after World War 2."

Melville called for full support of Commandant Esposito as he thanked the detachment for its interest in activities during his term, the outstanding project of which was the annual ball last year in the Elks club that made $500 to send to St. Albans Hospital, where maimed marine veterans are cared for.

Kingston Request on File

What would have been another great accomplishment for the local marine veterans during Melville's leadership still awaits completion—the appearance in Kingston of the United States Marine Band.

In a letter received from O. W. Trapp, tour manager, Washington, D. C., Melville was advised: "We are placing your request for the band in an active file, so that you may be contacted the moment a tour is planned to include your section of New York state."

Melville, the first to invite the Marine Band here, intended to promote its appearance through the cooperation of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion posts, and plans on doing so whenever the musical organization is available.

Esposito's plan is to carry on in the tradition and spirit upheld by his predecessors in the office as commandant.

Other Officers

Other officers elected to serve with him are:

Senior vice commandant, Joseph Naccarato; junior vice commandant, Thomas Finnerty; sergeant-at-arms, Richard Dillon; judge advocate, Harold Macholdt; chaplain, the Rev. Robert Shellenberger, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church; trustee for three years, Albert J. Melville.

Votes of thanks for their cooperation in the field of public relations were given to Joe Kelly of The Freeman, Dick McCarthy and Bob Browning of WKNY, who are honorary chiefs of staff.

Thanks From Marine Corps

Major T. C. Dutton of the Northeastern Recruiting Division wrote from Albany headquarters a letter commending Ulster Detachment for its "generous assistance you have rendered the Marine Corps recruiters within the area of Kingston and Poughkeepsie."

"Time and again," he stressed, "you have offered your services in many ways and as a result, the Marine Corps has been kept in a most favorable light within the public eye. . . . As you know, the Marine Corps depends to a great extent upon its civilian friends in acquiring eligible recruits for the Marine Corps. And it is only through such cooperation as you and your organization has unselfishly given us that we are able to successfully accomplish our mission."

Will Get 'Dog Tags'

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—"Dog tags" will be issued to New York city school children starting next week. Complete with steel neck chains, the tags will be given out first to some 200,000 second and third graders. Resembling those worn by members of the armed forces, the tags will contain children's names, addresses, birth dates, parents' names and a code number designating each child's school. The tag distribution, announced yesterday, is a precautionary identification measure in case of an atom bomb or other attack on the city.

Loses Court Fight

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 12 (AP)—Actress Barbara Bennett lost her latest court fight today with her ex-husband, singer Morton Downey, over their four children. Judge John T. Cullinan turned down her plea that she be allowed to share in their custody. He said, however, that she had done "an excellent and commendable job of personal rehabilitation" since she was adjudged an unfit mother back in 1941.

$103,751 Pledged

on behalf of himself and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, co-chairmen of the campaign, welcomed the workers and congratulated them on coming out despite the severe storm. Many were present from the distant county areas.

Jay LeFevre of New Paltz, former congressman from this district, was presented. Majors of the special committees, the captains and workers were then presented and as each was introduced he or she stood.

Among those who were presented as "being deeply interested in the Benedictine Hospital and its work" was Dr. William S. Bush.

Joseph E. Honig, chairman of the industrial committee was presented and reported the $9,000 pledge from Electrol Incorporated.

Gerald Martin, chairman of the commercial committee, was presented and members of his committee were also introduced.

Members Presented

Others who were called upon and presented their committee members were:

Joseph Epstein and Allen Baker, co-chairmen of the Clubs and Organizations committee. Percy Bush, co-chairman with Luther Dusinbere, of the Area Division. Ernest Steuding, chairman of the Public Employes committee, was unable to be present. Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly and Andrew Gilday, co-chairmen of the residential committee, who presented their ward captains and workers. Mrs. Connelly has the uptown section of the city and Mr. Gilday the downtown section.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk was presented and on behalf of the city welcomed the workers. He said that the mere presence of so many people from the city and county on a stormy night proved the interest which they had in the Benedictine Hospital and the community. Mayor Newkirk cautioned the workers to familiarize themselves with the work of the hospital, "sell themselves" on the need for additional hospital facilities and then "go out and sell this need to the people. He said if they carried on their duties as campaign workers with the same spirit as shown at the meeting the $600,000 needed to complete the hospital was assured now.

Expresses Appreciation

Monsignor Drury was presented and spoke in appreciation of the interest shown by the workers. He told of the need of the fund to complete the work. The Benedictine Hospital like all other hospitals operated as a deficit. Augmented income is needed and some of this is secured through social affairs and by donations. He said the added facilities at the hospital would create an additional deficit and he urged the workers to go out and meet the goal of $600,000 so that when opened the debt on the new addition to the hospital would be liquidated and there would be no construction deficit to be financed. On behalf of himself and the Sisters of the Benedictine Hospital he thanked the workers for their interest and assistance.

George F. Kaufman, one of the staunch workers in 1945 when a fund campaign was conducted, was the speaker of the evening. He referred to that campaign by stating that seated at one of the tables was Coroner Michael Galietta of Glasco, who was a worker in the 1945 campaign. "If every worker does as good a job now as Michael Galietta did then, we will have our "$600,000," said Kaufman.

Kaufman reported the campaign well under way. Banks have pledged $30,000. The doctors of the Benedictine Hospital have pledged $60,000 and he said he believed that the subscriptions from the "big" contributors would account for from $200,000 to $250,000 of the required fund. Other sources, including the average family, would become the source for the balance.

In the area are 22,500 families and if 4,000 of these families will pledge and average $100 the drive would be assured.

Plan is Explained

Kaufman explained the payment plan, which can be arranged to suit the convenience of the individual, and said payments would be arranged over a 36-month period which would include four taxable years. Thus the pledges could be distributed over four income tax periods and the donor benefit by the deductions over four tax periods. He pointed out that the contributions were deductable from income and summarized the plan by stating that a $100 contribution would actually cost the contributor "about $1.50 a month over the 36-months period."

He outlined the cost to larger income groups and corporations and cited the benefits of tax reductions which he said would actually cost the contributor far less than the actual contribution when the tax exemption feature was figured.

The average family uses the hospital most and he pointed out that the average family should carry its share of the present need. The job is a big one, he said, but "the cost of victory always costs hard work" and he urged the workers to go out and "do a real job."

C. W. House, who represents the agency conducting the campaign, complimented the workers on their enthusiasm and explained the manner in which prospect cards would be given out and gave instructions as to how to use the "work kits" provided workers.

The next meeting for reports will be held at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday next at the municipal auditorium. There will be four report meetings held during the campaign which will extend through October.

Russia Stipulates

and Italy's admission to the United Nations. The United States, Britain, and France—said the Soviets—must similarly agree to peace treaty revisions and UN membership for Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania and Finland.

Western diplomats here predicted today that, in view of the Soviet stand, the westerners now will press ahead with their plans to edit arms restrictions from the Italian Treaty without Russian agreement.

They forecast such western action would create resentment here and that the Russians probably would seek some form of retaliation.

The diplomats expressed these conclusions after studying a Russian note which Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky handed, without discussion or comment, to charges d'affairs for the three big western powers.

The Russian communication was in reply to a three-power western declaration of Sept. 26 proposing revision of the Italian Treaty and Italy's acceptance into the UN.

The reply set forth for the first time Russia's official position on the western plan to let Italy increase her arms and armed forces beyond the lightly-gunned 300,000-man limit imposed by the 1947 treaty.

The Russian note said Russia could join in cutting arms limiting clauses out of the Italian Treaty "only in case Italy leaves the aggressive North Atlantic bloc and does not permit military bases and armed forces of foreign nations on its territory."

(The Atlantic pact nations established southern European headquarters at Naples last June under U. S. Adm. Robert B. Carney, who also commands the big American Sixth Fleet operating in the Mediterranean and headquartered at Naples.

(Italy also granted the United States permission last summer to set up a major American supply base at Leghorn on the same site where the United States Fifth Army had a big supply dump during the war. The base already is operating, handling supplies bound for the U. S. occupation army in Austria.)

Would Become City

Hastings-on-Hudson, Oct. 12 (AP)—Whether this village should seek a "divorce" from the town of Greenburgh and blossom out on its own as a new city will be considered by a special committee. Mayor John E. Thilly appointed the committee yesterday and gave it 60 days in which to report to the village board on the advantages and disadvantages of freedom. Creation of a new city in Westchester county would have to be approved by the state Legislature, the town of Greenburgh and Hastings residents. A final decision probably will take several years.

DeAngelis Is Held For Theft of Wine And Pair of Shoes

John DeAngelis, 26, of 72 Ravine street, was arrested yesterday on charges of second degree assault and petit larceny after he had allegedly taken a bottle of wine from a Broadway store and a pair of shoes at the Montgomery Ward & Co., store.

Information on the assault charge said that DeAngelis allegedly struck Mrs. Eva Glasner, part owner of the liquor store at 460 Broadway, with the bottle of wine he is accused of having taken from the store.

Awaits Examination

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today put the case over until tomorrow pending an examination of the defendant by psychiatrists.

Police were notified at 1 p. m. yesterday that a woman at Fitz's Liquor Store on Broadway "claims she has been assaulted by a man who stole a bottle of wine."

Officers Thomas Tomshaw, Thomas McGrane, Frank Sammons and James Burns were notified and DeAngelis was arrested by the latter two on the assault charge.

Two Press Charges

One charge of petit larceny was lodged against the defendant by Mrs. Glasner for the alleged theft of the wine, and the other by Edwin Suominen, manager of the shoe department at the Montgomery Ward & Co., store on North Front street. Police received the call from the uptown store at 12:40 p. m.

Information on the liquor store incident said that a man had entered the store, took a bottle of sparkling Burgundy, and walked out with it. Mrs. Glasner followed, it said, and when she caught up with him near Broadway and East O'Reilly street, she grabbed him by a sleeve and said: "Give me that bottle."

Struck Her, She Says

Then, the information said, "He swung and hit me on the right shoulder blade," and continued on down Broadway. She returned to the store and called the police.

Police said DeAngelis was sentenced to 30 days in jail early in July on a disorderly conduct charge.

Judge Mino adjourned for a month the case of Franklin Henry Scott, 29, of 61 Chambers street, who was arrested by his wife, Elizabeth Scott on a third degree assault charge. Officers Meyer Levy and Kenneth Gaffney were dispatched to the Chambers street house following a call to police headquarters at 8:40 p. m. yesterday.

Goteborg, Sweden, Oct. 12 (AP)—Six crewmen of the 1919-ton Costa Rican vessel Ranna were missing after the ship collided with the Greek steamer Tharros today and sank. The crash occurred in a dense fog 34 miles south of Goteborg on the Swedish coast. An air-sea rescue unit, alerted by the 5253-ton Tharros, sped to the scene to search for the six missing from the Ranna's crew of eight. The Tharros was standing by.

Child, 7, Attempts To Cash Check

Detective Clarence Brophy has dealt with all kinds of mischief and misdeeds involving youngsters recently, but yesterday came a new one.

The detective was informed that a seven-year-old boy had attempted to cash a check for $7.28 at the Smith Ave. Bull Market. A clerk at the store reported the attempt and investigation revealed that the boy had taken the check from a letter at the local Coca Cola plant, endorsed it with his own name and tried to cash it, the detective said.

Police were notified today that an entrance had been made at Andy's Furniture Store, lower Broadway, through a rear window. The window had been jimmied and stock removed away from it to gain entrance, but nothing was reported missing, the report said. This is also believed to be the work of youngsters.

Looking for Babies

Angouleme, France, Oct. 12 (AP)—Farmer Giraud was fit to be tied when he found all 50 plants in his cabbage patch torn up. Why would anybody do a thing like that? Police discovered the culprits to be seven little girls, aged 8 to 12. Their explanation: "We were looking for babies." Giraud today cheerfully withdrew his charges, for in France—as is well known — babies are not brought by the stork, but are found in cabbage plants.

Bill Rose Locked Out of Apartment

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—Showman Billy Rose was locked out of his fashionable town house yesterday following an estrangement from his wife, 37-year-old Eleanor Holm.

The whole affair may lead to divorce court proceedings, according to Miss Holm's attorney.

Newsmen were present when Rose drove up to his 33 Beekman Place Mansion in a chauffeured car. The 50-year-old stage producer put a key in the front door lock, but it didn't work.

"Wrong key," he said, and left.

Fifty minutes later Rose returned with a new set of keys, but with the same results. No key would fit. Repeated ringing of the door bell brought no one.

A maid opened an upstairs window and stared at Rose, but neither spoke. She closed the window.

A butler had told newsmen that Mrs. Rose was not at home.

Rose retired to his apartment in the Ziegfeld Theatre, which he owns.

Lawyers Not Reticent

Neither Rose nor Miss Holm would comment on the divorce rumors but their lawyers were not so reticent.

Rose's attorney, Arthur Garfield Hays, said:

"The stories which have been spoon-fed to certain newspapers are undoubtedly intended for coercion and as a prelude to huge monetary demands.

Neither Mr. Rose nor I intend to indulge in this kind of mud-slinging."

The attorney repeated his client's offer of "adequate provision" for his wife if the former swim star wanted a legal separation or divorce.

Louis Nizer, attorney for Miss Holm, denied feeding stories to newspapers but added:

"The press  will get a very vivid story when the papers are filed."

Rose and Miss Holm were married in November, 1939, the year he and the late singing comedienne, Fanny Brice, were divorced. Rose and Miss Brice were married 10 years.

Miss Holm formerly was the wife of band leader Art Jarrett.

George Marquart, a printer on the Oneonta Star, and Herbert Allen are keeping about 1,000 guinea hens in a barn near North Franklin. This in itself is unusual, but that's not all: The shrill-voiced birds went berserk the past "month of the crazy moon," as the Indians called September, and shattered every light bulb in the building. The guineas flew about till exhausted, especially during the full of the moon, and at least 27 of them died from piling up in corners of the barn.

"The stories which have been spoon-fed to certain newspapers are undoubtedly intended for coercion and as a prelude to huge monetary demands.

Neither Mr. Rose nor I intend to indulge in this kind of mud-slinging."

The attorney repeated his client's offer of "adequate provision" for his wife if the former swim star wanted a legal separation or divorce.

Louis Nizer, attorney for Miss Holm, denied feeding stories to newspapers but added:

"The press  will get a very vivid story when the papers are filed."

Rose and Miss Holm were married in November, 1939, the year he and the late singing comedienne, Fanny Brice, were divorced. Rose and Miss Brice were married 10 years.

Miss Holm formerly was the wife of band leader Art Jarrett.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Oct. 11—Anita Smith, Woodstock writer who with Alice Henderson has a summer home on the former James Cudney place near Tice Teneyck Mountain, was a caller in the village recently. The two ladies expect soon to return to Woodstock.

Mrs. Maynard DeLong and daughter, Diane, are home again following a visit of three weeks with relatives in the New Rochelle area of Westchester.

Pastor M. H. Ryan of the Ashokan Methodist Charge has announced that the cost of the new heating system in the West Hurley Church totaled $981.61. The amount was raised by the WSCS and the Wesleyan Service Guild with the exception of $51.25 contributed by Herbert Rowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Farrell and daughter, Joan, have returned from a visit of several days with relatives in New York.

Patricia McNamara, formerly of Shokan, is now numbered among the Ashokan children attending school in Kingston.

George Marquart, a printer on the Oneonta Star, and Herbert Allen are keeping about 1,000 guinea hens in a barn near North Franklin. This in itself is unusual, but that's not all: The shrill-voiced birds went berserk the past "month of the crazy moon," as the Indians called September, and shattered every light bulb in the building. The guineas flew about till exhausted, especially during the full of the moon, and at least 27 of them died from piling up in corners of the barn.

Henry Gebelein has received word that his nephew, Alfred Breuning, noted violinist and concert master of the New York opera company, will give a five-number recital in Carnegie Hall, Sunday, Oct. 21. Breuning, whose mother, Charlotte Breuning, is Henry's sister, is an army air force veteran of service in War 2 and has been with the New Orleans and New York Symphony societies.

Birthdays coming up on Saturday, Oct. 13, include that of Jennie Markle, Leibhardt resident and native of Accord. The former Jennie Decker was employed at Shokan in waterworks days and later was a nurse at Hackett's Sanitarium. She has two children, Judson of South Gate, Calif., and Lillian (Mrs. Thomas) Rundle of Kingston.

A wedding anniversary today is that of John and Carrie (Ennist) Lawson who have made their home in Old Hurley since removing from Olive some 40 years ago. The couple, who have a daughter, Adelaide, also formerly of Olive, were married, 1883, at the William B. Ennist home by the Rev. J. W. Bohlman.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 12, 1951

FIRE LOSS HERE

In his talk before the Kingston Lions Club, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy pointed out that the fire loss in the City of Kingston so far this year has reached $99,320.72. This figure should awaken every resident to the fact that it is the personal duty of every individual to do his part in preventing fire.

Fire prevention should not be observed for just this week when there is a national observance, but should be practiced every day in the year. Little is gained by recognizing the necessity for fire prevention for just one week and forgetting it for the remaining 51 weeks.

The chief also paid tribute to the volunteer firemen and praised the work of the Ulster County Volunteer Association, Mutual Aid. The volunteer firemen render a valuable service in a community.

STATE TAX INSTALLMENT

The third quarterly installment for 465,000 individuals, who elected to pay their 1950 state income tax under the installment method is due Monday, October 15.

The State Income Tax Bureau reports that more than thirty million dollars is payable in the October payments.

If payment is mailed, it should be postmarked not later than midnight, Monday, in order to avoid delinquency.

THE CENSORSHIP ORDER

There has been great and widespread opposition to the presidential order permitting all government agencies to classifiy information about their activities for security reasons, and on the basis of this classification to withhold it from the public. The reaction shows a general awareness of the importance of knowing what the government is doing.

Ours is a genuine people's government. It is set up by the people and can be changed by the people at will; the leaders are chosen by the people and can be deposed by the people; the costs are borne by the people and the beneficiaries of government activities presumably are the people. The people certainly have a right to know what is going on under the name of the people's government.

It is recognized that some things, having to do with defense and with international relations, should be kept secret because the best interest of the nation might be damaged if they were known by other nations. But what doings of government, outside the understandable secrets of the State Department and the military establishment, are of such nature that it would be harmful to make them public? Under the general security order, even that question cannot be answered.

The older you are the younger you may feel, but the more you do the more you are forced to respect the commands of age.

DANGER OF RELAXING

President Truman has warned against the danger of relaxing our defense effort until we are strong enough to meet any threat anywhere in the world. Americans are prone to relax in moments when danger seems to be potential rather than immediate. In the past, despite unpreparedness, we have been able to muster the strength to work the military and production miracles that win wars. But we may not always be so lucky.

Before Japan attacked Pearl Harbor, even though we were engaged in a program of rearmament there was little feeling that an all-out effort was called for. As soon as we were attacked we realized that the time for taking the situation lightly was long over, and we went to work in earnest.

Our allies in Europe and the men who fought in the defense of the Pacific bases held on long enough to let us get our breath. We were able to rally and win the war. But a new war could take a form more terrible than any America has known in the past. We do not dare wait to build planes when it is known that this time our factories and homes may not escape bombing. Only by keeping ourselves strong and in full production can we assure our safety and an eventual victory if war does come.

'These Days'

THE CASE OF HAROLD STASSEN

Harold Stassen was appointed by the State Department to serve on the American delegation at the San Francisco Conference, which was managed by Alger Hiss. Stassen was a strong supporter of the bi-partisan foreign policy to which Senator Vandenberg devoted the last years of his life. Otherwise, he would not have been acceptable for this position.

Stassen had been governor of Minnesota and on Admiral Halsey's staff in the Pacific during the war. More than any other Republican, his appeal was to youth. When he was invited to attend the secret State Department conferences in October, 1949 to discuss the China policy, he was no tyro. The personnel of that conference was such that 17 out of 25 persons attending were drawn from the Institute of Pacific Relations. Stassen could not have represented the Republican party; he was there in his own right as a citizen of considerable experience.

The State Department cannot smear Harold Stassen as, for instance, they smear Joe McCarthy because Stassen's career does not lend itself to that kind of an attack. If anything, he has weakened his political prospects by too constant a support of the administration's position in foreign affairs. Therefore, they accuse him of faulty memory with the implication of falsehood.

Particularly on the subject of withholding supplies from the Chinese Nationalists do they totally deny Stassen's statements. He has challenged them to produce documents which he claims will corroborate his position in the diaries of Senator Arthur Vandenberg and Secretary of Defense James Forrestal. He has apparently forgotten that his general statements have already been fully substantiated by testimony before the Russell Committee investigating the dismissal of General MacArthur. Louis Johnson, secretary of defense at the time (1949), testified:

"Senator Green. Now, in answer to one other question that was asked you, you were asked did the administration continue to give support to the Nationalist government, and you hesitated and then you said they did not give support, but they gave (sic) any opposition?

"Mr. Johnson. Yes, sir.

"Senator Green. Active opposition?

"Mr. Johnson. I don't know what you mean by 'active' quite, but there were efforts from my office at the instance of the military, of the Defense Department, to speed up the doing of the things they wanted to do in the line of acquisition and material that it seemed they were asked to get, and without being able to give you details, the defintee feeling I had, there was a dragging of feet, an effort to delay."

Vice-Admiral Oscar C. Badger also testified:

"To make a long story short, nothing happened. Questions as to even the prices, what it was going to cost those people (Chiang Kai-shek), were not forthcoming, and remembering that that was approved by the joints chiefs, had the authority of the Act of Congress and had the approval of the President, a period of 5 months went by before we could actually get any action.

"Senator Hickenlooper. Action where?

"Admiral Badger. Action toward the shipment or knowledge of what was going to come, and you can't build a house, you can't fight a campaign unless you know what is coming and when it is coming, and therefore all the planning, the whole thing was stopped."

Admiral Badger testified concerning one shipment:

". . . I received word that a ship was entering, was about to go into Tientsin and it had about 10 per cent of this shipment that we had recommended on board. I said, 'Well, that's pretty bad. It's too bad that it isn't the full business, but maybe it will still have a morale effect' . . ."

General Fu Tso-Yi, who was holding out against the Communists, assuming that American aid would come, reported to Admiral Badger:

"The above-mentioned weapons are not in good condition, and for the most part cannot be used. I do not know how or why these weapons were forwarded in an incomplete state."

The admiral's conclusion is:

"The result was that General Fu Tso-Yi, who had his back to the wall at that time at Tientsin and Peiping in effect had his generals say, 'is this what we have been waiting for?' and they collapsed within two days."

This collapse gave Peking (Peiping) to the Communists.

I could go on quoting substantiation of Harold Stassen's statement from the record, and may still do so if the situation warrants it. The record is enormous and all in one direction, except the testimony of General David G. Barr, who was as much opposed to Nationalist China as the State Department.

ELECTRIC SHOCK TREATMENT

A real advantage in the treatment of the mentally ill is the recognition of need for mental treatment by the patient himself. Just as a patient with a pain in his chest, abdomen or head will consult his physician for relief of this pain, so, as a people, we are learning that when we do not behave in a natural way, do odd things, seem to forget even recent happenings, there is some reason for it, and we consult a physician. Fortunately, the family physician today is learning the causes of odd behavior and goes systematically about untangling the underlying trouble, thus giving mental or emotional relief as he would relief from pain.

In Psychiatric Quarterly, Drs. Louis Linn and Samuel R. Rosen (Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York City) point out that electric shock treatment in an outpatient department of a general hospital offers important advantages. "It permits the patient to stay on his job, at his normal social routine and in contact with his family. It saves him the personality damage of confinement in a mental hospital. It opens possibilities for intensive individual mental treatment on a scale not usually realized within a hospital. The full advantage of outpatient electric shock treatment is obtained when real or organic mental complaints are kept at their lowest or least effect by spacing treatments as far apart as possible and giving lowest number of treatments possible to effect a cure or partial cure."

Drs. Linn and Rosen point out that successful treatment by electric shock requires careful selection of cases. It was usually possible to make the patient understand electric shock treatment as a treatment that raised him from deep depression or inferiority complex to a condition of raised morale in which self-esteem and belief in himself was raised. On the other hand, he also learned to understand that the conflict within himself which had made electric shock treatment necessary was still present, but the electric shock treatments were giving him the will and power to meet and overcome these conflicts.

It must be admitted that there have been some failures with electric shock but by allowing more time between treatments by electric shock, together with the fact that the patient lives a normal life at home and at work, and goes to visit his mental physician at a general hospital, as he would with a physical ailment, maintians his morale.

They Seem to Go Together

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The Defense Department is alarmed over a wave of crippling strikes that have dangerously slowed jet-engine production at a time when jet fighters are desperately needed to turn back Russian jets in Korea and defend this country against new Russian A-bombs. The situation is so critical that the air force has actually been forced to accept planes without engines.

Without putting the finger on either labor or management, the Defense Department frankly suspects Communists may be behind these strikes. At least, the Communists couldn't have struck in a more strategic industry at a worse time.

For example, the strike against the General Electric Lockland plant at Lockland, Ohio, cost the air force several hundred jet engines. Another two-month-old strike at Brown & Sharpe, Providence, R. I., has shut down a principal source of screw machines and other vital tools needed for aircraft production.

These were followed by sudden strikes last month in key plants, including the Douglas plant at Long Beach, Calif., on September 5; Pratt & Whitney, Southington, Conn., on September 19; and Curtiss-Wright, Woodridge, N. J., on September 25.

In addition, strikes are brewing at the Douglas plant, Tulsa, Okla.; Glenn Martin, Baltimore, Md.; Fairchild, Hagerstown, Md., and Borg-Warner, Chicago, Ill.

Suspected Conspiracy

These strikes have the earmarks of not being entirely coincidental. The exact engine types produced by the struck plants cannot be published, but they are so vital that aircraft production has been seriously crippled.

In order to keep other plants from shutting down, the air force has accepted airframes without engines and other key parts. Meanwhile, total plane production has fallen to almost half the monthly goal set by the President.

The aviation industry isn't the sole source of labor trouble, however. Six major work stoppages have also occurred at the $500,000,000 atomic energy plant at Paducah, Ky.

Another reason for lagging defense production is that structural steel has been going into civilian construction instead of building defense plants. Also the nation is seriously short of machine tools. Labor, incidentally, is reported to be burned up at the new tax bill which is full of loopholes for certain taxpayers.

With American boys dying in Korea and this country's very existence threatened by Soviet atomic power, it is time for management to give up fat war profits and labor to forget its squabbles.

Note—If the strikes continue, the Defense Department will ask the President to appeal in the name of patriotism for a no-strike pledge in key defense industries.

Ambassador Chester Bowles

It wasn't supposed to leak out, but all Democratic senators met around the supper table the other evening to discuss private party matters. Before the cocktails were downed, the supper-caucus had turned into a rally for Chester Bowles, World War 2 price boss and ex-governor of Connecticut.

What got their backs up over Bowles was a GOP policy announcement that the Republicans would oppose Bowles' nomination to be ambassador to India.

"This is a test to see whether the Democrats are running the Senate or the Republicans," snorted Rhode Island's vigorous 84-year-old Sen. Theodore Francis Green.

"Bowles was the only governor who balanced his budget without raising taxes," declared Senator George, with admiration. "I am going to support Bowles, and I feel every Democrat should support him."

Though confessing past differences with the ex-OPA chief, the Georgia senator described Bowles as "an honest, courageous, intelligent American."

This was echoed by Arizona's modest Sen. Carl Hayden, who said he had always "found Chester Bowles to be honest and a man of great conviction.

"I suppose during his term as OPA director, Bowles had scraps with every member of Congress, but he always stood his ground," Hayden recalled.

Freshman Sen. Mike Maroney of Oklahoma described Bowles as "one of the best-informed men who has ever served in government," and pointed out that America will be represented by a man whose "social convictions and political philosophy" are particularly suited for the India post.

New Democratic Unity

In fact, the Democrats became so united over Bowles that the caucus reached a new high in party harmony which later led to his confirmation. Even such political opposites as Nevada's Pat McCarran and Illinois' Paul Douglas clasped hands.

For two years, Douglas had blocked McCarran's bill to pay judges who have to travel $15 per diem. Douglas had considered this too high, proposed $12.50 per day but refused to go higher.

So, taking advantage of the friendly spirit, McCarran brought up the question of his two-year-old bill and twitted Douglas for holding it up.

"I can't imagine that the senator from Illinois wants to hold up the judiciary for $2.50," McCarran grinned slyly.

Douglas strode over to McCarran, clasped his hand and boomed: "Pat, this is a love feast! It's $15!"

Senator George Warns

Recalling his days in Congress, Barkey remarked: "I found out that many things I considered great and momentous problems in the cloakrooms of the Senate were of little importance when I got back home."

He told how he once voted against a pay raise for himself as a member of Congress, then went home expecting to be praised for his "self-sacrifice."

"I bumped into an old friend, and we leaned up against a building on the shady side of the street and engaged in conversation," reminisced the vice president. "The subject of the pay raise came up, and I told my friend how I had voted. I expected everybody would be honoring me for my courageous action. But the first thing my friend said was, 'You are just a fool.'"

The senators agreed to adjourn as fast as they could finish the "must" legislation. Then Senator McCarran, with a twinkle in his eye, got up and read a list of 10 "must" bills. All 10 had been introduced by McCarran.

Note—Probably the most impressive statement of the evening was made by Senator George, considered an archconservative. Pounding the table, the powerful Georgian thundered: "The more I look at the tax picture. I am convinced that we must have strong economic controls, both direct and indirect. I want to make it clear that my feeling is much more definite than it has ever been."

The Well Diggers Castle

Rochepot Castle in Burgundy, France, was built by Sire de la Roche in the 15th Century. After it was completed, he hired one Philippe Pot, to dig a well in the courtyard, but neglected to inquire the cost. The castle stands on a high hill and by the time the digger dug through the mountain and reached level land and water, the landlord was obliged to give the whole castle to the well digger in payment. Philippe Pot, who combined his name with that of the castle and called himself Rochepot, soon became very prominent.

Has Any Public Officer Right to Take Away Papers Prepared at Government Expense?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 12 — News about the plan for a memorial library at Grand View, Missouri, to house the letters and papers of President Truman when he leaves the White House has raised the question as to whose property those documents really are.

Inasmuch as the American people pay a regular salary to the President of the United States and the expenses of his stenographers, the assumption is that, if he writes his letters during office hours and discusses public business therein, this material has been paid for and is the property of the government itself.

The same issue has arisen before in connection with presidential papers. There's a library at Hyde Park, New York, where the papers of the late President Roosevelt are stored and it is a question whether all the documents in it can be regarged as wholly personal or private.

It has become the habit in recent years for cabinet officers to take away their files and later make them public in books or magazines articles. The issue has been raised that an official's own diary written at home could very well be his own property, but if he dictates a memorandum to government stenographers concerning the visits of callers who come to him on official business, the material ought not to be taken from government buildings.

It may well be wondered what the handicaps might be to a future President if he does not find the White House files complete on public business. Certainly continuity in governmental operations can be impaired if every top official may decide for himself what's official and what's private or personal and pull out of the records whatever he pleases.

Letters about political activity, for example, and relations with a political party or memoranda on how presidents got delegations to bring about their own renomination are, of course, personal, as is all material on campaign activities. Doubtless letters to music critics are also in the private category. But can it be said that letters between the President and members of Congress concerning public business are not the property of the people?

The late President Roosevelt would never agree to let the transcripts of his press conferences be made public as they happened but reserved those transcripts for publication in book form even while he was president—an incident of doubtful propriety to which this correspondent called attention at the time.

In all the instances where letters are placed in private libraries set up as a memorial to a president, the custom is to appoint trustees who are friendly to such a president. Hence, the access which historians may have to letters can be restricted, depending upon the amount of embarrassment to the record of the chief executive that might be involved.

Important material which is really the property of the government itself and not of any individual can be suppressed in this manner. One wonders whether somewhere a list of the letters taken out of the files will be made so that, if congressional committees should in the future search for evidence on some important event of history, they would know where to look for such documents—assuming that the letters they want to see will not have been destroyed on the theory that they are private property.

The moment any official takes away from government files any letters, there would seem to be a duty to justify the nature of those withdrawn and to let someone else—possibly Comptroller General Lindsay Warren, head of the general accounting office—who is responsible primarily to Congress, audit the property that is withdrawn and determine whether any of it is personal or belongs to the government and hence to the people of the United States. Every president ought to welcome that kind of a check lest the impression grow that he is seeking to conceal some of the records of his administration.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 11—The unanimous vote of the governors at their conference in Gatlinburg, Tenn., to demand for the states control of their own "relief" administrations, including their right to publish the names of all who receive the public charity and the amounts, is a rebellion against the impudent tyranny of Congress.

The federal Social Security Act imposes on the several states a confidential obligation which permits grafters, ne'er-do-wells, drunkards and trollops to enjoy subsidies for vicious conduct at the expense of decent citizens. A she-tramp with a habit of bearing casual children dumps them on the public rolls without limit as to numbers other than her own capacity and lives on the proceeds of her misconduct. A husband and wife conspire that he shall pretend to abandon her and she may collect relief without having to prove that he has checked out or to prosecute him for non-support. If he sneaks home the back way in the dark of the moon, the pair of them may make a go of it on charity. He needn't be too furtive about it, either, for many of the professional leeches who administer this corrupt racket measure their effectiveness by the size of their clientele.

The Republican legislature of Indiana passed a law last March, overriding the veto of a New Deal governor, requiring the county welfare departments to publish quarterly lists of those who receive old age assistance and aid to dependent children and the amounts paid in respect to each individual. The law provides that these records must be open to public inspection.

Lester Hunt, a reporter on the staff of the Indianapolis Star, directed a crusade for this law and put it through, with the editorial backing of a management which sometimes wallows in the political swells but also sometimes shows startling evidence of principle. When Hunt began his campaign he found many Democrats on his side, some of whom wanted to go even further than his proposals. But Oscar Ewing, the king of the federal agency in Washington which operates this parasitic drain on the income and morals of the nation, immediately got to the governor and the governor called in the Democratic senators for a lecture on regularity and the unimportance of the State of Indiana in relation to the national bureaucracy. Thereafter the 24 voted solidly against the reform.

The Federal Security Administration ordered that if Indiana maintained this position the federal grant-in-aid would be withheld.

The answer of the Indiana Legislature to that threat, a legal threat by the way under the grand design of the Roosevelt conspiracy, was to assume the extra burden and plan toward the future when the secrecy will be licked by demand of states which have been systematically robbed all these years by the lowest bums in their population, including sons and daughters of elderly persons who flatly refuse to carry their moral and legal obligations to their parents. Meanwhile, by knocking the dead-beats off the rolls, Indiana will pare down the total by millions of dollars a year and the example to other states probably will embolden them to do more or less likewise.

In the Gatlinburg conference the governors unanimously agreed that Congress must change the law permitting each state to make its own decision for or against publicity.

Undoubtedly most of them would decide in favor of it and the plea that the poor are unfortunate enough being poor without the added penalty of "humiliation" fails on at least two counts. For one thing, when the pro-Communists of the early New Deal were trying to break the nation's economy by loading millions of no-goods onto the gravy train, it was argued that this wasn't a charity project because it was a plain duty of society to support those who couldn't sup-

FIRE LOSS HERE

In his talk before the Kingston Lions Club, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy pointed out that the fire loss in the City of Kingston so far this year has reached $99,320.72. This figure should awaken every resident to the fact that it is the personal duty of every individual to do his part in preventing fire.

Fire prevention should not be observed for just this week when there is a national observance, but should be practiced every day in the year. Little is gained by recognizing the necessity for fire prevention for just one week and forgetting it for the remaining 51 weeks.

The chief also paid tribute to the volunteer firemen and praised the work of the Ulster County Volunteer Association, Mutual Aid. The volunteer firemen render a valuable service in a community.

STATE TAX INSTALLMENT

The third quarterly installment for 465,000 individuals, who elected to pay their 1950 state income tax under the installment method is due Monday, October 15.

The State Income Tax Bureau reports that more than thirty million dollars is payable in the October payments.

If payment is mailed, it should be postmarked not later than midnight, Monday, in order to avoid delinquency.

THE CENSORSHIP ORDER

There has been great and widespread opposition to the presidential order permitting all government agencies to classifiy information about their activities for security reasons, and on the basis of this classification to withhold it from the public. The reaction shows a general awareness of the importance of knowing what the government is doing.

Ours is a genuine people's government. It is set up by the people and can be changed by the people at will; the leaders are chosen by the people and can be deposed by the people; the costs are borne by the people and the beneficiaries of government activities presumably are the people. The people certainly have a right to know what is going on under the name of the people's government.

It is recognized that some things, having to do with defense and with international relations, should be kept secret because the best interest of the nation might be damaged if they were known by other nations. But what doings of government, outside the understandable secrets of the State Department and the military establishment, are of such nature that it would be harmful to make them public? Under the general security order, even that question cannot be answered.

The older you are the younger you may feel, but the more you do the more you are forced to respect the commands of age.

DANGER OF RELAXING

President Truman has warned against the danger of relaxing our defense effort until we are strong enough to meet any threat anywhere in the world. Americans are prone to relax in moments when danger seems to be potential rather than immediate. In the past, despite unpreparedness, we have been able to muster the strength to work the military and production miracles that win wars. But we may not always be so lucky.

Before Japan attacked Pearl Harbor, even though we were engaged in a program of rearmament there was little feeling that an all-out effort was called for. As soon as we were attacked we realized that the time for taking the situation lightly was long over, and we went to work in earnest.

Our allies in Europe and the men who fought in the defense of the Pacific bases held on long enough to let us get our breath. We were able to rally and win the war. But a new war could take a form more terrible than any America has known in the past. We do not dare wait to build planes when it is known that this time our factories and homes may not escape bombing. Only by keeping ourselves strong and in full production can we assure our safety and an eventual victory if war does come.

'These Days'

THE CASE OF HAROLD STASSEN

Harold Stassen was appointed by the State Department to serve on the American delegation at the San Francisco Conference, which was managed by Alger Hiss. Stassen was a strong supporter of the bi-partisan foreign policy to which Senator Vandenberg devoted the last years of his life. Otherwise, he would not have been acceptable for this position.

Stassen had been governor of Minnesota and on Admiral Halsey's staff in the Pacific during the war. More than any other Republican, his appeal was to youth. When he was invited to attend the secret State Department conferences in October, 1949 to discuss the China policy, he was no tyro. The personnel of that conference was such that 17 out of 25 persons attending were drawn from the Institute of Pacific Relations. Stassen could not have represented the Republican party; he was there in his own right as a citizen of considerable experience.

The State Department cannot smear Harold Stassen as, for instance, they smear Joe McCarthy because Stassen's career does not lend itself to that kind of an attack. If anything, he has weakened his political prospects by too constant a support of the administration's position in foreign affairs. Therefore, they accuse him of faulty memory with the implication of falsehood.

Particularly on the subject of withholding supplies from the Chinese Nationalists do they totally deny Stassen's statements. He has challenged them to produce documents which he claims will corroborate his position in the diaries of Senator Arthur Vandenberg and Secretary of Defense James Forrestal. He has apparently forgotten that his general statements have already been fully substantiated by testimony before the Russell Committee investigating the dismissal of General MacArthur. Louis Johnson, secretary of defense at the time (1949), testified:

"Senator Green. Now, in answer to one other question that was asked you, you were asked did the administration continue to give support to the Nationalist government, and you hesitated and then you said they did not give support, but they gave (sic) any opposition?

"Mr. Johnson. Yes, sir.

"Senator Green. Active opposition?

"Mr. Johnson. I don't know what you mean by 'active' quite, but there were efforts from my office at the instance of the military, of the Defense Department, to speed up the doing of the things they wanted to do in the line of acquisition and material that it seemed they were asked to get, and without being able to give you details, the defintee feeling I had, there was a dragging of feet, an effort to delay."

Vice-Admiral Oscar C. Badger also testified: "To make a long story short, nothing happened. Questions as to even the prices, what it was going to cost those people (Chiang Kai-shek), were not forthcoming, and remembering that that was approved by the joints chiefs, had the authority of the Act of Congress and had the approval of the President, a period of 5 months went by before we could actually get any action.

"Senator Hickenlooper. Action where?

"Admiral Badger. Action toward the shipment or knowledge of what was going to come, and you can't build a house, you can't fight a campaign unless you know what is coming and when it is coming, and therefore all the planning, the whole thing was stopped."

Admiral Badger testified concerning one shipment:

". . . I received word that a ship was entering, was about to go into Tientsin and it had about 10 per cent of this shipment that we had recommended on board. I said, 'Well, that's pretty bad. It's too bad that it isn't the full business, but maybe it will still have a morale effect' . . ."

General Fu Tso-Yi, who was holding out against the Communists, assuming that American aid would come, reported to Admiral Badger:

"The above-mentioned weapons are not in good condition, and for the most part cannot be used. I do not know how or why these weapons were forwarded in an incomplete state."

The admiral's conclusion is:

"The result was that General Fu Tso-Yi, who had his back to the wall at that time at Tientsin and Peiping in effect had his generals say, 'is this what we have been waiting for?' and they collapsed within two days."

This collapse gave Peking (Peiping) to the Communists.

I could go on quoting substantiation of Harold Stassen's statement from the record, and may still do so if the situation warrants it. The record is enormous and all in one direction, except the testimony of General David G. Barr, who was as much opposed to Nationalist China as the State Department.

ELECTRIC SHOCK TREATMENT

A real advantage in the treatment of the mentally ill is the recognition of need for mental treatment by the patient himself. Just as a patient with a pain in his chest, abdomen or head will consult his physician for relief of this pain, so, as a people, we are learning that when we do not behave in a natural way, do odd things, seem to forget even recent happenings, there is some reason for it, and we consult a physician. Fortunately, the family physician today is learning the causes of odd behavior and goes systematically about untangling the underlying trouble, thus giving mental or emotional relief as he would relief from pain.

In Psychiatric Quarterly, Drs. Louis Linn and Samuel R. Rosen (Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York City) point out that electric shock treatment in an outpatient department of a general hospital offers important advantages. "It permits the patient to stay on his job, at his normal social routine and in contact with his family. It saves him the personality damage of confinement in a mental hospital. It opens possibilities for intensive individual mental treatment on a scale not usually realized within a hospital. The full advantage of outpatient electric shock treatment is obtained when real or organic mental complaints are kept at their lowest or least effect by spacing treatments as far apart as possible and giving lowest number of treatments possible to effect a cure or partial cure."

Drs. Linn and Rosen point out that successful treatment by electric shock requires careful selection of cases. It was usually possible to make the patient understand electric shock treatment as a treatment that raised him from deep depression or inferiority complex to a condition of raised morale in which self-esteem and belief in himself was raised. On the other hand, he also learned to understand that the conflict within himself which had made electric shock treatment necessary was still present, but the electric shock treatments were giving him the will and power to meet and overcome these conflicts.

It must be admitted that there have been some failures with electric shock but by allowing more time between treatments by electric shock, together with the fact that the patient lives a normal life at home and at work, and goes to visit his mental physician at a general hospital, as he would with a physical ailment, maintians his morale.

They Seem to Go Together

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The Defense Department is alarmed over a wave of crippling strikes that have dangerously slowed jet-engine production at a time when jet fighters are desperately needed to turn back Russian jets in Korea and defend this country against new Russian A-bombs. The situation is so critical that the air force has actually been forced to accept planes without engines.

Without putting the finger on either labor or management, the Defense Department frankly suspects Communists may be behind these strikes. At least, the Communists couldn't have struck in a more strategic industry at a worse time.

For example, the strike against the General Electric Lockland plant at Lockland, Ohio, cost the air force several hundred jet engines. Another two-month-old strike at Brown & Sharpe, Providence, R. I., has shut down a principal source of screw machines and other vital tools needed for aircraft production.

These were followed by sudden strikes last month in key plants, including the Douglas plant at Long Beach, Calif., on September 5; Pratt & Whitney, Southington, Conn., on September 19; and Curtiss-Wright, Woodridge, N. J., on September 25.

In addition, strikes are brewing at the Douglas plant, Tulsa, Okla.; Glenn Martin, Baltimore, Md.; Fairchild, Hagerstown, Md., and Borg-Warner, Chicago, Ill.

Suspected Conspiracy

These strikes have the earmarks of not being entirely coincidental. The exact engine types produced by the struck plants cannot be published, but they are so vital that aircraft production has been seriously crippled.

In order to keep other plants from shutting down, the air force has accepted airframes without engines and other key parts. Meanwhile, total plane production has fallen to almost half the monthly goal set by the President.

The aviation industry isn't the sole source of labor trouble, however. Six major work stoppages have also occurred at the $500,000,000 atomic energy plant at Paducah, Ky.

Another reason for lagging defense production is that structural steel has been going into civilian construction instead of building defense plants. Also the nation is seriously short of machine tools. Labor, incidentally, is reported to be burned up at the new tax bill which is full of loopholes for certain taxpayers.

With American boys dying in Korea and this country's very existence threatened by Soviet atomic power, it is time for management to give up fat war profits and labor to forget its squabbles.

Note—If the strikes continue, the Defense Department will ask the President to appeal in the name of patriotism for a no-strike pledge in key defense industries.

Ambassador Chester Bowles

It wasn't supposed to leak out, but all Democratic senators met around the supper table the other evening to discuss private party matters. Before the cocktails were downed, the supper-caucus had turned into a rally for Chester Bowles, World War 2 price boss and ex-governor of Connecticut.

What got their backs up over Bowles was a GOP policy announcement that the Republicans would oppose Bowles' nomination to be ambassador to India.

"This is a test to see whether the Democrats are running the Senate or the Republicans," snorted Rhode Island's vigorous 84-year-old Sen. Theodore Francis Green.

"Bowles was the only governor who balanced his budget without raising taxes," declared Senator George, with admiration. "I am going to support Bowles, and I feel every Democrat should support him."

Though confessing past differences with the ex-OPA chief, the Georgia senator described Bowles as "an honest, courageous, intelligent American."

This was echoed by Arizona's modest Sen. Carl Hayden, who said he had always "found Chester Bowles to be honest and a man of great conviction.

"I suppose during his term as OPA director, Bowles had scraps with every member of Congress, but he always stood his ground," Hayden recalled.

Freshman Sen. Mike Maroney of Oklahoma described Bowles as "one of the best-informed men who has ever served in government," and pointed out that America will be represented by a man whose "social convictions and political philosophy" are particularly suited for the India post.

New Democratic Unity

In fact, the Democrats became so united over Bowles that the caucus reached a new high in party harmony which later led to his confirmation. Even such political opposites as Nevada's Pat McCarran and Illinois' Paul Douglas clasped hands.

For two years, Douglas had blocked McCarran's bill to pay judges who have to travel $15 per diem. Douglas had considered this too high, proposed $12.50 per day but refused to go higher.

So, taking advantage of the friendly spirit, McCarran brought up the question of his two-year-old bill and twitted Douglas for holding it up.

"I can't imagine that the senator from Illinois wants to hold up the judiciary for $2.50," McCarran grinned slyly.

Douglas strode over to McCarran, clasped his hand and boomed: "Pat, this is a love feast! It's $15!"

Senator George Warns

Recalling his days in Congress, Barkey remarked: "I found out that many things I considered great and momentous problems in the cloakrooms of the Senate were of little importance when I got back home."

He told how he once voted against a pay raise for himself as a member of Congress, then went home expecting to be praised for his "self-sacrifice."

"I bumped into an old friend, and we leaned up against a building on the shady side of the street and engaged in conversation," reminisced the vice president. "The subject of the pay raise came up, and I told my friend how I had voted. I expected everybody would be honoring me for my courageous action. But the first thing my friend said was, 'You are just a fool.'"

The senators agreed to adjourn as fast as they could finish the "must" legislation. Then Senator McCarran, with a twinkle in his eye, got up and read a list of 10 "must" bills. All 10 had been introduced by McCarran.

Note—Probably the most impressive statement of the evening was made by Senator George, considered an archeonservative. Pounding the table, the powerful Georgian thundered: "The more I look at the tax picture. I am convinced that we must have strong economic controls, both direct and indirect. I want to make it clear that my feeling is much more definite than it has ever been."

The Well Diggers Castle

Rochepot Castle in Burgundy, France, was built by Sire de la Roche in the 15th Century. After it was completed, he hired one Philippe Pot, to dig a well in the courtyard, but neglected to inquire the cost. The castle stands on a high hill and by the time the digger dug through the mountain and reached level land and water, the landlord was obliged to give the whole castle to the well digger in payment. Philippe Pot, who combined his name with that of the castle and called himself Rochepot, soon became very prominent.

Has Any Public Officer Right to Take Away Papers Prepared at Government Expense?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 12 — News about the plan for a memorial library at Grand View, Missouri, to house the letters and papers of President Truman when he leaves the White House has raised the question as to whose property those documents really are.

Inasmuch as the American people pay a regular salary to the President of the United States and the expenses of his stenographers, the assumption is that, if he writes his letters during office hours and discusses public business therein, this material has been paid for and is the property of the government itself.

The same issue has arisen before in connection with presidential papers. There's a library at Hyde Park, New York, where the papers of the late President Roosevelt are stored and it is a question whether all the documents in it can be regarged as wholly personal or private.

It has become the habit in recent years for cabinet officers to take away their files and later make them public in books or magazines articles. The issue has been raised that an official's own diary written at home could very well be his own property, but if he dictates a memorandum to government stenographers concerning the visits of callers who come to him on official business, the material ought not to be taken from government buildings.

It may well be wondered what the handicaps might be to a future President if he does not find the White House files complete on public business. Certainly continuity in governmental operations can be impaired if every top official may decide for himself what's official and what's private or personal and pull out of the records whatever he pleases.

Letters about political activity, for example, and relations with a political party or memoranda on how presidents got delegations to bring about their own renomination are, of course, personal, as is all material on campaign activities. Doubtless letters to music critics are also in the private category. But can it be said that letters between the President and members of Congress concerning public business are not the property of the people?

The late President Roosevelt would never agree to let the transcripts of his press conferences be made public as they happened but reserved those transcripts for publication in book form even while he was president—an incident of doubtful propriety to which this correspondent called attention at the time.

In all the instances where letters are placed in private libraries set up as a memorial to a president, the custom is to appoint trustees who are friendly to such a president. Hence, the access which historians may have to letters can be restricted, depending upon the amount of embarrassment to the record of the chief executive that might be involved.

Important material which is really the property of the government itself and not of any individual can be suppressed in this manner. One wonders whether somewhere a list of the letters taken out of the files will be made so that, if congressional committees should in the future search for evidence on some important event of history, they would know where to look for such documents—assuming that the letters they want to see will not have been destroyed on the theory that they are private property.

The moment any official takes away from government files any letters, there would seem to be a duty to justify the nature of those withdrawn and to let someone else—possibly Comptroller General Lindsay Warren, head of the general accounting office—who is responsible primarily to Congress, audit the property that is withdrawn and determine whether any of it is personal or belongs to the government and hence to the people of the United States. Every president ought to welcome that kind of a check lest the impression grow that he is seeking to conceal some of the records of his administration.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 11—The unanimous vote of the governors at their conference in Gatlinburg, Tenn., to demand for the states control of their own "relief" administrations, including their right to publish the names of all who receive the public charity and the amounts, is a rebellion against the impudent tyranny of Congress.

The federal Social Security Act imposes on the several states a confidential obligation which permits grafters, ne'er-do-wells, drunkards and trollops to enjoy subsidies for vicious conduct at the expense of decent citizens. A she-tramp with a habit of bearing casual children dumps them on the public rolls without limit as to numbers other than her own capacity and lives on the proceeds of her misconduct. A husband and wife conspire that he shall pretend to abandon her and she may collect relief without having to prove that he has checked out or to prosecute him for non-support. If he sneaks home the back way in the dark of the moon, the pair of them may make a go of it on charity. He needn't be too furtive about it, either, for many of the professional leeches who administer this corrupt racket measure their effectiveness by the size of their clientele.

The Republican legislature of Indiana passed a law last March, overriding the veto of a New Deal governor, requiring the county welfare departments to publish quarterly lists of those who receive old age assistance and aid to dependent children and the amounts paid in respect to each individual. The law provides that these records must be open to public inspection.

Lester Hunt, a reporter on the staff of the Indianapolis Star, directed a crusade for this law and put it through, with the editorial backing of a management which sometimes wallows in the political swells but also sometimes shows startling evidence of principle. When Hunt began his campaign he found many Democrats on his side, some of whom wanted to go even further than his proposals. But Oscar Ewing, the king of the federal agency in Washington which operates this parasitic drain on the income and morals of the nation, immediately got to the governor and the governor called in the Democratic senators for a lecture on regularity and the unimportance of the State of Indiana in relation to the national bureaucracy. Thereafter the 24 voted solidly against the reform.

The Federal Security Administration ordered that if Indiana maintained this position the federal grant-in-aid would be withheld.

The answer of the Indiana Legislature to that threat, a legal threat by the way under the grand design of the Roosevelt conspiracy, was to assume the extra burden and plan toward the future when the secrecy will be licked by demand of states which have been systematically robbed all these years by the lowest bums in their population, including sons and daughters of elderly persons who flatly refuse to carry their moral and legal obligations to their parents. Meanwhile, by knocking the dead-beats off the rolls, Indiana will pare down the total by millions of dollars a year and the example to other states probably will embolden them to do more or less likewise.

In the Gatlinburg conference the governors unanimously agreed that Congress must change the law permitting each state to make its own decision for or against publicity.

Undoubtedly most of them would decide in favor of it and the plea that the poor are unfortunate enough being poor without the added penalty of "humiliation" fails on at least two counts. For one thing, when the pro-Communists of the early New Deal were trying to break the nation's economy by loading millions of no-goods onto the gravy train, it was argued that this wasn't a charity project because it was a plain duty of society to support those who couldn't sup-

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 12—A friend of mine has recently purchased an old 18-room mansion which he is converting into apartments. Some very interesting observations can be made on that job concerning present-day workmen. As he tells me his troubles, I wonder if this is the time to do remodeling jobs on old houses, especially as the best of houses always deteriorate even though the land increases in value.

My friend's house is in an area where skilled craftsmen should be available. Some of his jobs have been let under contract; some have been done at an hourly rate. All the workmen were highly recommended. But, though price was not the important factor, few really took pride in the job they did. Certainly, don't start a remodeling job today except by contracts; then read your contracts before signing or else employ an architect.

The card of the painter which my friend employed read: "Neat craftsmanlike workmanship." Before the job had gone far, the owner had to remind the painter that neither spattered floors nor carelessly drawn window sashes were acceptable. While the plumber spent considerable time talking about his fine workmanship, his joints and pipes leaked and he carelessly chipped porcelain fixtures. Therefore, you must be hardboiled and insist on good work even after you have read and signed your contracts.

Are Craftsmen Gone?

The paper hanger said: "Choose plain paper, particularly for the hall; it's easier to match and more economical." Plain paper, for that particular paper hanger, meant he could slap it on as fast as possible—butt it or lap it, depending on the wall! This may be good advice. One should always consult the paper hanger before buying the paper; but be on the job when it is being hung. The selection of wallpaper is almost as important as the selection of a wife.

It may be unwise to take the lowest bidder for roof work. Better contract with a roofer who has been in business many years. Too many roofers think that the owner will never climb up on the roof to inspect the gutters, etc. Hence, he fails to oil the gutters and seal the joints as per his contract. But the one who really took my friend for a ride was the electrician. He used more BX, BC, and Romex cable, connectors, plates, cutouts and clips than you'd suspect it takes to build a battleship! As electricians get a big profit on the material they supply you, they are tempted to use more than they should. What's in the partitions only the electricians and the mice will ever know!

Insist on Good Reputations

But my friend's carpenter was one in a hundred. He was careful and proud of his work. He acted almost as if the house were his own. He was painstaking, whether he was laying a course of shingles or mitering a door-casing or putting on hardware. To him there was a right and a wrong way, and he could be trusted to do the job right even though he was working by contract.

Not enough individuals or companies today render good craftsmanship. Wars, government contracts, sellers' markets, and material shortages tend to bring quality standards down. When buying hardware today ask for goods made before June 1, 1950. The quality since then has been losing ground.

Is Remodeling a Good Investment?

Apartments are in demand. Old houses can still be bought cheap. Many can be made over into four or more apartments. You can make a contract so as to know just what the remodeling will cost; you can also learn from real estate agents how much rent you can expect.

Then figure what you will get on your investment. This should be over ten per cent annually to cover taxes, insurance and repairs and to have six per cent left for yourself, even with full occupancy. To be on the safe side, you should allow for some vacancies. Remodeling of properly located old houses may be a good investment; but investigate before you invest.

"PIEL'S is the BEER for me— DRY as a beer can be!"

Less N.F.S.

means a drier, more satisfying flavor!

ACCORDING TO WEBSTER, THE WORD "DRY" means "lacking sweetness." And in beer, dryness is measured by the amount of N.F.S. (non-fermented sugar) present after the brewing process is completed.

Repeated independent laboratory tests show that Piel's Beer contained almost no N.F.S. at all...that Piel's is truly as "dry as a beer can be!"

Tonight—ask for Piel's at your favorite store or tavern. Enjoy a tall, cool glass and see if you don't agree that Piel's slower, costlier brewing means a drier, more satisfying flavor.

HERE'S PROOF THAT SLOWER, COSTLIER BREWING MAKES PIEL'S "DRY AS A BEER CAN BE!"

● Repeated independent laboratory tests have shown that a quart of Piel's Beer contained no more sugar (N. F. S.) than could be placed on the head of a common pin.

● This is an average of less than one part in 10,000! You can hardly see it, much less taste it!

Plain paper, for that particular paper hanger, meant he could slap it on as fast as possible—butt it or lap it, depending on the wall! This may be good advice. One should always consult the paper hanger before buying the paper; but be on the job when it is being hung. The selection of wallpaper is almost as important as the selection of a wife.

It may be unwise to take the lowest bidder for roof work. Better contract with a roofer who has been in business many years. Too many roofers think that the owner will never climb up on the roof to inspect the gutters, etc. Hence, he fails to oil the gutters and seal the joints as per his contract. But the one who really took my friend for a ride was the electrician. He used more BX, BC, and Romex cable, connectors, plates, cutouts and clips than you'd suspect it takes to build a battleship! As electricians get a big profit on the material they supply you, they are tempted to use more than they should. What's in the partitions only the electricians and the mice will ever know!

Insist on Good Reputations

But my friend's carpenter was one in a hundred. He was careful and proud of his work. He acted almost as if the house were his own. He was painstaking, whether he was laying a course of shingles or mitering a door-casing or putting on hardware. To him there was a right and a wrong way, and he could be trusted to do the job right even though he was working by contract.

Not enough individuals or companies today render good craftsmanship. Wars, government contracts, sellers' markets, and material shortages tend to bring quality standards down. When buying hardware today ask for goods made before June 1, 1950. The quality since then has been losing ground.

Is Remodeling a Good Investment?

Apartments are in demand. Old houses can still be bought cheap. Many can be made over into four or more apartments. You can make a contract so as to know just what the remodeling will cost; you can also learn from real estate agents how much rent you can expect.

Then figure what you will get on your investment. This should be over ten per cent annually to cover taxes, insurance and repairs and to have six per cent left for yourself, even with full occupancy. To be on the safe side, you should allow for some vacancies. Remodeling of properly located old houses may be a good investment; but investigate before you invest.

New Mexico became U. S. Territory in 1846.

"PIEL'S is the BEER for me— DRY as a beer can be!"

Less N.F.S.

means a drier, more satisfying flavor!

ACCORDING TO WEBSTER, THE WORD "DRY" means "lacking sweetness." And in beer, dryness is measured by the amount of N.F.S. (non-fermented sugar) present after the brewing process is completed.

Repeated independent laboratory tests show that Piel's Beer contained almost no N.F.S. at all...that Piel's is truly as "dry as a beer can be!"

Tonight—ask for Piel's at your favorite store or tavern. Enjoy a tall, cool glass and see if you don't agree that Piel's slower, costlier brewing means a drier, more satisfying flavor.

HERE'S PROOF THAT SLOWER, COSTLIER BREWING MAKES PIEL'S "DRY AS A BEER CAN BE!"

● Repeated independent laboratory tests have shown that a quart of Piel's Beer contained no more sugar (N. F. S.) than could be placed on the head of a common pin.

● This is an average of less than one part in 10,000! You can hardly see it, much less taste it!

A COLD WINTER...

The farmers predict a very long, cold and snow filled winter. One evidence of this is the fact that the squirrel has started early to put away lots of food for this period.

So it is with us humans. The future is always a long and troublesome period unless we have prepared for it. We, like the squirrel, should be quick to realize that now is the time to save — not when resources are nil.

Preceding the noon hour there was opportunity to examine the exhibit of books and materials placed in corridors by several companies. Also from Rifton and directed by Miss Joan Lynch was a group in Indian songs and dances. Pupils from New Paltz High School under Miss Dorothy Joseph gave a variety entertainment of monologues, tap dancing and acrobatics, followed by Miss Jean Brown's Melodettes who sang several well known songs. Two representatives from the Ulster County Health Department spoke on the work of the public health nurses of the area, telling how the nurses are prepared to help teachers, especially in those schools which do not have school nurses. They urged teachers to take advantage of the help offered by the county. Miss Sarah Gulick, kindergarten teacher in the Wallkill Central School who was on leave of absence to study and travel in Europe last year, gave an interesting account of her trip, illustrated by colored slides of views which she had taken. Her itinerary included England, Scotland, Belgium, Netherlands, Switzerland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and several months study in France, Spain and Italy. Miss Gulick stayed in small towns, or in small hotels or with private families in large towns, and since traveling alone she became much more familiar with the life of the people, learning more of the language and customs than the average tourist.

The American Legion will hold their annual essay contest sometime in December. The subject will be from some part of the Constitution.

Mason Pleads Guilty To Various Counts

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—Samuel D. Mason, who allegedly worked up a spurious trade in leases on government buildings, pleaded guilty yesterday to five counts of perjury and four of grand larceny.

Judge David A. Pine of District Court ordered the one-legged New Yorker jailed pending a pre-sentence investigation.

Witnesses before a Senate committee last summer said Mason tried to lease them government buildings which he said would be unused when, as his story went, the government moved to underground quarters to escape atomic bombs.

The perjury charges stemmed from Mason's testimony before the committee. In the larceny cases. Mason was accused of taking money on the promise it would be turned into valuable leases. In one case, he was charged with taking $15,000 from the New York Greek Orthodox Church of St. Basil the Great.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Washington Irving had a love for the Hudson river which he was able to preserve for us in his writings. He wrote a description of a voyage to Albany from New York in a Hudson sloop, which he said: "My first voyage up the Hudson was made in early boyhood, in the good old times before steamboats and railroads had annihilated time and space and driven all poetry and romance out of travel. A voyage to Albany then was equal to a voyage to Europe at present and took almost as much time. We enjoyed the beauties of the river in those days. The features of nature were not all jumbled together, nor the towns and villages huddled one into the other by railroad speed, as they are now."

He further wrote: "I was to make the voyage under the protection of a relative of mature age, one experienced in the river. His first care was to look out for a favorite sloop and captain, in which there was great choice. The constant voyaging in the river craft, by the best families of New York and Albany, made the merits of captains and sloops matters of notoriety and discussion in both cities. The captains were mediums of communication between separated friends and families. On the arrival of one of them at either place, he had messages to deliver and commissions to execute which took him from house to house. Some of the ladies of the family had, peradventure, made a voyage on board of his sloop and experienced from him that protecting care which is always remembered with gratitude by female passengers. In this way, the captains of Albany sloops were personages of more note than captains of European packets or steamships at the present day."

A sloop was at length chosen but she had yet to complete her freight and secure a sufficient number of passengers. Days were consumed in 'drumming up' a cargo. This was tormenting delay. As she finally got under way, with a last exchange of words and waving of handkerchiefs until the sloop was out of hearing. Our captain was a worthy man, a native of Albany. His crew was composed of blacks, reared in the family and belonging to him, for negro slavery still existed in the state. All his communications with them were in Dutch."

Just received a nice note from Mrs. A. D. Van Buren, Sr., of 121 Westchester avenue, White Plains, N. Y., in which she said: "It has been interesting and pleasing to read your articles in 'Do You Remember,' which refer to father Van Buren's book, 'Ulster County Under the Dutch'. I want to thank you on behalf of our family for your extracts and comments." For a long time I wanted to see this book, and just recently Harry Rigby, Jr., brought it down and gave it to me for keeps.

Looking through some old things, I found a flower basket which was sent to me when I graduated from high school. You never forget the giver of such beautiful gifts. But also was attached a card from "Gus, the Florist", August Wunder, 142 Broadway. He later moved up across from the Knights of Columbus building. Folks tell me he is the father of George Wunder, cartoonist and artist of famous cartoon, "Terry and the Pirates" and that he went to our own K.H.S. Who remembers him?

Who ASKED you?

Who asked you to pay for electricity used by people you never even heard of, a hundred or a thousand miles away?

Nobody! But you do help pay the bills for hundreds of thousands of favored people and hundreds of privileged businesses using electricity from certain federal power systems. Your taxes helped build those systems. Your taxes are used to subsidize service to their customers.

Who asked you to foot the bill so that this country could have socialized electricity?

Nobody! Yet, there are 72 federally owned power systems already in operation, under construction, or authorized at a total cost of over 10 billion dollars—and hundreds more are planned at a total cost of about 60 billion dollars. That's your money that's financing socialism!

Mason Pleads Guilty To Various Counts

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—Samuel D. Mason, who allegedly worked up a spurious trade in leases on government buildings, pleaded guilty yesterday to five counts of perjury and four of grand larceny.

Judge David A. Pine of District Court ordered the one-legged New Yorker jailed pending a pre-sentence investigation.

Witnesses before a Senate committee last summer said Mason tried to lease them government buildings which he said would be unused when, as his story went, the government moved to underground quarters to escape atomic bombs.

The perjury charges stemmed from Mason's testimony before the committee. In the larceny cases, Mason was accused of taking money on the promise it would be turned into valuable leases. In one case, he was charged with taking $15,000 from the New York Greek Orthodox Church of St. Basil the Great.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Washington Irving had a love for the Hudson river which he was able to preserve for us in his writings. He wrote a description of a voyage to Albany from New York in a Hudson sloop, which he took about 1800, in which he said: "My first voyage up the Hudson was made in early boyhood, in the good old times before steamboats and railroads had annihilated time and space and driven all poetry and romance out of travel. A voyage to Albany then was equal to a voyage to Europe at present and took almost as much time. We enjoyed the beauties of the river in those days. The features of nature were not all jumbled together, nor the towns and villages huddled one into the other by railroad speed, as they are now."

He further wrote: "I was to make the voyage under the protection of a relative of mature age, one experienced in the river. His first care was to look out for a favorite sloop and captain, in which there was great choice. The constant voyaging in the river craft, by the best families of New York and Albany, made the merits of captains and sloops matters of notoriety and discussion in both cities. The captains were mediums of communication between separated friends and families. On the arrival of one of them at either place, he had messages to deliver and commissions to execute which took him from house to house. Some of the ladies of the family had, peradventure, made a voyage on board of his sloop and experienced from him that protecting care which is always remembered with gratitude by female passengers. In this way, the captains of Albany sloops were personages of more note than captains of European packets or steamships at the present day."

A sloop was at length chosen but she had yet to complete her freight and secure a sufficient number of passengers. Days were consumed in 'drumming up' a cargo. This was tormenting delay. As she finally got under way, with a last exchange of words and waving of handkerchiefs until the sloop was out of hearing. Our captain was a worthy man, a native of Albany. His crew was composed of blacks, reared in the family and belonging to him, for negro slavery still existed in the state. All his communications with them were in Dutch."

Just received a nice note from Mrs. A. D. Van Buren, Sr., of 121 Westchester avenue, White Plains, N. Y., in which she said: "It has been interesting and pleasing to read your articles in 'Do You Remember,' which refer to father Van Buren's book, 'Ulster County Under the Dutch'. I want to thank you on behalf of our family for your extracts and comments." For a long time I wanted to see this book, and just recently Harry Rigby, Jr., brought it down and gave it to me for keeps.

Looking through some old things, I found a flower basket which was sent to me when I graduated from high school. You never forget the giver of such beautiful gifts. But also was attached a card from "Gus, the Florist", August Wunder, 142 Broadway. He later moved up across from the Knights of Columbus building. Folks tell me he is the father of George Wunder, cartoonist and artist of famous cartoon, "Terry and the Pirates" and that he went to our own K.H.S. Who remembers him?

Who ASKED you?

Who asked you to pay for electricity used by people you never even heard of, a hundred or a thousand miles away?

Nobody! But you do help pay the bills for hundreds of thousands of favored people and hundreds of privileged businesses using electricity from certain federal power systems. Your taxes helped build those systems. Your taxes are used to subsidize service to their customers.

Who asked you to foot the bill so that this country could have socialized electricity?

Nobody! Yet, there are 72 federally owned power systems already in operation, under construction, or authorized at a total cost of over 10 billion dollars—and hundreds more are planned at a total cost of about 60 billion dollars. That's your money that's financing socialism!

Who asked you here in the Mid-Hudson valley to help pay approximately 14 per cent of the cost of these federally owned power systems?

Nobody! But that's the share charged to all of New York State. It's more than the combined payments of Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts and Washington.

Who asked you for permission to keep on building expensive socialistic power systems when every tax dollar and every pound of critical material is needed for defense?

Nobody! But the backers of socialized power are planning to use more of your tax money to build costly electric lines that actually duplicate facilities of business-managed companies! Why? To put the government further into useless and killing competition with business-managed companies.

Who asked you whether you have enough electric power or not?

Nobody! The "planners" who favor socialized electricity speak vaguely of a "power shortage." Yet, the business-managed companies have more than doubled this nation's power supply since Pearl Harbor. And they've got a lot more coming!

Bus Company Attorney Says Line Faced With Bankruptcy

Basing its application for abandonment of four of its bus lines on a general downward trend both of income and passenger use, the Kingston Transportation Corporation presented figures Thursday to support its application for abandonment of the Hasbrouck avenue, Washington-Foxhall, Fairmont avenue-Lucas avenue and Wilbur avenue routes.

Should this application be granted in full it would leave only the Broadway line to serve the people of Kingston.

The application for abandonment of the four lines came after a hearing for additional bus service in the Third ward had been heard by Commissioner O'Brien of the Public Service Commission at the court house and while an application for an extension of service in the Fourth ward is pending before the Commission.

Abandonment of the four lines was suggested as an alternative for complete surrender of the company's franchise which would leave the city without bus service of any kind.

Senator Pliny W. Williamson, counsel for the bus company, stated to Commissioner O'Brien that the corporation "owes to the people of the city the duty of running buses" but he continued by stating that under present circumstances the losses are such as to force the company into bankruptcy unless relief is granted.

Figures showed the company had lost $11,399.15 in the first eight months of 1951 and had carried less passengers with operating costs up. In 1950 the corporation carried about 200,000 passengers a month while in the first nine months of 1951 that figure had dropped to 188,000 paying fares. Bus operation cost had risen to about 44 cents per bus mile.

Comparative figures were given over a period of years. Net income in 1947 was $892.64. In 1948 the net showed a loss of $5,323.64. In 1949 the loss was $1,395.70. In the first eight months of 1951 the loss was $11,399.15. Passengers carried in 1947 totaled 2,991,521. In 1948 3,200,526 and then began to drop. In 1949 the passenger count was 2,670,887, in 1950 it dropped to 2,421,389 and for nine months in this year the count was 1,694,621, about 188,000 per month as compared to about 200,000 per month in 1950.

Gadd Testifies

Thomas Gadd, vice president and general manager of the corporation testified that the city was paid 4/10 of 1 per cent of the gross income or a minimum of $1500 per year under the franchise agreement. The corporation has not paid over $1,500, he said, because of the small gross income. In addition the corporation pays taxes. The city received about $5,000 from taxes and franchise tax in 1950 from the company.

Gadd was asked about the effect on business of fare changes. He said when the rate was reduced the income did not pick up and when the fares were increased there was still a loss of revenue from passengers.

The finances of the company became so bad in August it was necessary to borrow money to pay the employes. A cash reserve which the company had up until recently was exhausted when two new buses were bought for the sum of $19,000.

There still remains some of the $9,000 borrowed in August which will permit the company to continue to operate for a time, Senator Williamson said. However he said the corporation was now negotiating for an additional loan.

Even since the elimination of the token reduction in fare and the installation of a straight dime-fare, the company still looses money. To raise fares and to decrease fares had been tried, Senator Williamson said. He said operation of the bus line was a "community problem" which affects 6,000 people daily who cannot afford a car.

It had been suggested that the Broadway detour during construction of the railroad crossing elimination had discouraged people from using the buses because of the delay and disrupted schedule and that when the elimination is completed more people will return to the buses. Senator Williamson pointed out that this detour had increased costs of operation by adding mileage to the run.

Decision Reserved

Proceedings on the matter of abandonment of the four lines, after the commission had reserved decision on the petition of the bus company to withdraw its application for abandonment of all of the franchise, Thomas Gadd was called by the bus company as its only witness. He presented lengthy tables of income, expenses and passenger traffic. He said the average cost of operation of a bus line was 44 cents per mile. Income from the four lines which the company seeks to abandon ranges from 18 cents per mile on the Lucas avenue line in 1950 to 33.7 cents per mile on the Belt line. Hasboruck avenue income in 1950 was 32.33 cents per mile. Wilbur avenue line was 26.7 cents per mile.

In 1949 the wages of the officials of the corporation were reduced in view of the decreasing revenue, Senator Williamson said, and the reduction in salary of the general manager had been criticised at that time by the Public Service Commission. However the general manager had accepted the reduction. The president of the corporation receives no salary, he said.

Since 1947 to the present time there has been a net loss of $12,852.03 to the company, Senator Williamson told the commission.

Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly reserved his cross examination of Gadd until he had an opportunity to study the exhibits now and the adjourned date on November 9.

Prior to the petition to abandon the franchise or curtail service, Commissioner O'Bryan heard the Third Ward petition for extension of service. This is a proposal to extend the service from Broadway through Foxhall avenue, Prince street, Smith avenue, Grand street, Stephan, Hazel street, Emerick, Farrelly and Flatbush avenue to Clifton avenue, Highland avenue to East Chester street and over Broadway back to Foxhall avenue.

Engineer Testifies

City Engineer Hallinan testified on behalf of the city, petitioners, and was the first witness called by Corporation Counsel Connelly.

Hallinan described the route, said there were 2,500 people estimated to reside in the area and the number of families was 889. Shopping centers were described as were schools and churches in the area. Main shopping areas were outside the area, he said, but there was a considerable industrial area around TenBroeck avenue and Grand street.

Hallinan said he could not tell how many people in the area described lived within 3/10 of a mile from existing bus facilities. Williamson asked the witness if he considered 3/10 of a mile too much for a person to walk to a bus. Later he showed that according to his figures many people in the Third Ward lived within 3/10 of a mile of an existing bus route and could easily walk to an existing line.

Alderman Radel testified there were not all kinds of stores in the area and it was necessary to go outside the area to shop. He said the population in the area had increased of late and the area was served by two existing bus lines at the extreme ends of the area. Many people have to walk long distances to get a bus. He also said there was a 100-family housing project now under consideration for the Farrelly street area. Radel said on cross examination that he did not know that the bus line was used by fewer people each year. In eight months of 1951 Williamson told him 103,651 fewer people used the bus service in the city. Radel said he did not know the figures.

Supervisor Ray Lindhurst testified to about the same facts and said it was necessary to go outside the area to larger stores to shop for certain articles. He also said many children from the area went to Livingston Street Lutheran School, in addition to high school, M.J.M. and No. 5 school. Lindhurst said he believed service was needed and would be used.

Walk or Take Car

Albert Gerofsky, who is in business on Broadway, said there was no way for him to get to work except to walk a long distance or use his car. He said he did not use his car to run about in and said he had left his car home and used the bus to get to the hearing because of the difficulty in parking uptown. Many of his neighbors were in the same situation. To use the Broadway bus line as it now exists, he said, would require him to walk a distance almost as great as to his store. The proposed route would be of great benefit to many people in the Third ward.

Asked what solution he had for the financial situation which exists, Gerofsky replied to Senator Williamson that the company needed a "man to run the bus line who understands bus line operation."

The drivers are "good," Gerofsky said. "It is the management," he concluded. "Cut down the fare and get more passengers," he advised and said that was the way he did in his business, "reduce price" and get more customers.

Mrs. Rose Kachigian said bus service was needed for the residents to get out of the area to shop, go to church and also to transport children to No. 5 School from the Flatbush-Clifton avenue area which was a mile or so" from No. 5 School. She said property values was affected by the lack of bus service. The first thing one asked was availability of buses when looking at property in the area.

At this point several people who attended the hearing were asked to stand if they favored the bus service and would testify substantially the same as those who had already testified.

Twelve people were counted.

Closes His Case

The petitioner closed his case at this point and respondent called as the first witness Ralph Post, personnel manager and general office assistant. Post testified that there were four in the office and they interchanged their work. The new route was 2.8 miles in length and would require an additional bus. The company now operates five lines with 20 buses. Sixteen are used on regular runs and four are in reserve for use in case of breakdown or are in the process of being repaired. The present equipment was not sufficient to operate any extensions, Post said. It would be necessary to buy another bus at a cost of $10,000 and the lifetime of a bus is 12 years. It would cost $11.87 per day for a driver and an extra garage man would be needed. The salary cost would be a minimum of $23 per day. The income estimated from the route based on experience would not amount to this sum.

Post said a survey of residents who lived over 3/10 of a mile from existing bus lines showed 347 families. In the area there were 280 cars licensed and it was estimated 1041 people resided in the area, exclusive of the 3/10 of a mile on the fringe where there now was bus service.

Figures show about 20 per cent of the population of the city is served by the bus lines. On that basis the extension through the Third Ward would be patronized by about 210 people a day with an income of $21. This is less than the cost of operating the bus when salaries only are figured. Pavements in the area to be served by the proposed application are generally good, Post stated.

At this point it was stated that the testimony taken in the Third Ward extension of service application and the petition to surrender the franchise, which would follow, would all be considered in each case as it applies and each application would thus be shortened. This agreement was satisfactory to both sides.

With the conclusion of Post's testimony the hearing on the Third Ward extension was closed.

Teachers Urged To Give Support

L. Judson Morhouse, executive director, New York Good Roads Association, today called on teachers and other public employes to support Constitutional Amendment 4, providing for a state guarantee of Thruway Authority bonds. The amendment will be referred to the voters of the state on Election Day.

"The ability of a state to support education," Morhouse said, "as well as other important functions of government, is dependent upon the stability of the economy on which it is based. If public employes are going to be paid according to their worth, they must help to promote a sound business structure within the state, as a result of which the tax money may be raised to pay them.

"Without adequate highways, the economy of the state is weakened. Commerce, agriculture and industry thrive in direct proportion to the highways which provide the means of distribution.

"Right now the State of New York is involved in the construction of a great Thruway which will promote the economic well-being of agriculture, industry and commerce within the state and contribute to the general welfare of all of the people of the State. Furthermore, right now — Election Day, November 6—there is being presented to the people the opportunity to save $120,000,000 on the project. This is by voting "Yes" on Constitutional Amendment 4, which will provide for a state guarantee of Thruway Authority bonds.

"I therefore appeal to teachers and to all public employes within the state to take recognition of this opportunity to help their government save $120,000,000 on Thruway costs and I particularly urge them to work and vote for Constitutional Amendment 4 at the polls on this next Election Day."

Bus Company Attorney Says Line Faced With Bankruptcy

Basing its application for abandonment of four of its bus lines on a general downward trend both of income and passenger use, the Kingston Transportation Corporation presented figures Thursday to support its application for abandonment of the Hasbrouck avenue, Washington-Foxhall, Fairmont avenue-Lucas avenue and Wilbur avenue routes.

Should this application be granted in full it would leave only the Broadway line to serve the people of Kingston.

The application for abandonment of the four lines came after a hearing for additional bus service in the Third ward had been heard by Commissioner O'Brien of the Public Service Commission at the court house and while an application for an extension of service in the Fourth ward is pending before the Commission.

Abandonment of the four lines was suggested as an alternative for complete surrender of the company's franchise which would leave the city without bus service of any kind.

Senator Pliny W. Williamson, counsel for the bus company, stated to Commissioner O'Brien that the corporation "owes to the people of the city the duty of running buses" but he continued by stating that under present circumstances the losses are such as to force the company into bankruptcy unless relief is granted.

Figures showed the company had lost $11,399.15 in the first eight months of 1951 and had carried less passengers with operating costs up. In 1950 the corporation carried about 200,000 passengers a month while in the first nine months of 1951 that figure had dropped to 188,000 paying fares. Bus operation cost had risen to about 44 cents per bus mile.

Comparative figures were given over a period of years. Net income in 1947 was $892.64. In 1948 the net showed a loss of $5,323.64. In 1949 the loss was $1,395.70. In the first eight months of 1951 the loss was $11,399.15. Passengers carried in 1947 totaled 2,991,521. In 1948 3,200,526 and then began to drop. In 1949 the passenger count was 2,670,887, in 1950 it dropped to 2,421,389 and for nine months in this year the count was 1,694,621, about 188,000 per month as compared to about 200,000 per month in 1950.

Gadd Testifies

Thomas Gadd, vice president and general manager of the corporation testified that the city was paid 4/10 of 1 per cent of the gross income or a minimum of $1500 per year under the franchise agreement. The corporation has not paid over $1,500, he said, because of the small gross income. In addition the corporation pays taxes. The city received about $5,000 from taxes and franchise tax in 1950 from the company.

Gadd was asked about the effect on business of fare changes. He said when the rate was reduced the income did not pick up and when the fares were increased there was still a loss of revenue from passengers.

The finances of the company became so bad in August it was necessary to borrow money to pay the employes. A cash reserve which the company had up until recently was exhausted when two new buses were bought for the sum of $19,000.

There still remains some of the $9,000 borrowed in August which will permit the company to continue to operate for a time, Senator Williamson said. However he said the corporation was now negotiating for an additional loan.

Even since the elimination of the token reduction in fare and the installation of a straight dimefare, the company still looses money. To raise fares and to decrease fares had been tried, Senator Williamson said. He said operation of the bus line was a "community problem" which affects 6,000 people daily who cannot afford a car.

It had been suggested that the Broadway detour during construction of the railroad crossing elimination had discouraged people from using the buses because of the delay and disrupted schedule and that when the elimination is completed more people will return to the buses. Senator Williamson pointed out that this detour had increased costs of operation by adding mileage to the run.

Decision Reserved

Proceedings on the matter of abandonment of the four lines, after the commission had reserved decision on the petition of the bus company to withdraw its application for abandonment of all of the franchise, Thomas Gadd was called by the bus company as its only witness. He presented lengthy tables of income, expenses and passenger traffic. He said the average cost of operation of a bus line was 44 cents per mile. Income from the four lines which the company seeks to abandon ranges from 18 cents per mile on the Lucas avenue line in 1950 to 33.7 cents per mile on the Belt line. Hasboruck avenue income in 1950 was 32.33 cents per mile. Wilbur avenue line was 26.7 cents per mile.

In 1949 the wages of the officials of the corporation were reduced in view of the decreasing revenue, Senator Williamson said, and the reduction in salary of the general manager had been criticised at that time by the Public Service Commission. However the general manager had accepted the reduction. The president of the corporation receives no salary, he said.

Since 1947 to the present time there has been a net loss of $12,852.03 to the company, Senator Williamson told the commission.

Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly reserved his cross examination of Gadd until he had an opportunity to study the exhibits now and the adjourned date on November 9.

Prior to the petition to abandon the franchise or curtail service, Commissioner O'Bryan heard the Third Ward petition for extension of service. This is a proposal to extend the service from Broadway through Foxhall avenue, Prince street, Smith avenue, Grand street, Stephan, Hazel street, Emerick, Farrelly and Flatbush avenue to Clifton avenue, Highland avenue to East Chester street and over Broadway back to Foxhall avenue.

Engineer Testifies

City Engineer Hallinan testified on behalf of the city, petitioners, and was the first witness called by Corporation Counsel Connelly.

Hallinan described the route, said there were 2,500 people estimated to reside in the area and the number of families was 889. Shopping centers were described as were schools and churches in the area. Main shopping areas were outside the area, he said, but there was a considerable industrial area around TenBroeck avenue and Grand street.

Hallinan said he could not tell how many people in the area described lived within 3/10 of a mile from existing bus facilities. Williamson asked the witness if he considered 3/10 of a mile too much for a person to walk to a bus. Later he showed that according to his figures many people in the Third Ward lived within 3/10 of a mile of an existing bus route and could easily walk to an existing line.

Alderman Radel testified there were not all kinds of stores in the area and it was necessary to go outside the area to shop. He said the population in the area had increased of late and the area was served by two existing bus lines at the extreme ends of the area. Many people have to walk long distances to get a bus. He also said there was a 100-family housing project now under consideration for the Farrelly street area. Radel said on cross examination that he did not know that the bus line was used by fewer people each year. In eight months of 1951 Williamson told him 103,651 fewer people used the bus service in the city. Radel said he did not know the figures.

Supervisor Ray Lindhurst testified to about the same facts and said it was necessary to go outside the area to larger stores to shop for certain articles. He also said many children from the area went to Livingston Street Lutheran School, in addition to high school, M.J.M. and No. 5 school. Lindhurst said he believed service was needed and would be used.

Walk or Take Car

Albert Gerofsky, who is in business on Broadway, said there was no way for him to get to work except to walk a long distance or use his car. He said he did not use his car to run about in and said he had left his car home and used the bus to get to the hearing because of the difficulty in parking uptown. Many of his neighbors were in the same situation. To use the Broadway bus line as it now exists, he said, would require him to walk a distance almost as great as to his store. The proposed route would be of great benefit to many people in the Third ward.

Asked what solution he had for the financial situation which exists, Gerofsky replied to Senator Williamson that the company needed a "man to run the bus line who understands bus line operation."

The drivers are "good," Gerofsky said. "It is the management," he concluded. "Cut down the fare and get more passengers," he advised and said that was the way he did in his business, "reduce price" and get more customers.

Mrs. Rose Kachigian said bus service was needed for the residents to get out of the area to shop, go to church and also to transport children to No. 5 School from the Flatbush-Clifton avenue area which was a mile or so" from No. 5 School. She said property values was affected by the lack of bus service. The first thing one asked was availability of buses when looking at property in the area.

At this point several people who attended the hearing were asked to stand if they favored the bus service and would testify substantially the same as those who had already testified.

Twelve people were counted.

Closes His Case

The petitioner closed his case at this point and respondent called as the first witness Ralph Post, personnel manager and general office assistant. Post testified that there were four in the office and they interchanged their work. The new route was 2.8 miles in length and would require an additional bus. The company now operates five lines with 20 buses. Sixteen are used on regular runs and four are in reserve for use in case of breakdown or are in the process of being repaired. The present equipment was not sufficient to operate any extensions, Post said. It would be necessary to buy another bus at a cost of $10,000 and the lifetime of a bus is 12 years. It would cost $11.87 per day for a driver and an extra garage man would be needed. The salary cost would be a minimum of $23 per day. The income estimated from the route based on experience would not amount to this sum.

Post said a survey of residents who lived over 3/10 of a mile from existing bus lines showed 347 families. In the area there were 280 cars licensed and it was estimated 1041 people resided in the area, exclusive of the 3/10 of a mile on the fringe where there now was bus service.

Figures show about 20 per cent of the population of the city is served by the bus lines. On that basis the extension through the Third Ward would be patronized by about 210 people a day with an income of $21. This is less than the cost of operating the bus when salaries only are figured. Pavements in the area to be served by the proposed application are generally good, Post stated.

At this point it was stated that the testimony taken in the Third Ward extension of service application and the petition to surrender the franchise, which would follow, would all be considered in each case as it applies and each application would thus be shortened. This agreement was satisfactory to both sides.

With the conclusion of Post's testimony the hearing on the Third Ward extension was closed.

Teachers Urged To Give Support

L. Judson Morhouse, executive director, New York Good Roads Association, today called on teachers and other public employes to support Constitutional Amendment 4, providing for a state guarantee of Thruway Authority bonds. The amendment will be referred to the voters of the state on Election Day.

"The ability of a state to support education," Morhouse said, "as well as other important functions of government, is dependent upon the stability of the economy on which it is based. If public employes are going to be paid according to their worth, they must help to promote a sound business structure within the state, as a result of which the tax money may be raised to pay them.

"Without adequate highways, the economy of the state is weakened. Commerce, agriculture and industry thrive in direct proportion to the highways which provide the means of distribution.

"Right now the State of New York is involved in the construction of a great Thruway which will promote the economic well-being of agriculture, industry and commerce within the state and contribute to the general welfare of all of the people of the State. Furthermore, right now — Election Day, November 6—there is being presented to the people the opportunity to save $120,000,000 on the project. This is by voting "Yes" on Constitutional Amendment 4, which will provide for a state guarantee of Thruway Authority bonds.

"I therefore appeal to teachers and to all public employes within the state to take recognition of this opportunity to help their government save $120,000,000 on Thruway costs and I particularly urge them to work and vote for Constitutional Amendment 4 at the polls on this next Election Day."

As Pegler Sees It

port themselves. Poverty was an honorable and dignified state. That was conceded in the emotional confusion of the time and the same may be granted today by those who have seen the wasteful evil created by the secrecy clause.

If poverty is no disgrace, then it is hard to show that clients of public charity or "security" in any phase are humiliated by the publication of their names and benefits. Those who are poor by profession, making a career of dependence and restraining their abilities to earn a get-by living, lack the endorsement of any force except, of course, Ewing's bureau, whose importance and power are proportionate to the money he can get his hands on and the number of persons he can give it to. There is no possibility of injustice to anyone under the Indiana plan, which is not unique but the obvious remedy but has the unique merit of a daring rebellion against Washington.

"Our attorney general told the governor that the state law did not compel Ewing to cut us off from federal grants-in-aid," Hunt writes. "He said Ewing could rule with us as well as he could rule against us.

But, if Ewing did rule for us, other states would surge forward with similar laws and Ewing's Empire, held together by his secret spending of tax money and his dictatorial powers, would collapse. If Indiana wins, federal control is set back on its heels and this welfare philosophy collapses. It should not cost Indiana more to pay her own way without federal grants because the economies that will be effected through public inspection of the welfare rolls will offset the amounts denied us by Ewing. Already the cost has dropped about 10 per cent through fear of publicity. With a little tightening up, it will go down another 25 per cent. The attacks of the Star, thus far, have saved the state about $5,000,000 in expenditures."

At the governors' conference, Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, said his state could cut her old-age pension costs by two-thirds by a law requiring publication of names and amounts.

Congress had no mandate from the people to write the secrecy provision into the law. This was done by the Roosevelt buraucracy in its own political interests when Congress was taking its orders from the White House in all matters. There is now on the rise a rebellion of the people against the arrogance of Congress, and this security issue, which doubtless will be won by the states, is one phase of it. There is another important phase in the rebellion of the Marshall girls, of Marshall, Tex., against the baby-sitter's social security tax and its impositions on the time and energies of millions of housewives. Literally, the housewives of the United States may ignore this law absolutely or defy it in writing without fear of any worse reprisal from the treasury than petty inconvenience.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Business Group May Decide on Planning Board

Woodstock, Oct. 12—A luncheon meeting of the Woodstock Business Association was held Thursday at the White Horse Inn, with Edgar Bauman presiding in the absence of William Hand, president.

A letter was read to the members present from John Pike concerning the artistic tradition and growth of the township of Woodstock and also containing suggestions as to the preservation of the natural beauties of the village and the surrounding countryside. Following the reading of the letter a resolution was passed to recommend to Kenneth Wilson, town supervisor, that a planning board be appointed to consist of one representative from each of the following organizations: the Woodstock Business Association, the Woodstock Civic Organization and the Woodstock Artists Association.

It was agreed that if the Woodstock Business Association should set up such a board alone, it could not force anyone to comply with decisions. But with several organizations working together, however, it would be possible to arouse enough civic pride so that decisions of any planning board might be considered provided that recommendations were reasonable.

It was announced that annual dues for the Woodstock Business Association have been reduced to one half of last year's amount and that a new budget has been set up accordingly. New members have been invited to join the association at the new rate plus an initiation fee, the amount of which is to be discussed at the next meeting.

Reports were received and read from the sales and promotion committee and the calendar of events committee, and recommendations will be discussed at the next meeting.

In a few days a committee will be appointed by William Hand to make plans for a repeat performance of the highly successful Halloween window painting competition, sponsored last year by the Woodstock Business Association. The youngsters will be urged to go out and paint the town Halloween night, with a window assigned to each boy and girl of school age who wishes to participate. The young artists will be given a free hand and may decorate the windows any way they please. The list of judges and prizes for the competition will be announced in the near future by Hand.

The next meeting of the Association will be held Tuesday, Oct. 23, at 8 p. m. at the Town House.

Stresses Purpose Of Nursery School

Woodstock, Oct. 12 — At the regular monthly meeting of the Tinker Street Cooperative Nursery School, Thursday night, Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, teacher at the school, spoke on the purpose of the nursery school and parent participation.

Mrs. Gilkey explained that one of the major purposes of a nursery school is to prepare older preschool children for kindergarten. In nursery school, while they are still too young to create forms or designs, they do learn the feel of clay and paint, acquire ease in holding a book and in expressing themselves before a group.

Presenting an outline of each morning's activities, Mrs. Gilkey stressed the importance of frequent changes in types of play, games, rhythm work and the necessary rest periods. "We have to give children a variety of experiences," she said.

In regard to the child's relationships with others she stressed the value of teaching each one how to "take turns" with toys and equipment. She also emphasized the importance of participating parents understanding safety rules both indoors and outdoors.

"We are attempting," she concluded, "to develop better play, eating and listening habits, as well as good sound relationships with their contemporaries."

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP) — New ceiling prices announced yesterday are estimated to allow increases of perhaps a penny a package on the retail price of frozen fruits and vegetables. However, an industry official told reporters the packers might decide not to boost prices on the ground that the frozen products are selling at about the highest level the public will pay.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Right Discard Way Is a Valuable Trick

By OSWALD JACOBY

The Mid-South Regional is one of the most important tournaments of the year, so when it begins in New Orleans in a couple of weeks it's a cinch that Mrs. W. L. Terry will travel down from her native Memphis to defend the pair championship that she won last year. The hand shown today is one of those that enabled her to win the tournament in 1950.

Mrs. Terry, holding the West cards, opened the queen of diamonds. Declarer won with the king of diamonds and looked pleased until he had tried one round of trumps with dummy's ace of hearts. With a normal trump break, South would lose only one club. Now his prospects looked rather bleak.

Undiscouraged, declarer took the top spades, discarding a low club, and ruffed a spade with the six of hearts. He continued by taking the ace of diamonds and ruffed a low diamond with dummy's three of hearts. Then he led dummy's last spade and ruffed in his hand with the king of hearts.

At this point Mrs. Terry had three trumps and a worthless club. Which card should she discard on declarer's high ruff?

Mrs. Terry came up with the right answer by discarding the eight of hearts. Now she still had a trump trick, and her partner still had a club trick.

If West discards the worthless club, declarer makes his slam contract. When he then leads a club, West has nothing but trumps and is therefore obliged to ruff. She must lead away from her jackknine of trumps, thus losing her trump trick.

As Pegler Sees It

port themselves. Poverty was an honorable and dignified state. That was conceded in the emotional confusion of the time and the same may be granted today by those who have seen the wasteful evil created by the secrecy clause.

If poverty is no disgrace, then it is hard to show that clients of public charity or "security" in any phase are humiliated by the publication of their names and benefits. Those who are poor by profession, making a career of dependence and restraining their abilities to earn a get-by living, lack the endorsement of any force except, of course, Ewing's bureau, whose importance and power are proportionate to the money he can get his hands on and the number of persons he can give it to. There is no possibility of injustice to anyone under the Indiana plan, which is not unique but the obvious remedy but has the unique merit of a daring rebellion against Washington.

"Our attorney general told the governor that the state law did not compel Ewing to cut us off from federal grants-in-aid," Hunt writes. "He said Ewing could rule with us as well as he could rule against us.

But, if Ewing did rule for us, other states would surge forward with similar laws and Ewing's Empire, held together by his secret spending of tax money and his dictatorial powers, would collapse. If Indiana wins, federal control is set back on its heels and this welfare philosophy collapses. It should not cost Indiana more to pay her own way without federal grants because the economies that will be effected through public inspection of the welfare rolls will offset the amounts denied us by Ewing. Already the cost has dropped about 10 per cent through fear of publicity. With a little tightening up, it will go down another 25 per cent. The attacks of the Star, thus far, have saved the state about $5,000,000 in expenditures."

At the governors' conference, Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, said his state could cut her old-age pension costs by two-thirds by a law requiring publication of names and amounts.

Congress had no mandate from the people to write the secrecy provision into the law. This was done by the Roosevelt buraucracy in its own political interests when Congress was taking its orders from the White House in all matters. There is now on the rise a rebellion of the people against the arrogance of Congress, and this security issue, which doubtless will be won by the states, is one phase of it. There is another important phase in the rebellion of the Marshall girls, of Marshall, Tex., against the baby-sitter's social security tax and its impositions on the time and energies of millions of housewives. Literally, the housewives of the United States may ignore this law absolutely or defy it in writing without fear of any worse reprisal from the treasury than petty inconvenience.

Raise for Dockmen

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—Members of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) working in ports from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va., have voted to accept a new contract negotiated on Monday, the ILA announced yesterday. ILA President Joseph P. Ryan said the vote among the 65,000 men was better than two-to-one. The contract provides a wage increase of ten cents an hour, raising the basic wage to $2.10.

Make Shelter Surveys

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP) — The Federal Civil Defense Administration (FCDA) is sending experts to 70 heavily-populated cities throughout the nation, to help make bomb-shelter surveys. Five technicians will visit the cities to give advice to local civil defense authorities on measurement of the shelter facilities of existing buildings, and of the modifications needed to make them suitable.

THE FULL LIFE—A man-sized stein of foamy fluid, a stout stogie and a colorful Bavarian costume—they all add up to fair time in Munich. This Bavarian marksman finds the city's 124th "Oktoberfest"—with its 60 acres of carnival rides, side shows, roasting pits and 700,000 gallons of beer—much to his liking. Business Group May Decide on Planning Board

Woodstock, Oct. 12—A luncheon meeting of the Woodstock Business Association was held Thursday at the White Horse Inn, with Edgar Bauman presiding in the absence of William Hand, president.

A letter was read to the members present from John Pike concerning the artistic tradition and growth of the township of Woodstock and also containing suggestions as to the preservation of the natural beauties of the village and the surrounding countryside. Following the reading of the letter a resolution was passed to recommend to Kenneth Wilson, town supervisor, that a planning board be appointed to consist of one representative from each of the following organizations: the Woodstock Business Association, the Woodstock Civic Organization and the Woodstock Artists Association.

It was agreed that if the Woodstock Business Association should set up such a board alone, it could not force anyone to comply with decisions. But with several organizations working together, however, it would be possible to arouse enough civic pride so that decisions of any planning board might be considered provided that recommendations were reasonable.

It was announced that annual dues for the Woodstock Business Association have been reduced to one half of last year's amount and that a new budget has been set up accordingly. New members have been invited to join the association at the new rate plus an initiation fee, the amount of which is to be discussed at the next meeting.

Reports were received and read from the sales and promotion committee and the calendar of events committee, and recommendations will be discussed at the next meeting.

In a few days a committee will be appointed by William Hand to make plans for a repeat performance of the highly successful Halloween window painting competition, sponsored last year by the Woodstock Business Association. The youngsters will be urged to go out and paint the town Halloween night, with a window assigned to each boy and girl of school age who wishes to participate. The young artists will be given a free hand and may decorate the windows any way they please. The list of judges and prizes for the competition will be announced in the near future by Hand.

The next meeting of the Association will be held Tuesday, Oct. 23, at 8 p. m. at the Town House.

Stresses Purpose Of Nursery School

Woodstock, Oct. 12 — At the regular monthly meeting of the Tinker Street Cooperative Nursery School, Thursday night, Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, teacher at the school, spoke on the purpose of the nursery school and parent participation.

Mrs. Gilkey explained that one of the major purposes of a nursery school is to prepare older preschool children for kindergarten. In nursery school, while they are still too young to create forms or designs, they do learn the feel of clay and paint, acquire ease in holding a book and in expressing themselves before a group.

Presenting an outline of each morning's activities, Mrs. Gilkey stressed the importance of frequent changes in types of play, games, rhythm work and the necessary rest periods. "We have to give children a variety of experiences," she said.

In regard to the child's relationships with others she stressed the value of teaching each one how to "take turns" with toys and equipment. She also emphasized the importance of participating parents understanding safety rules both indoors and outdoors.

"We are attempting," she concluded, "to develop better play, eating and listening habits, as well as good sound relationships with their contemporaries."

Penny a Package

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP) — New ceiling prices announced yesterday are estimated to allow increases of perhaps a penny a package on the retail price of frozen fruits and vegetables. However, an industry official told reporters the packers might decide not to boost prices on the ground that the frozen products are selling at about the highest level the public will pay.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Right Discard Way Is a Valuable Trick

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The Mid-South Regional is one of the most important tournaments of the year, so when it begins in New Orleans in a couple of weeks it's a cinch that Mrs. W. L. Terry will travel down from her native Memphis to defend the pair championship that she won last year. The hand shown today is one of those that enabled her to win the tournament in 1950.

Mrs. Terry, holding the West cards, opened the queen of diamonds. Declarer won with the king of diamonds and looked pleased until he had tried one round of trumps with dummy's ace of hearts. With a normal trump break, South would lose only one club. Now his prospects looked rather bleak.

Undiscouraged, declarer took the top spades, discarding a low club, and ruffed a spade with the six of hearts. He continued by taking the ace of diamonds and ruffed a low diamond with dummy's three of hearts. Then he led dummy's last spade and ruffed in his hand with the king of hearts.

At this point Mrs. Terry had three trumps and a worthless club. Which card should she discard on declarer's high ruff?

Mrs. Terry came up with the right answer by discarding the eight of hearts. Now she still had a trump trick, and her partner still had a club trick.

If West discards the worthless club, declarer makes his slam contract. When he then leads a club, West has nothing but trumps and is therefore obliged to ruff. She must lead away from her jack-nine of trumps, thus losing her trump trick.

Miss Evelyn Barbara Billings Is Wed In Church Ceremony to Ernest Vitarius

The Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, decorated for the occasion with palms and bouquets of white chrysanthemums, was the scene Sunday afternoon of the marriage of Miss Evelyn Barbara Billings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger G. Billings, 60 Elizabeth street, to Ernest Robert Vitarius, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vitarius, Sr., of Port Ewen. The double ring ceremony was performed at 2:30 p. m., by the Rev. David C. Gaise of that congregation.

Traditional organ selections were played by Mrs. Lester Decker, while John Bach sang At Dawning, Because, and The Lord's Prayer.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, represented the fourth generation of her family at the ceremony, which was attended by her great-grandmother, Mrs. Charles W. Towne, and her grandmother, Mrs. Richard R. Findlay, both of Quincy, Mass. She was dressed in a princess-style white satin gown, with a Belgium lace yoke, long pointed sleeves, and bouffant skirt terminating in a train. She wore a circular illusion veil edged in Belgium lace, and a scalloped headpiece trimmed with seed pearls. Her old-fashioned bouquet was of white roses and baby pompons, with an attached cascade and white satin ribbon showers.

Miss Geraldine Billings of 60 Elizabeth street, as her sister's maid of honor, wore a gown of mint green taffeta faille, with a molded bodice and a small, pointed capelet. Her headpiece was of veiling secured with a cluster of pompons.

Serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Riley, aunt of the bride, of Squantum, Mass., and Miss Janet Bostwick, cousin of the bride of Quincy. Their frost-pink gowns and headpieces were the same as those of the maid of honor. The attendants carried nosegays of rust pompons, with rose ribbon showers entwined with ivy and pompons.

Carol Riley, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed in a gown of ice-blue taffeta faille, with a hoop skirt and a net yoke trimmed with a ruffle. She carried a nosegay of pink pompoms, with pink ribbon showers.

Joseph Vitarius of Carteret, N. J., brother of the groom, was best man. Bela Vitarius of Port Ewen and Julius Vitarius of this city, both brothers of the groom, ushered.

A reception followed at The Barn for 110 guests, with entertainment by Roger Baer at the organ.

On their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Vitarius are visiting Florida. The bride's traveling ensemble included a toast-colored suit, dark brown accessories, and a yellow rosebud corsage. Upon their return they will make their home at 171 Henry street, this city.

Mrs. Vitarius was graduated from Kingston High School with the class of '50, and is employed at Dedrick Drug store. Mr. Vitarius attended Kingston High School, and received his diploma through the University of the State of New York. He served two years with the U. S. Navy, and is now employed at Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen.

Musical Society Hears Leonard Stine Describe Music Education in Kingston

Leonard Stine was guest speaker Wednesday night at the Musical Society of Kingston's opening dinner and meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mr. Stine, who was introduced by Miss Ethel Mauterstock, answered a series of questions on music education in the Kingston schools.

Speaking of the high school's A Cappella choir, which is composed of a balanced membership of 100 from the four high school levels, he explained that classes in first and second year voice training are offered, with choir membership as a prerequisite. Students who have been active in choir work at the MJM school, he said, are selected for voice-training classes when they enter high school, later replacing graduating seniors. The school chorus allows students, who cannot fulfill choir membership requirements, to participate in similar vocal activity.

Answering the age-old question of changing boys' voices, Mr. Stine said that when handled properly, the adolescent boy's voice is not a major problem.

"Contrary to older theories of resting the voice during its change, or even having the boy sing in a treble falsetto after his speaking voice has changed to a lower pitch . . . vocal authorities now concede that the most constructive procedure is to allow the boy to sing as he speaks, changing from one part to another as his voice develops and settles."

Elementary Training

Each of the city's 100 elementary class rooms, with their studen population of 2,300 receives a minimum of 100 minutes music instruction weekly, Mr. Stine continued. In addition there are rhythm bands, glee clubs, special classes in music appreciation and instrumental instruction for selected students, which includes a group orchestra for more proficient children.

The high school music program, he explained, is geared to meet the needs of approximately 800 rural and parochial school students, who, when they first enter, are under the jurisdiction of special teachers. Through voice and instrumental classes, students without previous instruction or training, can participate in the school's music curricula.

Owns Many Instruments

Mr. Stine also pointed out that the Kingston school system owns an estimated $18,000 worth of musical instruments, which are loaned each year to students. The constant care, inventory, insurance and repair of these constitutes a tremendous task.

In closing, Mr. Stine thanked members of the Musical Society for their interest in presenting an annual award to an outstanding member of the music department, who is a graduate senior. The student, he said, is selected by a joint committee of high school music teachers on the basis of overall participation, and development in both instrumental and vocal phases of the program.

At the close of the meeting, several members of the society visited the high school, where they toured band and orchestra rooms, now in their second year of use.

To Elect Officers

Congregation Ahavath Israel will elect officers for the coming year at a meeting Thursday night, Oct. 18. Final nominations will be received Thursday prior to the election. Also scheduled are full reports from the chairmen of the ball and building committees. The latter will contain "vital matters for discussion regarding the new addition" according to Benjamin Schecter, president. During the meeting refreshments will be served.

City Y-Teens Hold Special Chocolate For Christmas Day

"Chocolate for Christmas Day," one of the high points of Y-Teens fourth annual Roll Call Week, was held yesterday, marking the third successive Christmas that teen-age members of the YW have remembered their contemporaries abroad during the holiday season.

"In response to the nearly six tons of chocolate sent to 15 countries last year," Miss Kathrine Austin, director of the YWCA teen-age program here, explained yesterday, "Y-teens receiving them have sent all sort of messages. In Tokyo they told of breaking the bars into small pieces, since there was not enough for each girl to have a whole bar. . . . Many of the children immediately sent most of their share to the boys and girls in Korea. . . . Aside from the need for sweets in war-torn Korea, the happy recipients had the thrill of receiving something from America, and the joy of knowing teenagers elsewhere had thought of them.

"Some of the chocolate went to Quelpart, the orphanage operated by chaplains for youngsters of two to 12 years of age, who had been air-lifted out of Seoul just before Christmas by means of "Operation Kiddy-car."

Reveals Statistics

In India, Miss Austin went on to explain, Chocolate for Christmas revealed necessary, but previously unknown statistics. India's national YW sent word that teen-age clubs, that could prove themselves fully organized, should send in that information coupled with their total membership. They would receive, in return, enough candy for the group. Y-teens responded, and central headquarters now has the Y-teen statistics.

Y-teens in Holland broke their bars in two, keeping half for themselves, and giving the rest to the sick. Some of Britain's allotment found its way to displaced persons' camps in Austria and Germany.

300 Pounds for Berlin

"Mrs. Margaret Day Anthen, an American YW worker in Germany, reported that 300 pounds of chocolate arrived for the teenagers of Berlin. Most of it was carried by hand to girls in the Russian zone," Miss Austin said. "Miss Clara Boyd Wheeler, the representative of the American YW in Greece, wrote that the chocolates were a wonderful treat to thousands of needy children, and that some of it had been shared with children in a village adopted by the YWCA of Greece.

"Many of the Y-teens receiving our gifts have, in turn, sent remembrances to their American friends," Miss Austin concluded. "Gifts and letter cross national lines, and form strong friendship lines, of which Kingston Y-teens are proud to be a part."

Youth Center Dance

There will be dancing at the YMCA Youth Center Saturday from 8 to 11:45 p. m. Music will be furnished by Bill Brown and his orchestra.

Lowell Club

The Lowell Literary Club has postponed its October 16th meeting until October 23. The meeting will be held at 3:30 at the home of Mrs. H. Killinder, Ulster Park.

Maroon Gridders Seek Second Win at Curtis

Met Squad Reported To Be Just So-So

Kingston High's slightly unstable football squad takes on Curtis High of St. George, Staten Island, in its third road game of the season tonight at Weisglod Stadium in Richmond, Staten Island.

Game time is 8 p. m. and a play-by-play description will be carried over the local radio station.

With several players hit by the so-called "twenty four hour grip" during the week, Coach Bill Burke said this morning he would not know until late today just what members would be available for the game. But he was inclined to be optimistic.

Scatback Pat Manfro was among the hardest hit by grip, although several members were affected in varying degrees.

Seek First Win

Curtis High, normally a Staten Island and metropolitan district power, is sub-standard this year, having dropped its first three games of the season. Normally a powerhouse, the Curtis team is said to be fair on defense and offensively weak.

In their last appearance in this area—in 1949 at Poughkeepsie—the Indians suffered a 20-0 drubbing at the hands of a good Poughkeepsie High squad. That was the year a great KHS machine was hard pressed to edge the Blues, 13 to 7. Poughkeepsie held the Curtis team to a minus-20 yardage in a brawl that was marked by frequent rhubarbs.

At the moment it appears that Kingston will have most of its regulars in action with the exception of Manfro.

Tennis Team Plays Return With Beacon

The Ulster County Tennis Club stars will meet Texaco Laboratories Research squad in a return match on Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Hasbrouck Park courts.

The Kingston netmen whipped Beacon, 4 to 2, in their meeting a couple of weeks ago in Beacon, taking three singles and a double.

Appearing for the locals will be Chet Fox, Ed Lacey, Irving Wheatcroft and Jansen Fowler, a replacement for Joe Scott, who will be out of town. The Beacon lineup includes Frank Morgan, Charlie Davis, Philip Smith and Felix Flemming.

Test for Crusaders

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 12 (AP)—Holy Cross, which is shaping up as one of the east's strongest football forces, reaches its make-or-break stage tomorrow when it engages Tulane in New Orleans' famed Sugar Bowl. And if Dr. Eddie Anderson's underdog Crusaders succeed in turning back the Green Wave, it will be another outstanding feat for that highly successful coach.

40 Million Fans To See Football

More than 40 million football fans are expected to watch unbeaten Notre Dame tangle with Southern Methodist's twice-defeated but dangerous Mustangs at South Bend on Saturday. The game will be seen in this area through the facilities of WNBT, Channel 4.

Second of the three games on the NCAA's revised TV program for the season, the tilt will be carried by 39 nations, with an audience exceeding by ten million the number who viewed last week's Illinois-Wisconsin country-wide telecast.

Describing the SMU-Irish game will be Mel Allen, just finished airing the World Series, and Bob Stanton, veteran NBC announcer.

The team also will compete in the Pennsylvania National Horse Show opening Oct. 20, and then return to New York. The team winds up its tour at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, Canada, starting Nov. 13.

There will be no school Friday, Oct. 19, as the teachers will attend a State Teachers' Conference in New York.

Mrs. Silas Church accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lyons of Wurtsboro are on a motor trip to Florida. While there they expect to visit their brother, Ray Jansen.

Yankees Have Inside Track on Garver; Chicago White Sox Set for Brisk Trading

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—Major league teams, especially the also rans, have launched their 1952 rebuilding programs and it appears that one of the most spirited trading sessions in years is on tap.

No "big deals" have been consummated but a number involving name players are expected. Most teams are on record that they will trade anybody in order to strengthen.

The biggest deal brewing reportedly involves Ned Garver, the brilliant 20-game winner of the tail-end St. Louis Browns. Both the champion New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox are supposed to be dickering for Garver's services.

Reports persist that the Yanks made a down payment on Garver when they sold outfielder Cliff Mapes to the Browns on waivers during the season. Second baseman Gerry Coleman and four other Yanks along with a bundle of cash are supposed to complete the transaction.

General Manager George Weiss of the Yanks admitted yesterday that he had huddled with St. Louis officials for three hours but had reached no agreement on any deals.

"There was no deal made," Weiss said.

Rivera To Chisox

The rumors also say the White Sox will send a number of players including Jim Rivera, a rookie who burned up the Pacific Coast League and cash to the Browns. Rivera played for Seattle under Rogers Hornsby, the Browns' new manager.

The White Sox also reportedly have the inside track in a deal that will procure third baseman Hector Rodriguez from Brooklyn's Montreal International League team. Rodriquez was the International rookie of the year.

The Chicago Cubs yesterday obtained outfielder Bob Addis from the Boston Braves in exchange for slick fielding but light-hitting shortstop, Jack Cusick.

The Braves also released veteran catcher Ray Mueller yesterday.

The heaviest trading session is expected during the major league meetings in New York in December. There also may be some action during the annual minor league player draft in Cincinnati next month.

The St. Louis Browns have acquired infielder Leo Thomas, who with the Portland club was one of the top batters in the Pacific Coast League this year.

The Southern Association Nashville Vols have signed a working agreement with the New York Giants through their American Association Minneapolis farm club.

The pact was announced by Larry Gilbert, vice-president and general manager of the club.

Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, said last night he planned to talk over the managerial situation with Marty Marion in St. Louis Monday.

Asked whether he planned to rehire Marion as manager, Saigh ducked a direct answer but said: "If a guy's done a good job, he doesn't have to worry."

Marion led the Cards to third place this year despite an epidemic of illness among the players early in the season and many injuries to key players. The Cards finished fifth under Eddie Dyer in 1950.

Klosterman's .465 Paced Shandaken

Johnny Klosterman's rousing .465 average led the Shandaken baseball club during the 1951 season, official figures revealed today. Manager Let Grant was runnerup with .440.

Other top averages were: Bob Kelly .369; Herdman .357; Zeke Klosterman .350; Vinnie Capone .333; Neil Grant .290; Bob Griffin .278; Mason Gossoo .250; Earl Fairbain. 237. The team average was a phenomenal .333.

Boston Garden Purchases Bruins

Boston, Oct. 12 (AP) — For all practical purposes the Boston Bruins National Hockey League club today was under control of the Boston Garden, its landlord for the past 13 years.

General Manager Walter Brown of the Boston Garden-Arena Corporation became the Bruins' president yesterday when it completed arrangements to purchase a 60 per cent controlling interest in the hockey club, founded by the late C. F. Adams back in 1924. It has been headed by the latter's son, Weston W. Adams, for the past 15 seasons.

Brown explained that the deal called for the purchase of 16,320 of the Bruins' total of 27,200 shares, held by a small group.

Vejar 2-1 Choice Over Lou Volpe

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—Chico Vejar is a 2 to 1 favorite to get back on the winning track tonight when he faces Sonny Lou Volpe in the main ten rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Chico, a clever boxer-puncher from Stamford, Conn., lost his first pro bout three weeks ago when he dropped a split decision to Eddie Compo at Madison Square Garden. The 20-year-old New York University freshman had won 32 straight.

Volpe, a 20-year old who lives a block away from St. Nicks, has a 13-1 record and has been coming along fast. This will be his first ten rounder.

Chastened Hoople Dusts McGinty's Heliacal Hypothesis for Week's Games

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
(The Old Pint-A-Minute Man)

Egad! Throughout the land the hapless fellows competing with me at the pastime of picking football winners are leering like the cat that just swallowed the mouse. And no wonder!

Drat that Sam Kalloch. In a couple of hours he turned all my years of scientific study and approach to football into a nightmare. But this week it will be different!

All the handicapping systems used by the mine-run selectors have played them false. Only your correspondent still is dependable, and that is because he has found a new and well nigh infallible law to apply to grid combat.

Alas! I have tried Avanzani's laws of the falling plate, the law of averages, Avogrado's laws of gases, the law of absorption, Kepler's laws of planetary motion, and the law of cosines. All of these have been found to have a fly in them.

But I am carrying on undaunted, my coat-of-arms still unsullied. This week I really have discovered what the boys in the back room are wont to term "the real McCoy!"

It is Dr. Gottwald McGinty's heliacal hypothesis!

Years ago I used this to handicap polo matches and steeplechases, but I had shelved it as too complicated for football.

With things so topsy-turvy in the baseball and pigskin world, however, it has been recovered, dusted off and my zillions of readers will find it sure fire. No folks, I can't explain it to you—not yet, that is!

Drat that Sam Kalloch. In a couple of hours he turned all my years of scientific study and approach to football into a nightmare. But this week it will be different!

All the handicapping systems used by the mine-run selectors have played them false. Only your correspondent still is dependable, and that is because he has found a new and well nigh infallible law to apply to grid combat.

Alas! I have tried Avanzani's laws of the falling plate, the law of averages, Avogrado's laws of gases, the law of absorption, Kepler's laws of planetary motion, and the law of cosines. All of these have been found to have a fly in them.

But I am carrying on undaunted, my coat-of-arms still unsullied. This week I really have discovered what the boys in the back room are wont to term "the real McCoy!"

It is Dr. Gottwald McGinty's heliacal hypothesis!

Years ago I used this to handicap polo matches and steeplechases, but I had shelved it as too complicated for football.

With things so topsy-turvy in the baseball and pigskin world,

however, it has been recovered, dusted off and my zillions of readers will find it sure fire. No folks, I can't explain it to you—not yet, that is!

Now for the forecast of the big games of Oct. 13.

Harold Broskie and Norma Hornbeck Top Bowlers With Triples of 650 and 501

Harold Broskie, an established star who enjoys greater success at tenpins than he does in selecting American League pennant winners, and Norma Hornbeck were the stars of stars in last night's local bowling.

Broskie turned in the hat trick with a 650 blast in the red hot Ferraro Major, shooting 202-226-222. Norma's 501 triple on games of 160-128-213 was the real news of the night. Not bad for a young lady who entered the night's rolling with a modest 127 average.

Miriam Posner, an old hand at "500" triples tied the 501 with 153-166-182 in the Sisterhood League but she will not of course begrudge Norma's place of glory in today's bowling headlines. The 213 is believed to be a seasonal record in the Central Rec Women's circuit.

Colvin Has 574

Other individual leaders included Stan Colvin, who shot 218-185-171-574 in the No-Can-Do; Bob Fatum 165-219-172-556 in the Y Mercantile National; Craig Plough 192-183-183-559 in the Commercial; and Doug Kennedy 172-149-209-530 in the Y Federation American.

A half dozen other keglers reached the "600" mark in the Ferraro Major. Lou Hymes posted 221-200-215-636; Johnny Ferraro 236-622; Bill Kuehn 217-206-612; Harry Smith 224-604; George Flemings 234-604; Hank Kammerer 225-200-602. George Robinson near-missed with 215-598. Other top counts included Phil Masters 577; Clifton Quick 575; Ed Heins 207-231-581 and Bill Lawrence 200-580.

Ralph Frederick's 203-558 was good for runnerup position in the No-Can-Do. C. Stoutenberg clicked for 537; Carl Beatty 206-533; Rudy Kubicek 208-530; Ray Otto 526; Joseph Magnino 520; J. Fatum 203-518; Herb Kessman 518; Bill Pieper 213-513; and Emil Boessnesk 501. Frank Norman and Gus Steigerwald each had 200s.

Seelbach Pounds 550

Other good pinfall in the Commercial circuit was credited to Herm Seelbach with 204-550; John Howard and Frank Grimaldi, 541; George Kuriger 520; Bill Stenson 519; Ray Lindhorst 514; Ed Dasher 498; Art Shelightner and John Hartman 496 and I. Brown 491.

Thelma Garon was runnerup to Norma Hornbeck in the Central Rec Women's with 483. Tillie Howard posted 457; Eva Rose 446; Cora DeCicco 441; Rose Ramming 431; B. Garlick 423; E. Hutton 421; B. Schwartz and E. Wolfersteig 414; B. Jeterson 409; Laura DeCicco and Janet Hines 406; L. DeCicco 400.

R. Wessel spilled a 201-526 in the Y Mercantile National and John Steel had 531. Bill Hornbeck pounded 207-495; Chares Pugliese 499; F. Sarbacher 481.

Eleanor Singer took second place in the Sisterhood circuit with 461; R. Levine had 455; Bea Arlensky 421; M. Propp 412; Elsie Kantrowitz 405; and Bea Pakarsky 402.

Le Roy Brown stacked a 512 in the Y Federation American and Bob Waltman shot 503. Ray Harper came up with high solo of 210 and 500 flat.

Cleveland, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians announced today they had added Tony Cuccinello, 43, to their coaching staff.

He played second base, shortstop and third base for Brooklyn, Boston and New York in the National League and Chicago in the American.

Rapps vs. Catskill

Rapp's Furniture Express and the Catskill Recreation keglers meet in a special bowling match Saturday night at the Bowlodrome at 8 p. m. Bill Guldenstern, who cracked a 690 series last week in a local match, will lead the Catskill squad.

California, Notre Dame and Syracuse Face First Major Tests on Saturday

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—Football gets the undivided attention of the sports world tomorrow for the first time this season and offers such choice morsels as Southern Methodists at Notre Dame, Oklahoma at Texas, Ohio State at Wisconsin, Louisiana State at Georgia Tech and California at Washington State.

With the World Series scarcely history, the football season already has advanced to the point where Oklahoma and Kentucky, Sugar Bowl rivals in January, are starting comebacks; Notre Dame has been stamped another powerhouse and Michigan State, California and Tennessee are bracketed as the country's best.

Michigan State and Tennessee are at home Saturday to Marquette and Chattanooga, respectively. Neither of the two mighty teams is in a position where worrying is needed. California, however, travels up the west coast to take on Washington State. Such a jaunt has troubled the Bears in the past but shouldn't this season with both fullback John Olszewski and guard Les Richter in the lineup.

Texas A&M, ranked No. 4 in the Associated Press poll, also has a relatively easy task, taking on Trinity of Texas under the lights at San Antonio.

But Notre Dame's teen-agers—the youngest Irish squad coach Frank Leahy has had in his nine years at South Bend—could have its hands full with Southern Methodist, which boasts of a great passer in Fred Benners.

Oklahoma, last year's No. 1 team in the final AP poll, was held to four puny first downs last week in its defeat by Texas A&M, now must invade the Lone Star State for its annual hassle with Texas University. The Sooners won a yea ago, 7 to 6, and another such defensive battle is in prospect again.

Illinois invades the east to test rapidly improving Syracuse and Ohio State barges into Wisconsin with the lower virtually assured that it will not be nominated as the Big Ten's Rose Bowl team.

Other games Saturday include Yale at Columbia, Princeton at Penn, Dartmouth at Army, Harvard at Cornell.

McDermott, Wes Westrum and Al Corwin Play in Whalen Game in Poughkeepsie

Arrangements are being made to accommodate a record crowd when the Poughkeepsie Elks semi-professional baseball team tackles the classy New Jersey Silk Sox on Sunday afternoon at Riverview Field in Poughkeepsie. Game time is 2 o'clock.

The Elks, Hudson valley champions, will feature Poughkeepsie's famous major league battery—Maurice McDermott of the Boston Red Sox on the mound and Wes Westrum of the N. Y. Giants catching. Elmer "Al" Corwin, of Newburgh, rookie pitcher with the Giants during the fabulous 1951 season, will pitch for the Silk Sox.

Also appearing with the Elks will be Austin Knickerbocker, former outfielder for the Philadelphia Athletics who completed his professional career with San Antonio of the Texas League this season.

The Silk Sox are recognized as the semi-pro champions of New Jersey and will aim to prevent the Elks from notching their 18th triumph in 21 starts.

The game has been arranged as "Bill Whalen day" in honor of the head of the Elks nine for his many years of work in semi-pro baseball.

Harold Broskie and Norma Hornbeck Top Bowlers With Triples of 650 and 501

Harold Broskie, an established star who enjoys greater success at tenpins than he does in selecting American League pennant winners, and Norma Hornbeck were the stars of stars in last night's local bowling.

Broskie turned in the hat trick with a 650 blast in the red hot Ferraro Major, shooting 202-226-222. Norma's 501 triple on games of 160-128-213 was the real news of the night. Not bad for a young lady who entered the night's rolling with a modest 127 average.

Miriam Posner, an old hand at "500" triples tied the 501 with 153-166-182 in the Sisterhood League but she will not of course begrudge Norma's place of glory in today's bowling headlines. The 213 is believed to be a seasonal record in the Central Rec Women's circuit.

Colvin Has 574

Other individual leaders included Stan Colvin, who shot 218-185-171-574 in the No-Can-Do; Bob Fatum 165-219-172-556 in the Y Mercantile National; Craig Plough 192-183-183-559 in the Commercial; and Doug Kennedy 172-149-209-530 in the Y Federation American.

A half dozen other keglers reached the "600" mark in the Ferraro Major. Lou Hymes posted 221-200-215-636; Johnny Ferraro 236-622; Bill Kuehn 217-206-612; Harry Smith 224-604; George Flemings 234-604; Hank Kammerer 225-200-602. George Robinson near-missed with 215-598. Other top counts included Phil Masters 577; Clifton Quick 575; Ed Heins 207-231-581 and Bill Lawrence 200-580.

Ralph Frederick's 203-558 was good for runnerup position in the No-Can-Do C. Stoutenberg clicked for 537; Carl Beatty 206-533; Rudy Kubicek 208-530; Ray Otto 526; Joseph Magnino 520; J. Fatum 203-518; Herb Kessman 518; Bill Pieper 213-513; and Emil Boessnesk 501. Frank Norman and Gus Steigerwald each had 200s.

Seelbach Pounds 550

Other good pinfall in the Commercial circuit was credited to Herm Seelbach with 204-550; John Howard and Frank Grimaldi, 541; George Kuriger 520; Bill Stenson 519; Ray Lindhorst 514; Ed Dasher 498; Art Shelightner and John Hartman 496 and I. Brown 491.

Thelma Garon was runnerup to Norma Hornbeck in the Central Rec Women's with 483. Tillie Howard posted 457; Eva Rose 446; Cora DeCicco 441; Rose Ramming 431; B. Garlick 423; E. Hutton 421; B. Schwartz and E. Wolfersteig 414; B. Jeterson 409; Laura DeCicco and Janet Hines 406; L. DeCicco 400.

R. Wessel spilled a 201-526 in the Y Mercantile National and John Steel had 531. Bill Hornbeck pounded 207-495; Chares Pugliese 499; F. Sarbacher 481.

Eleanor Singer took second place in the Sisterhood circuit with 461; R. Levine had 455; Bea Arlensky 421; M. Propp 412; Elsie Kantrowitz 405; and Bea Pakarsky 402.

Le Roy Brown stacked a 512 in the Y Federation American and Bob Waltman shot 503. Ray Harper came up with high solo of 210 and 500 flat.

California, Notre Dame and Syracuse Face First Major Tests on Saturday

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—Football gets the undivided attention of the sports world tomorrow for the first time this season and offers such choice morsels as Southern Methodists at Notre Dame, Oklahoma at Texas, Ohio State at Wisconsin, Louisiana State at Georgia Tech and California at Washington State.

With the World Series scarcely history, the football season already has advanced to the point where Oklahoma and Kentucky, Sugar Bowl rivals in January, are starting comebacks; Notre Dame has been stamped another powerhouse and Michigan State, California and Tennessee are bracketed as the country's best.

Michigan State and Tennessee are at home Saturday to Marquette and Chattanooga, respectively. Neither of the two mighty teams is in a position where worrying is needed. California, however, travels up the west coast to take on Washington State. Such a jaunt has troubled the Bears in the past but shouldn't this season with both fullback John Olszewski and guard Les Richter in the lineup.

Texas A&M, ranked No. 4 in the Associated Press poll, also has a relatively easy task, taking on Trinity of Texas under the lights at San Antonio.

But Notre Dame's teen-agers—the youngest Irish squad coach Frank Leahy has had in his nine years at South Bend—could have its hands full with Southern Methodist, which boasts of a great passer in Fred Benners.

Oklahoma, last year's No. 1 team in the final AP poll, was held to four puny first downs last week in its defeat by Texas A&M, now must invade the Lone Star State for its annual hassle with Texas University. The Sooners won a yea ago, 7 to 6, and another such defensive battle is in prospect again.

Illinois invades the east to test rapidly improving Syracuse and Ohio State barges into Wisconsin with the lower virtually assured that it will not be nominated as the Big Ten's Rose Bowl team.

Other games Saturday include Yale at Columbia, Princeton at Penn, Dartmouth at Army, Harvard at Cornell.

Register Tonight

Register before 10 o'clock tonight. Do it tonight and be sure of your right to vote in the important general election to be held November 6. Saturday the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

McDermott, Wes Westrum and Al Corwin Play in Whalen Game in Poughkeepsie

Arrangements are being made to accommodate a record crowd when the Poughkeepsie Elks semi-professional baseball team tackles the classy New Jersey Silk Sox on Sunday afternoon at Riverview Field in Poughkeepsie. Game time is 2 o'clock.

The Elks, Hudson valley champions, will feature Poughkeepsie's famous major league battery—Maurice McDermott of the Boston Red Sox on the mound and Wes Westrum of the N. Y. Giants catching. Elmer "Al" Corwin, of Newburgh, rookie pitcher with the Giants during the fabulous 1951 season, will pitch for the Silk Sox.

Also appearing with the Elks will be Austin Knickerbocker, former outfielder for the Philadelphia Athletics who completed his professional career with San Antonio of the Texas League this season.

The Silk Sox are recognized as the semi-pro champions of New Jersey and will aim to prevent the Elks from notching their 18th triumph in 21 starts.

The game has been arranged as "Bill Whalen day" in honor of the head of the Elks nine for his many years of work in semi-pro baseball.

Scotch Rhythm Wins Big Detroit Purse

Detroit, Oct. 12 (AP)—Scotch Rhythm, pride of the Grand Circuit, looked very much the champion here last night in winning the $10,000 Board of Commerce trot at the Detroit race track.

A record Thursday night crowd of 5,855 saw the race, a revival of Michigan's second oldest harness event. The circuit is holding a one week meeting at the Detroit track.

Scotch Rhythm, second place winner in the Hambletonian, won the first heat in 2:05.8, but was second to Thunderation in the second heat.

Judge Was Figure Who Paved Way Against Finnegan

St. Louis, Oct. 12 (AP)—A 73-year-old jurist was the key figure in events leading to the indictment of James P. Finnegan on charges of accepting bribes.

He is U. S. District Judge George H. Moore.

A federal court grand jury indicted Finnegan, personal friend of President Truman, on five counts yesterday. Finnegan resigned his collector's job last April.

On March 1, a month and a half after the jury was impaneled, Judge Moore ordered it to look into handling of tax cases in eastern Missouri.

A few days later it was learned the judge had received a letter from a former tax intelligence unit agent which voiced suspicions that some cases were "fixed."

After three weeks' work the jury told the court in a partial report it could find no wrongdoing.

Wouldn't Take 'No'

Judge Moore wouldn't take no for an answer. He bluntly declared in court the jurors hadn't had help from "certain officials" in their work. He did not name names or departments.

He told the jurors to try again and told them where to find what they were seeking.

On May 7 Sen. Williams (R.-Del.) charged on the Senate floor that the Justice and Treasury Departments withheld damaging evidence against Finnegan despite requests for co-operation in the investigation.

Finnegan was charged in two counts with accepting two $250 checks from the Karol Kell Garment Company, which since has gone out of business, at a time the firm had pending a tax delinquency case which by law "might be brought before him (Finnegan) in his official capacity."

The other three counts accused Finnegan of violating a law by accepting pay for services involving controversies in which the United States was a party.

'Told to Resign'

Three days ago Finnegan told the House Ways and Means Committee he tried to resign as collector on three occasions and in 1950 was told by President Truman to stay on because there was no replacement.

Mr. Truman said at a press conference yesterday that he was unable to recall whether he had ever asked Finnegan not to resign, but added, they said I did. He did not identify "they."

The President also said he was unaware of Finnegan's outside activities until recently. Finnegan has said he practiced law while on the federal payroll.

Mr. Truman remarked that he opposed outside activities by internal revenue collectors.

If convicted, Finnegan could be sentenced to three years on each bribery count and fined three times the amount of money received, or both. On the other charges, the maximum penalty is two years in prison or $10,000 fine, or both, on each count.

Finnegan has not been located. He left Washington Wednesday after testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Judge Moore set his bond at $5,000. He ordered the grand jury recessed "subject to recall." The life of the jury had been extended until March, 1952.

Duck Didn't Duck

City Marshal Benson V. Miller has had some wild goose chases with legal papers since he has been a city court employe, but his difficulty yesterday was with a wild duck. Miller was driving over the Rosendale road not far south of the city line when a duck flew into the windshield of his car and left a badly shattered area of glass. The only injury reported was that apparently suffered by the duck.

Thruway Measure

resentative for the roads association, told the group of a survey he made which indicates strong Democratic support for the amendment.

Among the Democratic county chairmen contacted by Crabtree was Thomas J. Plunket of Ulster county. Crabtree reported Plunket told the association he was in favor of the amendment of the county.

Democratic chairmen in Suffolk, Nassau, Queens, Bronx, Richmond, Rockland, Greene and Putnam counties were also listed by Crabtree as supporting the proposed amendment. Several other counties are pending, and Dutchess is the only county where Crabtree was given a definite "no," he said.

Among the activities of the association on behalf of the amendment have been speeches before service clubs.

Director Is Present

Among those present at the meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel was former Assemblyman L. Judson Morhouse of Essex county, who resigned his legislative position on September 1 to become executive director of New York Good Roads Association, Inc.

Morhouse outlined the present highway problems in the state, noting that in the past 50 years New York has invested $3 billion in its highways, which according to the George Manning committee report are deteriorating to the point where the state faces the prospect of having to spend an additional $3.7 billion to restore them to good condition.

Henry McCardle, district governor of the roads group, said that Ulster county is fortunate in having the legislative representatives it has, adding that Senator Wicks' initiative "made it possible to get what we have" in the way of highway facilities.

McCardle added that the Good Roads Association is backing Amendment No. 4 "not to make a name for itself." The idea, he said, "is to serve the people."

Host for the meeting was Warren Knaust, president of Ulster County Chapter.

Facts Are Reported

Some facts about the Thruway brought out at the meeting:

The New York State Thruway when completed will stretch 535 miles and will cost about $500 million, compared to 118 miles of New Jersey State Turnpike constructed at a cost of $255 million.

Plans are being prepared by 2,400 engineers, and 32 separate consulting firms are participating in the project.

3,500 pieces of real estate have been acquired by the state.

18,000 men will have been employed in the Thruway's construction in four years. An additional 20,000 men will be employed by outside firms in making the necessary machinery, tools and materials.

7,300,000 barrels of cement will be used, and 92,000 tons of reinforcing steel.

The highway will have 525 bridges, including cross-overs, entries and exits.

Already completed are 18 miles of Thruway. Another 60 miles are under construction, and 60 additional miles are under contracts to be let this fall.

Next year, according to present plans, an additional 194 miles will be let to contract.

The Tarrytown bridge contract will be let in 1952, if present plans are not curtailed by the national emergency.

The Thruway will be self-liquidating and self-supporting.

The matter of the fee to be charged motorists using the Thruway was discussed thoroughly at the meeting, with no final recommendation made. It was emphasized that a mileage rate will undoubtedly be established for motorists who make infrequent use of the highway and prefer to pay on an individual trip basis rather than the flat year fee.

The yearly fee has not been adopted, it was pointed out, although latest reports are that a recommendation of $10 has been made. Although this rate is higher than originally contemplated, those present Thursday noon agreed that the fee would be more than offset by savings to motorists in gasoline, tires, accident potential and other factors. Plans are being made to work out definite figures on possible savings and to make these figures available to the public before the amendment is to be voted upon, it was learned. The savings are attributed to the fact that the highway will have no "red lights" or bottlenecks, and no steep grades or other time and gas consuming defects.

Two Crashes . . .

by Fenton Peebles, 40, of 32 East Union street, according to the report.

Peebles was arrested by Trooper E. J. Devine on a charge of reckless driving and posted $50 bail for appearance Oct. 13 before Justice of the Peace Roy Weber.

Highland Accident

The accident near Highland happened at 2:15 p. m. Thursday when an automobile driven by Carlisle B. Rathburn, Jr., 27, of Syracuse, was struck head-on by another car driven by Daniel Williams, 26, of Orlando, Fla., state police of the Highland station reported.

Rathburn was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie suffering from concussion and abrasions to the temple, troopers said. Hospital authorities today reported his condition as "good."

Treated for injuries were Williams, who suffered a possible knee fracture and a cut on his nose; John Willis, 27, of Winter Garden, Fla., cut over his right eye; George Walker, 27, of Orlando, Fla., bruised left shoulder, and Robert Seaver, 37, of Pine Tree drive, Poughkeepsie, cuts and bruises, according to the state police report.

Daniel Williams was arrested on two vehicle and traffic law charges. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace William Upright, he pleaded guilty and was fined $20 on a reckless driving charge and an additional $5 on a charge of being an unlicensed operator. Payment of the $5 fine was suspended. Also arrested was the owner of the vehicle, John Willis, who was fined $10 by Justice Upright on a charge of permitting unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle.

Volcanic peaks, one 7,000 feet high, dominate the Azores.

Reds Charge New

have set up in Panmunjom across the highway from the small group of huts that make up the village.

He said both sides agreed to safe conduct of delegations and their personnel to the site from Munsan and Kaesong. It's eight miles by road from Kaesong, 13 from Munsan.

Nuckols did not use the words "neutral area" or "neutrality." He spoke of "security areas" in which "no acts of armed force would take place."

Agreement Reached

The briefing officer said tentative agreement was reached that each side would provide "token forces" of military police for the conference site. He said each would supply less than 25. The MPs would bear small arms.

Nuckols said the Reds proposed security areas having a 1,000 yard radius around Panmunjom and 3,000 around Munsan.

U. S. Marine Col. James Murray, UN liaison officer, made a counter-proposal proposing those areas plus a 3,000 yard circle around the Red camp at Kaesong. The Communists had not mentioned Kaesong. Under their proposal it presumably would have retained its original truce site status with a five mile protective zone radiating around it.

Friday's communique and briefing were the first by the UN since the liaison officers began meeting this week. Nuckols said daily summaries would be issued, and, when necessary, he would elaborate.

Police Find Robot Assisting Bookies

West New York, N. J., Oct. 12 (AP)—Police have uncovered an elaborate scientific robot mechanism which enabled bookmakers to operate from an empty store here without using any manpower.

The device, employing short wave radio and telephone, was discovered yesterday in the store at 6708 Park avenue in a gambling raid by Hudson County Prosecutor Horace K. Roberson's aides.

At first, an old desk and a dial telephone were the only objects the raiders noticed in the store. Further search, however, turned up a short wave receiving and transmitting set neatly hidden under a loose wooden step at the rear of the store.

The scientific bookmaking setup was explained by authorities as operating in this manner:

Incoming calls were transmitted by means of an illegal hookup of telephone wires with the short wave set to another radio receiver located either in a car or somewhere nearby.

A muffler cut off the telephone bell. An automatic clock, attached to the short wave set limited the telephone call operations from 10:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. automatically shutting off the set outside those time periods.

Didn't Turn Off Set

The automatic shutoff made it unnecessary for the bookmakers to visit the premises to turn off the set.

Questioned by Roberson and Assistant County Prosecutor Abraham Sepenuk, the owner of the premises said he rented the store to two men in July. He said although the men had not moved in any stock or used the store for retail purposes, they continued to pay rent.

Authorities intercepted about $700 in horse race bets, all from New York, within a short time.

Roberson said he would call in the Federal Communications Commission, which has devices for locating illegal radio sets.

Meanwhile, John Doe warrants were issued for the two unidentified renters.

Judge Was Figure Who Paved Way Against Finnegan

St. Louis, Oct. 12 (AP)—A 73-year-old jurist was the key figure in events leading to the indictment of James P. Finnegan on charges of accepting bribes.

He is U. S. District Judge George H. Moore.

Both men are former collectors of internal revenue here. Both are Democrats.

A federal court grand jury indicted Finnegan, personal friend of President Truman, on five counts yesterday. Finnegan resigned his collector's job last April.

On March 1, a month and a half after the jury was impaneled, Judge Moore ordered it to look into handling of tax cases in eastern Missouri.

A few days later it was learned the judge had received a letter from a former tax intelligence unit agent which voiced suspicions that some cases were "fixed."

After three weeks' work the jury told the court in a partial report it could find no wrongdoing.

Wouldn't Take 'No'

Judge Moore wouldn't take no for an answer. He bluntly declared in court the jurors hadn't had help from "certain officials" in their work. He did not name names or departments.

He told the jurors to try again and told them where to find what they were seeking.

On May 7 Sen. Williams (R.-Del.) charged on the Senate floor that the Justice and Treasury Departments withheld damaging evidence against Finnegan despite requests for co-operation in the investigation.

Finnegan was charged in two counts with accepting two $250 checks from the Karol Kell Garment Company, which since has gone out of business, at a time the firm had pending a tax delinquency case which by law "might be brought before him (Finnegan) in his official capacity."

The other three counts accused Finnegan of violating a law by accepting pay for services involving controversies in which the United States was a party.

'Told to Resign'

Three days ago Finnegan told the House Ways and Means Committee he tried to resign as collector on three occasions and in 1950 was told by President Truman to stay on because there was no replacement.

Mr. Truman said at a press conference yesterday that he was unable to recall whether he had ever asked Finnegan not to resign, but added, they said I did. He did not identify "they."

The President also said he was unaware of Finnegan's outside activities until recently. Finnegan has said he practiced law while on the federal payroll.

Mr. Truman remarked that he opposed outside activities by internal revenue collectors.

If convicted, Finnegan could be sentenced to three years on each bribery count and fined three times the amount of money received, or both. On the other charges, the maximum penalty is two years in prison or $10,000 fine, or both, on each count.

Finnegan has not been located. He left Washington Wednesday after testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Judge Moore set his bond at $5,000. He ordered the grand jury recessed "subject to recall." The life of the jury had been extended until March, 1952.

Duck Didn't Duck

City Marshal Benson V. Miller has had some wild goose chases with legal papers since he has been a city court employe, but his difficulty yesterday was with a wild duck. Miller was driving over the Rosendale road not far south of the city line when a duck flew into the windshield of his car and left a badly shattered area of glass. The only injury reported was that apparently suffered by the duck.

Thruway Measure

resentative for the roads association, told the group of a survey he made which indicates strong Democratic support for the amendment.

Among the Democratic county chairmen contacted by Crabtree was Thomas J. Plunket of Ulster county. Crabtree reported Plunket told the association he was in favor of the amendment of the county.

Democratic chairmen in Suffolk, Nassau, Queens, Bronx, Richmond, Rockland, Greene and Putnam counties were also listed by Crabtree as supporting the proposed amendment. Several other counties are pending, and Dutchess is the only county where Crabtree was given a definite "no," he said.

Among the activities of the association on behalf of the amendment have been speeches before service clubs.

Director Is Present

Among those present at the meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel was former Assemblyman L. Judson Morhouse of Essex county, who resigned his legislative position on September 1 to become executive director of New York Good Roads Association, Inc.

Morhouse outlined the present highway problems in the state, noting that in the past 50 years New York has invested $3 billion in its highways, which according to the George Manning committee report are deteriorating to the point where the state faces the prospect of having to spend an additional $3.7 billion to restore them to good condition.

Henry McCardle, district governor of the roads group, said that Ulster county is fortunate in having the legislative representatives it has, adding that Senator Wicks' initiative "made it possible to get what we have" in the way of highway facilities.

McCardle added that the Good Roads Association is backing Amendment No. 4 "not to make a name for itself." The idea, he said, "is to serve the people."

Host for the meeting was Warren Knaust, president of Ulster County Chapter.

Facts Are Reported

Some facts about the Thruway brought out at the meeting:

The New York State Thruway when completed will stretch 535 miles and will cost about $500 million, compared to 118 miles of New Jersey State Turnpike constructed at a cost of $235 million.

Plans are being prepared by 2,400 engineers, and 32 separate consulting firms are participating in the project.

3,500 pieces of real estate have been acquired by the state.

18,000 men will have been employed in the Thruway's construction in four years. An additional 20,000 men will be employed by outside firms in making the necessary machinery, tools and materials.

7,300,000 barrels of cement will be used, and 92,000 tons of reinforcing steel.

The highway will have 525 bridges, including cross-overs, entries and exits.

Already completed are 18 miles of Thruway. Another 60 miles are under construction, and 60 additional miles are under contracts to be let this fall.

Next year, according to present plans, an additional 194 miles will be let to contract.

The Tarrytown bridge contract will be let in 1952, if present plans are not curtailed by the national emergency.

The Thruway will be self-liquidating and self-supporting.

The matter of the fee to be charged motorists using the Thruway was discussed thoroughly at the meeting, with no final recommendation made. It was emphasized that a mileage rate will undoubtedly be established for motorists who make infrequent use of the highway and prefer to pay on an individual trip basis rather than the flat year fee.

The yearly fee has not been adopted, it was pointed out, although latest reports are that a recommendation of $10 has been made. Although this rate is higher than originally contemplated, those present Thursday noon agreed that the fee would be more than offset by savings to motorists in gasoline, tires, accident potential and other factors. Plans are being made to work out definite figures on possible savings and to make these figures available to the public before the amendment is to be voted upon, it was learned. The savings are attributed to the fact that the highway will have no "red lights" or bottlenecks, and no steep grades or other time and gas consuming defects.

Two Crashes . . .

by Fenton Peebles, 40, of 32 East Union street, according to the report.

Peebles was arrested by Trooper E. J. Devine on a charge of reckless driving and posted $50 bail for appearance Oct. 13 before Justice of the Peace Roy Weber.

Highland Accident

The accident near Highland happened at 2:15 p. m. Thursday when an automobile driven by Carlisle B. Rathburn, Jr., 27, of Syracuse, was struck head-on by another car driven by Daniel Williams, 26, of Orlando, Fla., state police of the Highland station reported.

Rathburn was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie suffering from concussion and abrasions to the temple, troopers said. Hospital authorities today reported his condition as "good."

Treated for injuries were Williams, who suffered a possible knee fracture and a cut on his nose; John Willis, 27, of Winter Garden, Fla., cut over his right eye; George Walker, 27, of Orlando, Fla., bruised left shoulder, and Robert Seaver, 37, of Pine Tree drive, Poughkeepsie, cuts and bruises, according to the state police report.

Daniel Williams was arrested on two vehicle and traffic law charges. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace William Upright, he pleaded guilty and was fined $20 on a reckless driving charge and an additional $5 on a charge of being an unlicensed operator. Payment of the $5 fine was suspended. Also arrested was the owner of the vehicle, John Willis, who was fined $10 by Justice Upright on a charge of permitting unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle.

Reds Charge New

have set up in Panmunjom across the highway from the small group of huts that make up the village.

He said both sides agreed to safe conduct of delegations and their personnel to the site from Munsan and Kaesong. It's eight miles by road from Kaesong, 13 from Munsan.

Nuckols did not use the words "neutral area" or "neutrality." He spoke of "security areas" in which "no acts of armed force would take place."

Agreement Reached

The briefing officer said tentative agreement was reached that each side would provide "token forces" of military police for the conference site. He said each would supply less than 25. The MPs would bear small arms.

Nuckols said the Reds proposed security areas having a 1,000 yard radius around Panmunjom and 3,000 around Munsan.

U. S. Marine Col. James Murray, UN liaison officer, made a counter-proposal proposing those areas plus a 3,000 yard circle around the Red camp at Kaesong. The Communists had not mentioned Kaesong. Under their proposal it presumably would have retained its original truce site status with a five mile protective zone radiating around it.

Friday's communique and briefing were the first by the UN since the liaison officers began meeting this week. Nuckols said daily summaries would be issued, and, when necessary, he would elaborate.

Police Find Robot Assisting Bookies

West New York, N. J., Oct. 12 (AP)—Police have uncovered an elaborate scientific robot mechanism which enabled bookmakers to operate from an empty store here without using any manpower.

The device, employing short wave radio and telephone, was discovered yesterday in the store at 6708 Park avenue in a gambling raid by Hudson County Prosecutor Horace K. Roberson's aides.

At first, an old desk and a dial telephone were the only objects the raiders noticed in the store. Further search, however, turned up a short wave receiving and transmitting set neatly hidden under a loose wooden step at the rear of the store.

The scientific bookmaking setup was explained by authorities as operating in this manner:

Incoming calls were transmitted by means of an illegal hookup of telephone wires with the short wave set to another radio receiver located either in a car or somewhere nearby.

A muffler cut off the telephone bell. An automatic clock, attached to the short wave set limited the telephone call operations from 10:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. automatically shutting off the set outside those time periods.

Didn't Turn Off Set

The automatic shutoff made it unnecessary for the bookmakers to visit the premises to turn off the set.

Questioned by Roberson and Assistant County Prosecutor Abraham Sepenuk, the owner of the premises said he rented the store to two men in July. He said although the men had not moved in any stock or used the store for retail purposes, they continued to pay rent.

Authorities intercepted about $700 in horse race bets, all from New York, within a short time.

Roberson said he would call in the Federal Communications Commission, which has devices for locating illegal radio sets.

No Cause Verdict Given in Court

A verdict of no cause for action was returned late Thursday afternoon in the $50,000 action brought in Supreme Court by Robert Fenton of Kingston against Anthony J. Barra of Catskill, an action for personal injuries.

Judge Andrew J. Cook and Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for the defendant and William A. Kaercher was attorney of record for plaintiff with Francis Martocci trial counsel.

Fenton lost the sight of his left eye in the accident and also suffered injury to his right eye and various contusions and concussions in the accident, which happened on March 21, 1950 as he was driving south on Route 9W at the junction of West Bridge street in Catskill. Fenton alleged the Barra car had stopped on the pavement when the left rear tire went flat and that Barra was out of the car standing by the car looking at the tire when the accident happened. Fenton claimed there was no flare or signal displayed. He claimed another car was ahead of his car and passed the stopped car on the left and when he tried to go right his car left the road, struck a cable and pole and went off the road into a snow bank.

Barra denied he had a flat tire or was out of his car. He testified he was in the center of the road signaling to make a left turn after another car had passed when the accident happened. The police officer who arrived at the scene after the accident testified there was no flat tire on the Barra car when he arrived.

The Azores total 880 square miles in area.

The climate of the Azores varies from 45 to 86 degrees.

Health, Education Discussed at YW Women's Meeting

John Henry Martin, principal of Kingston High School, and Miss Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association spoke yesterday before members of the YWCA Women's Club. Mr. Martin was introduced by Mrs. William Ochs, program chairman, while Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, club president, introduced Miss Murphy.

Uncovering the problems of today's high school, Mr. Martin told members: "Our efforts are directed toward adjusting the children of today to today's changing world."

In continuing, he enumerated various changes, which range from a significantly altered domestic scene, to a barely rudimentary difference in educational precepts.

"At present," Mr. Martin concluded, "educational administrators are engaged primarily with trying to build a school where the students will be genuinely interested in helping one another."

Miss Murphy spoke in behalf of the Patients' Service Committee, and Organization, established 43 years ago to demonstrate and promote general health in the community.

Social, Not Medical

Miss Murphy explained that tuberculosis is a social, rather than a medical problem, a problem necessitating a comprehensive program of services, including occupational therapy and rehabilitation.

She also appealed for voluntary workers to assist with clerical duties at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, Golden Hill, which would allow nurses there to devote more time to professional services. Women's Club members who are able to give two hours weekly to this service have been asked to contact Mrs. Terwilliger.

Miss Florence Cordts announced that formation of a book group was progressing, and explained there is still room for additional members.

The Women's Club November 8th meeting will be devoted to social service, with Mrs. James Rowe as chairman. Mrs. Rowe has asked members to donate two-yard pieces of material. Material, which may be left at the YWCA, should be suitable for children's dresses.

Mrs. Gertrude M. Bartlett was welcomed to membership at the close of the meeting. During the social hour, refreshments were served by Mrs. W. Dean Hays and her committee: the Mmes. Harry Reppert, S. Maxwell Taylor, David Terry and M. R. Coutant.

NICE THOUGHT

This morning a reader explains: "How can we hurt our relatives and friends least in this case? We're not having a wedding except for the immediate families and perhaps six or seven oldest friends. Most people know that we intend to get married soon, but of course they do not know our plans. I think it might come as a shock to them merely to receive engraved announcements while we are away on our extended wedding trip. Would there be some way we could let everyone know ahead of time that we are being married and when and why they are not being invited? No Cause Verdict Given in Court

A verdict of no cause for action was returned late Thursday afternoon in the $50,000 action brought in Supreme Court by Robert Fenton of Kingston against Anthony J. Barra of Catskill, an action for personal injuries.

Judge Andrew J. Cook and Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for the defendant and William A. Kaercher was attorney of record for plaintiff with Francis Martocci trial counsel.

Fenton lost the sight of his left eye in the accident and also suffered injury to his right eye and various contusions and concussions in the accident, which happened on March 21, 1950 as he was driving south on Route 9W at the junction of West Bridge street in Catskill. Fenton alleged the Barra car had stopped on the pavement when the left rear tire went flat and that Barra was out of the car standing by the car looking at the tire when the accident happened. Fenton claimed there was no flare or signal displayed. He claimed another car was ahead of his car and passed the stopped car on the left and when he tried to go right his car left the road, struck a cable and pole and went off the road into a snow bank.

Barra denied he had a flat tire or was out of his car. He testified he was in the center of the road signaling to make a left turn after another car had passed when the accident happened. The police officer who arrived at the scene after the accident testified there was no flat tire on the Barra car when he arrived.

The Azores total 880 square miles in area.

GREATER DRIVING PLEASURE

Health, Education Discussed at YW Women's Meeting

John Henry Martin, principal of Kingston High School, and Miss Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association spoke yesterday before members of the YWCA Women's Club. Mr. Martin was introduced by Mrs. William Ochs, program chairman, while Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, club president, introduced Miss Murphy.

Uncovering the problems of today's high school, Mr. Martin told members: "Our efforts are directed toward adjusting the children of today to today's changing world."

In continuing, he enumerated various changes, which range from a significantly altered domestic scene, to a barely rudimentary difference in educational precepts.

"At present," Mr. Martin concluded, "educational administrators are engaged primarily with trying to build a school where the students will be genuinely interested in helping one another."

Miss Murphy spoke in behalf of the Patients' Service Committee, and Organization, established 43 years ago to demonstrate and promote general health in the community.

Social, Not Medical

Miss Murphy explained that tuberculosis is a social, rather than a medical problem, a problem necessitating a comprehensive program of services, including occupational therapy and rehabilitation.

She also appealed for voluntary workers to assist with clerical duties at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, Golden Hill, which would allow nurses there to devote more time to professional services. Women's Club members who are able to give two hours weekly to this service have been asked to contact Mrs. Terwilliger.

Miss Florence Cordts announced that formation of a book group was progressing, and explained there is still room for additional members.

The Women's Club November 8th meeting will be devoted to social service, with Mrs. James Rowe as chairman. Mrs. Rowe has asked members to donate two-yard pieces of material. Material, which may be left at the YWCA, should be suitable for children's dresses.

Mrs. Gertrude M. Bartlett was welcomed to membership at the close of the meeting. During the social hour, refreshments were served by Mrs. W. Dean Hays and her committee: the Mmes. Harry Reppert, S. Maxwell Taylor, David Terry and M. R. Coutant.

Skeletons of sea creatures are found in the Himalaya mountains, 17,000 feet above sea level.

NICE THOUGHT

This morning a reader explains: "How can we hurt our relatives and friends least in this case? We're not having a wedding except for the immediate families and perhaps six or seven oldest friends. Most people know that we intend to get married soon, but of course they do not know our plans. I think it might come as a shock to them merely to receive engraved announcements while we are away on our extended wedding trip. Would there be some way we could let everyone know ahead of time that we are being married and when and why they are not being invited? It would be impossible to write letters and tell everyone involved. I mean, is there some more general, yet personal way?"

You can be quite frank about it with your neighbors, relatives and friends and tell them that the wedding is going to include none but your immediate families and your fewest life-long friends. Send this notice to your local newspaper, too. Then send your announcements afterwards. In this way no one can possibly he hurt.

R.S.V.P. Too Formal

Dear Mrs. Post: Is is incorrect to add R.s.v.p. at the bottom of a personal note of invitation? How else can we get people to answer without asking them more bluntly than with these initials?

Answer: You can write "please let me know as soon as possible." On the other hand, why not telephone your invitation and at the same time receive your answer?

Mother Is Hostess

Dear Mrs. Post: At my sister's wedding rehearsal the minister was introduced to all the women present. He shook hands with all of them while they were sitting down. But when he shook hands with my mother she stood up. She was the only woman who did. Was she right or wrong?

Answer: She was right because she was the hostess.

Rise to Toast?

Dear Mrs. Post: Do all the wedding guests rise during the toast to the bride and groom?

Answer: Correctly in most localities, they do.
